RESOLUTION, DISCOURAGING THE INTRODUCTION OF BILLS NOT WITHIN THE GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

Mr. SCOTT offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, November 13, 1933.

Whereas, The Constitution, Article III, Section 25, provides that "When the General Assembly shall be convened in special session, there shall be no legislation upon subjects other than those designated in the proclamation of the Governor calling such session;" and

Whereas, This provision is not directory but mandatory because the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth has held that any law passed at a Special Session must be within the subjects set forth in the Governor's proclamation, otherwise it is unconstitutional; and

Whereas, The work of the General Assembly can be handled more efficiently and expeditiously if bills introduced relate only to the subjects of legislation specified in the Governor's proclamation; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the members of the Senate of Pennsylvania that Senators should refrain from introducing legislative bills, clearly not within the subjects announced in the Governor's proclamation, in order to save the time of the Senate, and to avoid the expense of printing bills which cannot become valid laws.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO THE CANCELLATION OF CONTINUING CONTRACTS

Mr. COYNE offered the following resolution, which was twice read and referred to the Committee on Judiciary General:

In the Senate, November 13, 1933.

Whereas, Many persons who have heretofore contracted to furnish furniture, stationery, food-stuffs, fuel and other materials and supplies to the Commonwealth and to the respective cities, counties, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, school districts and poor districts have become parties to or have been included within and are abiding by codes of fair competition, agreements, or licenses approved, issued or prescribed under the National Industrial Recovery Act, and

Whereas, By reason of the operation of such codes, agreements and licenses, upon such contractors and upon others with whom they deal the cost to such contractors of the goods which they are required to supply to the Commonwealth or to municipal subdivisions thereof has so increased that it is inequitable to compel continued compliance with the contracts on the part of the contractors; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, hereby authorize any officer, department, board, or commission of this Commonwealth who shall have made any existing contract for materials or supplies, and any city, county, borough, incorporated town, township, school district or poor district, with the written consent of the contractor and his sureties, to cancel any continuing contract for materials or supplies which requires the contractor to deliver goods at a contract price in excess of five hundred dollars ($500.00), over a period of thirty days or more after the date of the contract, and to relieve the contractor of liability for further performance thereunder. Provided, however, That such cancellation may be made only where the seller is a party to or is subject to and acting in accordance with any such code, agreement or license, and where the seller shall show, to the satisfaction of the public officers who signed and approved, or who were by law required to sign or approve the contract, that by reason of the operation of any such code, agreement, or license, or increased costs of materials purchased from others subject to similar agreements, codes or licenses, the seller's costs have so increased as to make it inequitable to require further performanc of the contract.

Further resolved, That upon the cancellation of any such contract, the proper public officials shall have authority to enter into new contracts for similar materials or supplies, in substantially the same manner as was required for awarding and execution of the original contract.

Further resolved, That the General Assembly hereby declares its purpose forthwith to enact suitable legislation more fully to effectuate this resolution and to relieve all officers, departments, boards, commissions or other bodies from all liability for acting in accordance with this resolution.

Further resolved, That this resolution shall be effective immediately upon its approval by the Governor.

SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid upon the table.

REMARKS BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. Ladies and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:

The convening of this extraordinary session marks to date one of the most serious times in Pennsylvania history. Coming as we do, from all sections of our State, it really means that in a more or less degree, there must be a diversity of opinion. However, it is my firm belief that the people of Pennsylvania are demanding that we execute the important business before us to the end that the people themselves may be benefited and after that is accomplished we should promptly adjourn this session.

This is no time for members to put personal benefits above the things that are good for our people. Party ideas should be swept into the background and no political quarrels permitted during this session. If constructive legislation is accomplished in short order, after due and careful consideration, we must of necessity earn the gratitude of our people.

I thank you sincerely for the high honors you have conferred upon me in the past. In conducting the work and deliberation of the session upon which we enter today, my sole aim and purpose is to discharge my duties with fairness and fidelity to you, credit to myself and benefit to the best interests of the Commonwealth.

I beg that you will give your presiding officer, in the discharge of his manifold and intricate duties, your earnest cordial and generous assistance in maintaining order and facilitating the business of the House.

Mr. HUTTON offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

LEAVE OF ABSENCE GRANTED CHIEF CLERK

Office of the Chief Clerk
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Chester, Pa., November 8, 1933.

Honorable Grover C. Talbot, Speaker, House of Representatives, Harrisburg, Pa.

My Dear Speaker:

For reasons which you are familiar with I fear I will be absent at the opening of the Extraordinary Session of the Legislature, and would appreciate it very much if you would grant me a leave of absence of thirty days, without pay.

As far as I know everything is in readiness for the opening of the session, Monday, November 13, 1933, noon.

Have taken up with Mr. Thorn in the Secretary of the Commonwealth's office the matter of expediting the returns for Members of the House from the several counties caused by deaths and resignations. I feel their certificates will be in on time.

If there should be anything that you think I have overlooked kindly take it up with Miss Barnett, who will take care of affairs in my absence.

An early reply will be appreciated.

I hope to be in Harrisburg the last of the week and trust to see you.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) E. F. WHITE,
Chief Clerk.

November 10, 1933.

Eugene F. White, Chief Clerk, House of Representatives, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. White:

I am in receipt of your letter asking for a leave of absence for thirty days as Chief Clerk, during the coming Special Session.

It was thoughtful of you to attend to the various details mentioned in your letter to assure a smooth working of the preliminary procedure of the House.

While under the circumstances your request seems entirely reasonable and proper, I am convinced after studying the law, that as Speaker I have no authority to grant you a leave of absence but that this is an action which can only be taken by the Members of the House who elected you as Chief Clerk. Accordingly, I shall lay your letter before the House in the belief that your request will be granted by the Members.

Sincerely yours,
GROVER C. TALBOT,
Speaker.

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the Chief Clerk be granted leave of absence for thirty days from today without pay.

The motion was agreed to.

Whereas, These powers and duties conferred by the rules cannot be legally delegated to others; therefore be it

RESOLUTION

BILLS INTRODUCED TO BE WITHIN CALL

Mr. HUTTON offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, November 13, 1933.

Whereas, The Constitution, Article III, Section 25, provides that "When the General Assembly shall be convened in special session, there shall be no legislation upon subjects other than those designated in the proclamation of the Governor calling such session;" and

Whereas, This provision is not directory but mandatory because the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth has held that any law passed at a special session must be within the subjects set forth in the Governor's proclamation, otherwise it is unconstitutional; and

Whereas, The work of the General Assembly can be handled more efficiently and expeditiously if bills introduced relate only to the subjects of legislation specified in the Governor's proclamation; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the members of the House of Representatives that members should refrain from introducing legislative bills, clearly not within the subjects announced in the Governor's proclamation, in order to save the time of the House, and to avoid the expense of printing bills which cannot become valid laws.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, November 13, 1933.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That a committee of three on the part of the Senate be appointed to act with a similar committee on the part of the House of Representatives (if the House shall appoint such committee), to escort His Excellency, the Governor, to the Hall of the House to address the Members of the General Assembly in Joint Session, Monday, November 13, 1933, at 3 o'clock, pursuant to a resolution already adopted by the Senate and House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE TO WAIT UPON THE SENATE

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a committee to wait upon the Senate, Messrs. George W. Williams, Long, and Schrock.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair after consultation with the members of the Rules Committee agrees with them in their belief that this will probably be a short and business-like session, and has decided that it will not be necessary for the issuance of cards to privilege visitors on the floor of the House. The Speaker, however, requests the members to refrain from permitting their friends and visitors to sit in their seats and again requests that the members assist the Chair in the maintenance of order during the session.

The Chair requests the newly elected members, sworn in this morning, to leave in the Speaker's Office their preference of five committees that they desire to serve upon and asks that this be done before this day closes.

The same Committee rooms will be available for the Committees as were used in the regular session of 1933.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the newly appointed employes of the House to proceed at once to the Speaker's Office and be sworn in.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair will declare a recess until 2.45 o'clock p. m. today. Are there objections. The Chair hears none and a recess was declared (at 12.59 p. m.) until 2.45 o'clock p. m. today.

AFTER RECESS

The SPEAKER (Grover C. Talbot) in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The time of recess having expired the House will be in order.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO ESCORT SENATE

Mr. HEFFERNAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, November 13, 1933.

Resolved, That the Chair appoint a committee of two to escort the Members of the Senate to the Hall of the House on Monday, November 13, 1933, at 3.00 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of attending a joint session of the General Assembly.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE TO ESCORT SENATE

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a Committee to escort the Members of the Senate to the Hall of the House for the purpose of attending the Joint Session, Messrs. Heffernan and Turner, and requests that they perform that duty promptly.

APPOINTMENT OF SPEAKER'S CLERK

The SPEAKER. Since the close of our regular session the Speaker has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of the Speaker's Clerk, Robert F. Sharpless. The Chair now announces the appointment of Mrs. Ann Sharpless of Delaware County as Speaker's Clerk to fill the vacancy created by the death of her husband.

REPORT AND DISCHARGE OF COMMITTEE

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, your committee appointed to escort the members of the Senate to the Hall of the House for the purpose of attending a Joint Session has performed that duty and the members of the Senate are now present.

The SPEAKER. The committee is discharged with the thanks of the House. The President of the Senate is invited to preside over the Joint Session of the General Assembly; the President Pro Tempore is invited to a seat on the rostrum and the members of the Senate will be seated in the chairs provided for them in the front of the House.

JOINT SESSION

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR EDWARD C. SHANNON PRESIDING

The SERGEANT-AT-ARMS OF THE SENATE. Mr. President, I have the honor to present to you the Committee appointed to escort the Governor of the Commonwealth to the Hall of the House to address the Joint Assembly.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I have the honor to present to you His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, who will address the Joint Session.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR SHANNON. Members of the General Assembly, the Chair has great honor in presenting His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, who will now address you.

ADDRESS OF THE GOVERNOR

GOVERNOR PINCHOT: Ladies and Gentlemen of the General Assembly:

I welcome you back to Harrisburg. I welcome your coming not only because action of great importance needs to be taken for the people of Pennsylvania, but also because many of you are old friends, and because I always enjoy my contact with you.

The people of this Commonwealth expect us to join in giving them fully, effectively, and promptly the legislation they need without regard to politics or personal choice. They want a short and harmonious session. I pledge myself to leave nothing undone to that end.

After seeking much advice from many sources, Republican and Democratic, Progressive and Conservative, wet and dry, I have tried to follow the will and the needs of the people in framing the call for this special session. Nothing has been included or excluded for political reasons. The best politics for all of us is to play no politics at all, but simply do what the people want done. A time like this, when millions are suffering as they have never suffered before, demands that this session shall bedevoted to the greatest good to the greatest number and to nothing else whatsoever.

There have been wide differences between this Administration and the Republican State Organization. It has been suggested that all differences should be forgotten during this extraordinary session and that the Senate, the House of Representatives, and the Governor should bury their respective hatchets and work in harmony for the best interests of all the people of our State.

On such a sensible proposition I am ready to meet you more than half way. As evidence of my good faith, I point to the conferences I have been holding with Organization leaders and others in an honest effort to reach an agreement on legislation before the session opened. As evidence of your good faith, I ask you to let political considerations go hang, and to join with me in a single-minded effort to serve the Commonwealth.

There is nothing you or I can do that will be more appreciated by the people than to deal with the questions before this session wholly and exclusively on their merits.

The number of subjects included in the call is far beyond my anticipation and my desire. Even so it has not been possible to admit many subjects upon which large groups of citizens desire action. Only necessary matters have been included.

LIQUOR CONTROL

The conferences held with drys, wets, and political leaders have resulted in ironing out differences on all essential points. It appears to be agreed that the saloon must not come back; that liquor must not be sold without restraint; that private profit from liquor must be reduced to the minimum; that sale not for consumption on the premises must be in the hands of the State; that the Judges must not be dragged back into liquor politics; that the price of liquor must be kept low enough to discourage bootlegging by making it unprofitable; that the principle of local option must be embodied in the liquor law; and that liquor must be taxed heavily enough to yield large revenue to the State but not heavily enough to encourage bootlegging.

The conference liquor control bill is drawn to keep liquor and politics apart. It will, I believe, be approved by sincere wets and sincere drys almost without exception. Apparently the only important opposition to any point of it will have to do with the provisions intended to keep liquor and politics apart by putting the distribution of liquor from the distillery to the consumer in original packages wholly in the control of the State.

It is contended that the distribution of liquor in original packages from the distilleries to the public should be in private hands, so that the profits may go to private persons instead of to the State for the relief of the taxpayer. Most important of all, although unspoken, is the desire that profits from the liquor business should thus be made available for campaign contributions and the maintenance of political machines.

This plan would plunge liquor again into politics, and bring back into the liquor business the element of private profit from which most of its evils sprang. I am against it, and I believe that the great majority of the people of the State are against it also.

Even if it were desirable to do so, we could not take over the distilleries because we could not pay for them. But we can take over the control of distribution in original packages, and we should.

It is of the first importance that there should be as little private profit as possible in the distribution of liquor, and especially that no one should be interested in stimulating the consumption of liquor in order to increase private gain.

I regard the co-operation of sincere wets and sincere drys for effective liquor control as most significant and most important, and I welcome it as a new force of great potency in the public interest.

It is generally believed that the date upon which repeal will become effective is December 5, 1933. Unless laws to control and tax liquor have been enacted by then, a flood of liquor unrestrained, uncontrolled, and contributing nothing to the State Treasury, will overflow and overwhelm the Commonwealth.

That the General Assembly would permit such a thing to happen is unthinkable. I do not doubt that you will protect our people from the consequences of a liquor flood.

There are today stored in Pennsylvania, according to the best estimates I have been able to secure, at least 12,500,000 proof gallons of whiskey. The Federal tax is only $1.10 per gallon. There is, therefore, no reason in the world why this whiskey should not pay to the Commanwealth of Pennsylvania a floor tax of $2.00 a proof gallon and thereby eliminate at once many of the financial difficulties under which this Commonwealth has been suffering because of the depression.

This tax would bear only upon whiskey made before repeal.

The chief purposes to which the floor tax on alcohol and liquor should be devoted are, in my opinion, first, keeping schools open; second, relief of bank depositors from the 4 mills tax, and third, co-operation with the Federal Government in setting up a State public works program.

I propose that the profits from State liquor stores shall be devoted exclusively to unemployment relief, old age assistance, and unemployment insurance, in the order named.

During the remainder of this biennium it will not be possible to devote any of the money to unemployment insurance, beyond the expenses of a legislative commission to work out a system for Pennsylvania. Appropriations can, however, be made at once for unemployment relief and old age assistance.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

The Public Service Commission was for years owned and operated by large public utility interests. During my first Administration I used every means in my power to take the Commission from the utilities and give it back to the people. In this endeavor I was defeated by the courts.

During my present term I have been able to appoint five out of seven of the present members of the Commission. Since October 1, 1932, my appointees have been in the majority.

These appointees are recognized without exception as men of the highest character and ability. They have earned the confidence not only of the people but also of the utilities, who have found that the present Commission gives public and utilities both a square deal without fear or favor.

It is only fair to all of my appointees and to the people that these appointments should be acted on by the Senate without further delay. I urge that you take immediate action. There can be neither reason nor justice in any further postponement.

These men were highly qualified by knowledge and experience when I appointed them. Their value to the people has since been increased by their direct experience as Commissioners. To drop them from the Commission would be a heavy loss to the people of the Commonwealth.

These Commissioners hold that it is the business of public servants to do whatever will promote the public interest and is not specifically forbidden. In that spirit, as the result of a resolution offered in 1932 by one of them, the Commission launched upon a campaign to obtain rate reductions by informal conferences instead of incurring the delay and expense of the formal procedure provided by law.

The law did not require them to hold these conferences. It was a purely voluntary exercise of their powers in the public interest. In spite of the loss of untility revenue due to the depression, the substantial increase of tax burdens, both State and Federal, and the increase of operating expenses through the requirements of NRA, the results have been amazing.

In a single year's work under this plan, the Commission has by informal procedure alone secured reductions of rates amounting to about $4,000,000 of annual savings to the public in their utility bills. In addition is the saving to the taxpayers of more than a million dollars which would have been the cost of formal procedure, to say nothing of an average delay of about four years per complaint.

It is of the utmost importance to the people of Pennsylvania that these savings to the people should be continued and increased, as they will be if the nominees now before the Senate are confirmed. The utilities themselves are coming to understand that these wise reductions increase profits, and thus further reductions are warranted.

Beyond all comparison the service of the Commission to the public is now greater than ever before. The work done on classified complaint and application cases in the year since October 1, 1932, includes 993 informal complaints adjusted to the satisfaction of the complainants, 259 formal complaints, and 3757 formal applications. Most of the latter were from men unable to prepare their own applications and too poor to travel to Harrisburg or hire attorneys. For their convenience hearings have been held in every corner of the Commonwealth and during this single year more than 7000 applicants have been helped in this way.

These are merely examples of the work done since my appointees became the majority. What they have succeeded in doing in a single year is a guarantee to the people of what they will do if they are continued in office. Their work is daily gathering momentum in its service and value to the public. I urge the Senate with all the force at my command to confirm these men at once.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

The average man's most serious cause of complaint against the public utilities is their excessive rates.

In spite of the present thirty-day provision of the law, public utilities can, and do, increase their rates about as they like, leaving to the public the cost and burden not only of providing that unjust rate increases are unjust, but of paying them while proof is being made.

That is putting the shoe on the wrong foot with a vengeance. The burden of justifying a raise in rates should be on the company which originates the raise at all times, and never on the consumer who must pay the bill.

I recommend legislation to prevent any company from increasing its rates until after such increase has been submitted to the Public Service Commission and permission has been given to put such increase in effect. No other single provision of law could so greatly help to get fair rates for the householders of Pennsylvania.

RECOVERY

The people of the United States, long in despair, are taking a new grip. The great depression is lifting and must continue to lift.

President Roosevelt's National Recovery Program must succeed.

The safety and welfare of all our people demand it. Therefore it is the duty of every individual and of every governmental body to co-operate wholeheartedly with the National Administration in this great enterprise.

Accordingly, even though State Governments are legally exempt, I have endeavored in every way practicable under our constitution and laws to bring the Government of this Commonwealth into full harmony and co-operation with the Federal Recovery Act. In this I am confident of the general support and approval of our people.

The National Recovery Act provides, first, for Federal public works to be constructed wholly at public expense; second, for Federal contributions for unemployment relief not to be repaid; and, third, for Federal participation in self-liquidating public and semi-public works, thirty per cent. to be contributed outright by the Federal Government and seventy per cent. to be repaid by the borrower.

Because of the constitutional and other limitations on the borrowing power of the Commonwealth and its subdivisions, and in spite of the most vigorous efforts to secure for our people the full benefits of the National Recovery Act, we have not yet been able to obtain our proper share of Federal funds.

But if legislation suggested by and worked out in co-operation with the Federal Public Works Administration can be passed, the limitations which have kept these benefits from our people can be removed. Bills for this purpose will be laid before you.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

On December 1st funds for unemployment relief, both State and National, would have been completely exhausted if the people of Pennsylvania had not adopted Constitutional Amendment No. 8, upon the pasage of which I congratulate the Commonwealth. The fact that this amendment received the largest vote among twelve, and that it passed by the heaviest majority, are testimonials to the good sense of our people, and to their strong support of relief for the unemployed. Without this amendment we could not have escaped an immediate and very heavy additional burden upon the taxpayers, for Pennsylvanians cannot be allowed to starve.

Since last June the number of totally unemployed in this Commonwealth has been reduced from over 1,300,000 to less than 1,000,000. That is real progress.

Nevertheless, the Federal Relief Administrator, in spite of the decrease in unemployment, has given public notice that he expects more families on relief during the coming winter. Because of the increasingly rapid exhaustion of family resources, I am sorry that I must agree with him. Less than half of the unemployed have been receiving relief.

Unless, therefore, recovery is far more prompt than there is reason to expect, additional funds for unemployment relief beyond the $20.000,000 made available by Amendment No. 3 will be required some time next spring. Such additional funds can be secured from a tax on liquor, just as a part of the relief funds already expended represent a tax on beer.

Accordingly, I recommend that the profits derived from State liquor stores be appropriated to unemployment relief to the extent of $20,000,000. I make this recommendation to avoid calling another extra session for relief in case such funds should be needed before the regular session of 1935, as I anticipate they will.

The Federal Government is now supplying funds for unemployment relief in Pennsylvania on a 50-50 basis. I have every reason to believe that this arrangement will apply to relief funds hereafter provided by the State.

Mistakes have been made in the administration of relief in Pennsylvania. They were inevitable. No undertaking so vast so new, and so rapidly organized could hope to avoid mistakes. The task of providing three meals a day for more than two million men, women, and children who deserve help, and sifting out an equal number who desire it but did not deserve it, is enormous and enormously difficult.

But in spite of all criticism, political and non-political, justified and unjustified, we may take genuine satisfaction when Federal authorities tell us that in no other State has relief been better handled than in Pennsylvania.

During the last two months the State Emergency Relief Board has spent comparatively more money than before for the investigation of cases on relief. By this increase in administrative cost, great sums have been saved to the State. For every dollar spent in such investigation about five dollars have been saved by the reduction of the relief load.

The number of cases on relief has been cut down in this way from 460,000 to 330,000—a total savings of $4,750,000. The increased cost of the investigation which brought about this saving was about $975.000. Because of it, it was possible to increase the average monthly grant per family from $13.03 in May to $15.58 in September. Compared with $33.85 in New York, it is clear that grants in Pennsylvania are too low.

The annual report of the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board will be in your hands before the end of this month.

WORK RELIEF ON THE ROADS

With the knowledge and consent of the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, and upon the recommendation of the State Emergency Relief Board, the sum of $7,500.000 of Federal funds has been allocated to work relief on the roads. About the same amount in State funds was needed to match it for the materials, machinery, and supervision without which roads cannot be built. This sum was set up out of the motor fund.

No other money spent for relief is so well spent as this. It gives men work at the going rate of wages in each locality, It takes them off direct relief, and in addition we get more roads. Apparently there is nothing our people want more.

ALL-THE-YEAR ROADS

The people generally, I believe, support the present plan of building low-cost hardsurface all-the-year durable roads. Since this Administration came into office more than 6500 miles of such roads have been completed at an average cost of $6000 per mile. An additional 1200 miles are authorized for construction. About 1600 miles of township roads have been reclaimed.

Low cost roads built and authorized amounted to 9300 miles, leaving only 7800 miles out of the original 20,000 still to be improved.

At the same time 2505 miles on the old highway system have been built or authorized. Of the 3000 miles unimproved in the old system when I took office less than 500 miles remain to be improved. In addition many miles have been widened to accommodate increased traffic. Certainly such an achievement proves that the main highways have not been neglected.

Since more money has thus been spent for the benefit of dwellers along the main highways and in centers of populations, it would be unfair for them to refuse the farmers the comparatively inexpensive improvement of their roads which they have so often been promised, and for which they have waited so long.

The authorization and construction of 11,800 miles of hard-surfaced road in less than three years by a single State has never had a parallel. Nothing like it has ever been done in the history of any nation. And this world's record for all time has been made in a period of deep depression when the revenues of the Highway Department had fallen below normal by tens of millions of dollars.

SECOND CLASS TOWNSHIP ROADS

At the last regular session I urged the General Assembly to take over the 53,000 miles of second class township roads. I made that recommendation because of the practically unanimous public approval of the results of the previous taking over of 20,000 miles. I repeat it now.

Legislation recently enacted turns the 53,000 miles over to the Commonwealth for a period of two years only, and limits the work which can be done upon them during these two years to maintenance and repair at the rate of about $105 per mile. That is not enough in some cases and too much in others. But the surplus cannot be spent where it is actually needed.

The present law does not provide for making these roads into hard-surfaced-all-the-year-around highways, as it should. Neither, and this is most important, does it give the farmers, the heaviest-taxed people in Pennsylvania, the tax relief to which they are clearly entitled. It would amount in perpetuity to about $9,000,000 a year.

The State should take over the 53,000 mlies. A bill for this purpose passed the House at the last session. It was subsequently exchanged for the present undesirable form. I recommend that the remaining second class township roads be taken over by the State for maintenance and construction.

TRUCKS

The highways of Pennsylvania are for the service of the people of Pennsylvania. They should be constructed, regulated, and restricted in whatever way will best promote the greatest good of the greatest number in this Commonwealth.

There are 1,410,000 licensed passenger automobiles in Pennsylvania. Automobile riders include at one time or another nearly every man, woman, and child in the State. The use of the highways by car owners and car riders, which means by substantially our whole population, is unjustly and unnecessarily hampered, interfered with, and made dangerous and uncomfortable by the increasing number of huge trucks.

There are but 18,317 of these trucks, trailers, and semi-trailers registered in Pennsylvania. They are, however, so constantly on the road, and their road manners are on the whole still so bad, that they constitute a nuisance out of all proportion to the small number of their owners.

Legal holidays and Saturday afternoons and Sundays are the times when the largest number of automobiles are on the road. It is no more than fair that the people who pay for the roads should at least have the right to the safe and unrestricted use of them during the few hours each year when they use them most.

I recommend that, with exceptions to be controlled by special permits, no truck longer than 33 feet, with a gross weight of more than 20,000 pounds, no truck and trailer longer than 45 feet, and weighing more than 30,000 pounds, shall be allowed to travel on any State Highway in the Commonwealth between 12:00 noon on Saturday and 12:00 midnight on Sunday, or on any legal holiday.

BANKING LAWS

It is of grave importance that the laws of Pennsylvania should be brought into conformity with the Federal laws recently enacted for the safety of depositors in banks. The Banking Code passed by the last session of the Legislature corrected many deficiences in our laws. But the Federal legislation since then enacted has made additional changes necessary.

One of the most conspicuous and unjustified special privileges in Pennsylvania is the exemption of private banks from the supervision of the State Banking Department. I recommend that this special privilege be removed and that private banks, like State banks, be subjected to State supervsion.

Our banking laws should be so amended as to bring them into harmony with Federal legislation for the protection of the depositor.

There is much justified opposition to the 4 mills tax on the interest on bank deposits. The money anticipated from this tax has already been advanced and spent for unemployment relief. If the 4 mills tax is to be repealed, another source must provide the $8,000,000 this tax was expected to provide.

I recommend that it be repealed and that $8,000,000 be taken from the floor tax on liquor to replace it.

RELIEF FOR TAXPAYERS AND DEBTORS

Pennsylvania like every other State, is filled with distressed owners of mortgaged properties, taxpayers unable to find the means to pay, and persons in great trouble because of debt. I recommend that they be given the careful and friendly attention of the General Assembly.

SCHOOLS

Unless we help them, shrinkage of local revenues will, I am informed, lead to the closing of several hundred schools in this Commonwealth by the first of January, and thus deprive many thousands of young Pennsylvanians of the schooling which is their right. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania cannot afford to let these children suffer.

I recommend that an emergency appropriation of $5,000,000 be made from the proceeds of the alcohol floor tax to meet the immediate emergency.

Further, I recommend the enactment of a gradual income tax devoted exclusively to school purposes. Real estate in this Commonwealth cannot and should not continue to carry the whole increasing load of school taxation.

The graduated income tax is the fairest of all taxes because it bears most heavily on those who are best able to pay. Many other States are using it. There is every reason why Pennsylvania should lighten the burden of real estate taxation for school purposes and avoid the danger of closed schools by adopting a graduated income tax. Many other States have such a tax already.

MILK CONTROL

Milk producers and milk consumers in Pennsylvania have long suffered unjustly from an unfair distribution of costs and profits. On the whole, many customers have paid too much, many distributors have profited too much, and many farmers have received less than they should for their milk.

Now that new milk agreements are proposed, it is worse than ridiculous that the milk distributors, some of whom have been making huge profits even in this time of depression, should have their profits increased by increasing the spread between what the farmer receives and what the consumer pays.

The milk question is extremely complicated. To deal fairly with consumer, producer, and dealer much knowledge, constant investigation, and constant readjustment will be required. The profits of the dealers should be restricted to a reasonable point, the receipts of the farmers should be increased to a reasonable point, and the cost of milk to the consumer should be kept down to a reasonable point.

I recommend the creation of a Milk Control Board.

CLEAN ELECTIONS

It is obvious that cheating at elections could be immensely reduced if every candidate knew in advance that if he cheated it would cost him his election. To punish little men far down the line while the candidate for whom the cheating is done retains his office does not stop election frauds.

I recommend the passage of a law under which the candidate who knowingly violates or permits to be violated any election law shall be disqualified for taking office, and that the candidate who received the next highest number of votes shall be seated in his place.

One of the most fruitful sources of fraud in elections is the requirement for constant renewal of the registration of the voter. It has long been recognized that permanent registration promotes clean elections. The elimination of the tax qualification for voting has removed one obstacle to its practical operation. Under a permanent system of registration the whole year is available for purging the lists instead of a few weeks just before election.

I recommend that the protection of permanent registration be extended to all city voters. The call opens the door also to other election safeguards.

CHILD LABOR

The people of the United States in the National Recovery Act and in certain codes adopted under it have recognized the principle of protecting the older workers and the children themselves against child labor. At a time when there is not work enough for adults, it is especially wrong that children should be permitted to work.

I recommend the adoption of the proposed Child Labor Amendment to the Federal Constitution by the present session of the General Assembly, and I urge the enactment of legislation to keep all children of 15 years and under in school and prevent them from taking their jobs away from adult workers.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

At the last special session a bill for a Constitutional Amendment to permit old age pensions passed the House and would have passed the Senate had it come to a vote. The majority for old age assistance in each House which existed then doubtless exists today.

The Attorney General advises me that an old age assistance system limited to indigent persons is constitutional under the Talbot Act decision of the Supreme Court, that if enacted it can be sustained, and that it can provide assistance in whatever sums the General Assembly may set for maintaining the beneficiaries in their homes.

I recommend that an old age assistance law be enacted at the present session. Already 26 States have enacted old age assistance legislation. The necessary money can be found from the profits of State liquor stores. It should not exceed eight millions per year.

Once the principle of old age assistance has been recognized by law, improvements in the details can be secured far more easily and much sooner than by waiting, as has been suggested, for a constitutional revision, its adoption by the people, and the enactment of the necessary legislation under it. Half or three-quarters of a loaf now is certainly better than a whole loaf in the distant and uncertain future.

SWEATSHOPS

The people of this Commonwealth are thoroughly familiar with the recent uncovering of sweatshop conditions in both the eastern and the western parts of the State. Sweatshop employers were paying full time employes in many cases at the rate of three dollars—two dollars—sometimes even less than one dollar, not per day, but per week.

Such conditions are utterly repugnant. They offend all decency. They plunge the sweated employes into misery, and they give the sweatshop owners an unfair and illegitimate advantage over decent employers who pay their workers decent wages.

The principal of the minimum wage is one of the foundations of the National Recovery Act.

In the interest both of the workers and of fairminded employers, I recommend the passage of a minimum wage law in this State.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

The principle of unemployment insurance is being rapidly adopted in State legislation. We have learned that the time to protect our people against unemployment and to protect the taxpayer against the enormous cost of unemployment relief is before the emergency is upon us.

I recommend a legislative study of this subject leading to the setting up of a fund for unemployment insurance. We must prepare now to arm ourselves against the next depression. It is too late for unemployment insurance to meet the present crisis. We must plan for the future.

COMPANY-PAID DEPUTY SHERIFFS

It is probable that more disorder and bloodshed in strikes has been due to company-paid private police and company-paid deputy sheriffs than to all other causes put together.

During the recent strike trouble in the soft coal fields, now happily ended, two strikers were killed and numerous others were shot or beaten by company-paid deputy sheriffs without substantial provocation.

And these wanton killings, shootings, and beatings narrowly missed plunging the whole of Western Pennsylvania into chaos and strife.

Keeping order in the strike area and protecting the rights of persons and property was made immeasurably harder by the presence and the actions of company-paid deputy sheriffs. Many of them were gunmen with criminal records, anxious only to create disorder so that their pay might go on.

Because of these deputies—and only because of them—I was forced to send the National Guard into the strike area. The cost of doing so falls upon the taxpayers, who did nothing to bring this situation about, and not on the companies, who did everything.

If there had not been a single company-paid deputy in the whole strike area there would have been less disorder, less property would have been damaged, and far less people would have been hurt.

These men did not prevent trouble. They produced it. They were appointed at the request of the coal companies, largely selected by the coal companies, entirely paid by the coal companies, and they took orders not from the legally appointed peace officers of the county or the Commonwealth, but from the officials of the coal companies.

It is reported by the State Police that the wanton killing at Gates was upon the direct orders of the superintendent of one of the mines of the H. C. Frick Coal and Coke Company.

Company-paid deputy sheriffs are unknown in the eastern half of our Pennsylvania coal fields. If they are not necessary in the East, they are not necessary in the West. The anthracite operators find the needs of their situation fully met by watchmen or guards, whose jurisdiction does not extend beyond company property.

None of the recent killings in the safe coal fields took place on company property—and none of them would have taken place except for the authority of company-paid deputy sheriffs to act outside of company property.

Under the present system the soft coal and steel companies of Western Pennsylvania have set up private military establishments of their own, recruited in part from men discharged for cause from the State Police. These private armies of deputies are uniformed, officered, armed and provided with machine gune and gas bombs. They are trained to look for trouble, and they are eager to find it. Their existence is a constant threat against the peace and good order of this Commonwealth.

In 1931 we abolished the company-paid private policeman. The present session will, I hope, abolish the company-paid deputy sheriff.

I recommend the passage of legislation to prevent any deputy sheriff from being paid except by the county in which he is employed, or from acting except under the orders of the lawfully constituted public authorities.

A number of subjects included in the call have not been discussed in this message lest it should be too long. They will be brought before the General Assembly in other ways.

I have outlined, as briefly as I could, the problems we face. These problems look difficult at first glance. But they are not difficult. I concede that there may be some honest difference of opinion on some of them. But if we keep our eyes trained on one thing—the public good—and remember that the public good must come first, we shall quickly solve every problem.

The only bills prepared by the Attorney General which will be introduced today relate to the vitally important subjects of control and taxation of liquor and recovery from the depression. Bills dealing with liquor will be introduced in the House, bills dealing with recovery will be introduced in the Senate. I urge that these bills be given the right of way in both Houses.

It is unnecessary to remind you that it will be good sense for all of us to do what we believe the majority of the people want done, and do it quickly.

To that end I pledge myself. I ask the same spirit from you. Working together unselfishly we can do great things for the Commonwealth in these next few weeks.

The material and human apparatus of the Legislature has been set up, and is even now functioning. We reverently bow before Thee and thus set up the Spiritual apparatus, thru which we humbly pray for Divine guidance.

Grant, Oh! God, that each member of the House may be so conscious of Thy presence that he may growingly realize that beyond the material things which perplex and distract today, there lie the eternal things which endure forever.

Help the Speaker and members of the House to be clear-headed, competent in action, with an unselfish regard for the interests of others, and a firm faith in God. Amen.

RESOLUTION

IN MEMORIUM ON DEATH OF HONORABLE AARON B. HESS

Mr. EVANS offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

In the House of Representatives, November 14, 1933.

Following the adjournment of the 1933 Session of the Legislature, the Members of this House heard with deep regret of the death of the Honorable Aaron B. Hess of Lancaster County, a former Speaker of the House, and an outstanding member thereof during nine regular sessions.

At the early age of seventeen years, he ended the carefree days of youth and began a busy life when he secured employment as a school teacher in Lancaster County, and strict application to whatever occupation was his, continued until the end of the three score years and two that marked his short span of life.

As business man and manufacturer, he was eminently successful, and his wide circle of friends and his genial disposition made a political career as inevitable as it too proved to be successful.

As a prominent and active figure on the floor of this House, and as a fair and impartial Speaker of this House, he will be remembered by those who served with him; therefore be it

Resolved, That in the passing of the Honorable Aaron B. Hess, the County of Lancaster has lost one of its outstanding citizens who served it with credit and distinction, and that those who knew him here are filled with sincere and genuine sorrow when they realize that he has gone; and be it further

Resolved, That this resolution be spread upon the Journal of the House, and a copy thereof be forwarded to his surviving family.

NORMAN WOOD,
JOSEPH T. EVANS,
GEORGE E. DOWNEY.

Our Gracious Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the sunshine of this morning. Help us to remember, when the days of rain and stress and storm come, the sun will always shine; and may it be so in the life of each one of us, may it be so in the lives and in the homes of all the members of this Senate. As they go back to their homes may they find sunshine there.

Be with us in all that we do, and guide us in all of Thy plans and purposes; and help us always to strive to do the things that are pleasing in Thy sight.

Bless us this day and go with us, in Christ's Name. Amen.

Be Thou the inspiration and guide of our chosen leaders today O God, for our people are in a wilderness, and must be led forth into the new era which is opening in the history of our beloved Commonwealth. Help thy servants to remember that when they are true to Thee, they are true to the people whose chosen representatives they are, "He hath showed Thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of Thee, but to do justly, to love mercy and to walk humbly with Thy God." Whereas, The emergency which has arisen has necessitated the calling of an extra session has rudely interrupted many activities of the various Members, but who have set aside their personal interests in the attention of their public duties; and

Whereas, The said Honorable Samuel B. Hart has contracted to enter into the bonds of matrimony and has fixed Friday, November 17, 1933, as the date on which this joyous but important event shall be celebrated; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the Representatives in General Assembly do hereby congratulate our colleague and wish for him all happiness and hereby promise him to so arrange the business of the House of Representatives that no session will be necessary on Friday, November 17th, out of consideration for him, but if, by reason of grave necessity we hold a session that day, leave of absence for the day is hereby granted; and it is further

Resolved, That the acting Chief Clerk transmit to our colleague a copy of this resolution.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. HART. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, this is the first time that I have gotten married that I have received a reception of this kind.

I am, however, very deeply appreciative of the good will and confidence of the members of this House, and I think I have retained that good will and confidence during the long number of years that I have served in this House I hope I will continue to have that confidence and good will. I am sure I speak also for the lady who is to be Mrs. Hart.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted.

ENDORSING NATIONAL RECOVERY PROGRAM

Mr. FLANAGAN offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over for printing under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, November 16, 1933.

Whereas, The Government of the United States, under the leadership of the President, has taken many steps and appropriated tremendous amounts of money to bring this country out of the existing economic depression; and

Whereas, While leadership is an important factor in any public movement and in the application of the laws enacted by representatives of the people, its success in the end depends in large measure upon the wholesome cooperation of the people. and

Whereas, The backbone of the whole recovery program is in the National Recovery Act which seeks to provide a maximum amount of work, at reasonable hours and wages; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in extraordinary session assembled, does hereby extend its sincere well wishes to the President of the United States for the success of his recovery program and extends congratulations for his courage in attempting so comprehensive a program; and calls upon all loyal and patriotic citizens of the Commonwealth to support the recovery program wholeheartedly in all its details to the end that economic recovery may be hastened;

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States.

MOTIONS TO RECOMMIT

HOUSE BILL NO. 8 RECOMMITTED

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I move that House Bill No. 8, on page 2 of today's calendar, entitled:

An Act imposing State taxes payable by those herein defined as manufacturers and importers on the privilege of manufacturing selling or using in this Commonwealth certain spirituous and vinous liquors providing for the collection of the taxes and the manner of making payment thereof conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments and upon manufacturers importers and upon those using or engaging in the sale of spirituous and vinous liquors and providing penalties be recomitted to the Committee on Ways and Means for the purpose of a public hearing.

With your permission, Mr. Speaker, may I make a statement.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. WITKIN. May I say that this motion meets with the approval of the Administration,—the Attorney General and the Governor, with a view of granting a public hearing promtply and expeditiously. There has been some criticism directed at the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee for the speed with which this bill has passed through the Committee. Opportunity, it is contended, has not been given to the merchants who have actual investments and are interested in the bill and affected by the bill. However, in order that time may not be lost and in order that we may continue the speed that this Legislature has shown I wish with your permission, to fix a public hearing for Monday, and immediately after the public hearing will call the Ways and Means Committee together for the purpose of further consideration of the bill, so that the only time that will be lost by this Legislature will be a period of one legislative day in the consideration of this bill.

I trust that all the members of the House will support the motion to recommit, and I reiterate it has the approval of the Attorney General, at whose request I introduced this bill.

On the question,

Will the House agree to motion?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this motion imposes upon the generosity of the House. We have remained here in session today for no other purpose than to advance this bill upon the calendar. It is the heart of the taxation program.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, His Excellency the Governor and the Attorney General have been in sweet and amicable conference these many weeks. They have had ample opportunity to make up their minds since they were in such sweet agreement as to what they wanted, in time to give us a chance to amend this bill on second reading. The gentleman from Philadelphia knows that he does not expect to get anywhere, and the administration does not expect to get anywhere as a result of a public hearing, which is nothing more than a gesture, and it ties up this bill concerning which there has been so much concern, for another day. If the prelude to a short and businesslike session is to hold this House an extra day to pass upon a bill that does not come before us, then the program needs readjustment. I don't care whether the Governor has agreed, or the Attorney General, or the gentleman from Philadelphia, for my self I desire to vote upon this bill today.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I don't mind the gentleman from Cambria opposing this motion, that is his privilege, but I do mind when he tells this House where I have been during the past three weeks or how many conferences we had with the Governor. The first time that I have seen the Governor or spoken with the Governor of this State during the past month or two months has been today.

I object to the gentleman from Cambria telling me where I have been and with whom I have been in conference. If he wants to tell the House what he thinks I know, he can do so but when he tells me where I was, or how many sweet conferences I had, I would ask him in the future to make sure of his ground before making those statements because he has done it in the last session, and I would suggest to the gentleman from Cambria if he wants to know where I have been, except on some occasions when I might not answer him as to where I have been, I will be glad to let him know.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I hope that the motion made by the gentleman from Philadelphia to recommit this bill will prevail.

I realize the truth of the statement of the gentleman from Cambria that the Governor, the Attorney General, and all concerned with the framing of this bill have had ample time to consider its provisions, but where do our constituents, the people of Pennsylvania, come in. They have not had enough time to consider the provisions of this bill, and I have never known a bill as important as this to be rushed through pell-mell. I admire the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, when he agrees to place a bill of this character before the Ways and Means Committee for a public hearing, so that the people back home, our constituents, who are vitally affected, and whose business is vitally affected, by the provisions of this measure, will have a chance to come here and tell us about it. Whether the Committee agrees with them or not may be something else again, but at least I feel that we should show the courtesy to those who are vitally affected. Take the pharmaceutical business, which for many years has been centered in Philadelphia; Philadelphia has long been the center for the pharmaceutical business in this country. This bill places a tax of thirty cents a gallon on rectified spirits which are generally used in that business. Now, if the State of Michigan, the State of Missouri, and other States which compete with our people from Philadelphia are not subjected to this same tax, and they are not, then we are putting our own business in Pennsylvania in jeopardy. In other words, we are giving a chance to their competitors and placing them at a disadvantage.

I hope that this motion will prevail and that our constituents be given a chance to be heard. Whether this Legislature, or the Ways and Means Committee will finally accede to their demands or not is another question, but they have a right to be heard as our constituents and as citizens of Pennsylvania. We are not here merely to take care of what the Administration wants, and they seem to agree to that, but we are here first and primarily to take care of our constituents and to take care of the people of Pennsylvania, and for that reason I hope this motion will prevail.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speakear, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SARIG. I will.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the gentleman from Berks is speaking as the minority leader or as the assistant floor leader of the minority party?

Mr. SARIG. I am speaking as the minority leader.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

HOUSE BILL NO. 17 RECOMMITTED

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 17, page 3 of today's calendar, entitled:

An Act to amend the title and certain sections of the act approved the nineteenth day of February, one thousand nine hundred twenty-six (Pamphlet Laws, sixteen), entitled "A supplement to the act, approved the twenty-seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (Pamphlet Laws, thirty-four), entitled 'An act concerning alcoholic liquors; prohibiting the manufacture, advertising, furnishing, traffic in, and possession of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, and articles and substances designed or intended for use in the manufacture thereof; defining intoxicating liquor; providing for penalties, forfeitures, and the abatement of nuisances; and repealing existing alcoholic liquor laws and alcoholic liquor license laws'; providing for the registering of federal permits; also regulating, under permit, through a Pennsylvania Alcohol Permit Board created in the Department of Welfare, the manufacture, production, distillation, development, use in manufacture, denaturization, redistillation, recovery, re-use, holding in bond, holding in storage by bailees for hire, sale at wholesale, and transportation for hire, of any alcohol or alcoholic liquid, by certain persons; also providing for fees and the disposition thereof; also authorizing the inspection of the records of permittees and purchasers of said alcohol or alcoholic liquid; also declaring certain places nuisances and providing for their abatement; also providing penalties; and also repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act," by making the act consistent with the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, changing definitions and exemptions, bringing rectifiers within the act, providing for the abatement of nuisances, and increasing fees.

be recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means for a public hearing. If I might make a statement, I would like to make a statement at this time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed with his remarks.

Mr. SARIG. My reason for making this motion, ladies and gentlemen of the House, is this:

I had intended not to hold up the proceedings and to wait until it came up for consideration in the Senate, but inasmuch as the other bill has been recommitted there will be no loss of time by sending this bill along with it.

The provision to which a number of my people object is this: We have in Berks county, had before prohibition a number of small wineries. When prohibition came in these automatically passed out of existence. No attempt was made to continue this business after prohibition was adopted.

At the present time, the wineries of New York state are competitors, and they pay five hundred dollars for a permit. Here in Pennsylvania, under this bill, they will have to pay, our own people in Berks county and in Pennsylvania, will have to pay one thousand dollars for a permit. In other words, these small wineries in Pennsylvania, which might be compared to the five and ten cent stores, compared with the big wineries of New York, pay one thousand dollars for a permit, and in New York they only pay five hundred dollars. I feel that at a time like this, when business had an uphill struggle all over our Commonwealth, we should not place the people of Pennsylvania at a disadvantage as compared with their competitors in other states, and for that reason I propose that the bill be sent along back with the other bill to be considered at a public hearing on Monday, to give the Committee a chance to decide whether or not they want to consider the one thousand dollar fee for a permit or whether they wish to give to the small wineries of Pennsylvania the same advantage, and put them on the same level in order to compete with the large wineries in New York State. I hope this motion will prevail.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT HOUSE BILL NO. 9

Mr. ROOT. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 9, on page 3 of today's calendar, Printer's No. 6, entitled:

An Act imposing a State floor tax on alcohol usable for beverage purposes and certain alcoholic liquors in the Commonwealth between the date this act becomes effective and the date the Twenty-first Amendment to the Constitution of the United States is ratified; describing the method and manner of collection of such tax; conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments, and certain individuals, firms and corporations, and imposing penalties.

be recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means for the purpose of a public hearing.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Root.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Root, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROOT. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Philadelphia prepared to state to the members of this House approximately how much revenue is being lost every day now by this law not being enacted?

Mr. ROOT. None whatsoever, so far as I know since the prohibition amendment has not been declared repealed as yet.

Mr. FITZGERALD. That is all, thank you.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am for once in my life not standing on firm ground. I am merely asking in a cautious way. The people who drafted this bill are perhaps in a better position to state the real effect of the bill than I am. However, it has come to my attention that in the event that this bill is referred to a committee we will lose something like two hundred thousand dollars a day; for this reason the people having this liquor on the floor today are making an attempt to remove it, and in that way evade the tax.

If there is any member in the House that can clear up the situation, I would be very glad to have them do so, and I think the membership in general would appreciate it.

Mr. PHILIP STERLING. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it seems to me to be our very definite duty to defeat the motion to recommit House Bill No. 9.

House Bill No. 9 proposes to levy a floor tax of two dollars per gallon, proof gallon, on spirituous liquor and will bring to the Commonwealth, it is estimated, approximately twenty-five million dollars, which tax is a tax on a commodity which is very easily moved from one place to another in anticipation of the final passage and approval of this act. It is known that already the commodity which is proposed to be taxed by this act is in motion.

It is true that in some instances it is being moved by those who are manufacturing it as fast as it is being manufactured, but on the other hand it is also true that in a very large proportion of cases it is being moved faster than it is being manufactured. We have in Pennsylvania today about five million gallons of whiskey that will fall subject to this tax on its effective date. We have estimated close to nine million gallons of alcohol.

Mr. Speaker, may I say that I recognize that I am speaking on a motion to recommit, and may digress into the merits of the bill?

The SPEAKER. I am inclined to believe that that point will not be raised on account of the seriousness of the question.

Mr. PHILIP STERLING. Mr. Speaker, the point I want to make is this: We are satisfied that we are facing a very serious exigency, and that exigency justifies the adoption of this measure, because those who are in possession either actually of the commodity, or certificates representing that commodity, have been moving it beyond the bounds of this Commonwealth, so that it will be exonerated from this floor tax. We as true Pennsylvanians know our responsibility, we know our needs, and to what needs this revenue should go. It seems to me that every day that passes is an extravagant waste, unless we move this bill with all the speed with which it can be moved. and I therefore submit to you that the motion made by my friend from Philadelphia deserves defeat at your hands.

Mr. ROOT. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, this bill is a companion measure to House Bill No. 8, which you have properly recommitted for the purpose of a public hearing.

It was introduced on the 13th, reported out of the Ways and Means Committee on the 14th and is before you now for final passage. A number of people have never seen the contents of this bill, and they are entitled to an opportunity to study it. In all fairness to everybody concerned this important piece of legislation should not be railroaded through the House. The prohibition amendment was railroaded through various Legislatures and it took fifteen years to correct that evil.

There are a number of objections to this bill, and I don't wish to discuss the merits of it now, but one legislative day's delay will not jeopardize or cause one penny of loss. Let us, therefore, be fair. Let us study it over the week-end, and I hope this motion to recommit will prevail.

Mr. PHILIP STERLING. Mr. Speaker, unlike other measures which we have recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means, this bill imposes a tax from the moment it becomes an effective law. Therefore, the statement made by my friend from Philadelphia that the loss of one legislative day does not mean a substantial loss to the Commonwealth cannot be sound.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The Chair desires at this point to make an announcement: The Chair humbly bows to the members of this Legislature but feels that he should set himself straight with the members on account of a Thursday session. It was my understanding and belief that the Republicans of this House of Representatives had agreed on a program day before yesterday, and up until a very few moments ago the Chair was not apprised of the fact that those conditions had been changed. The only reason the Speaker requested your valuable time today was for the purpose of either passing or defeating five bills regarding the control program and the Chair, therefore, apologizes to the members for keeping them here today.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I don't know that there is such a great hurry to put this bill through in its present form. It is merely an amendment to the beer law of today. You will notice that the amendment in there as to the requirement of United States citizenship to hold a license has been eliminated from the bill, and I feel that we don't want that. We ought to have at least United States citizenship to hold a retail beverage license to sell beer. Unless we have a definite assurance that this is taken care of in the Senate I feel that we should not allow this bill to go out of our hands until the requirement of citizenship in the United States is brought back into the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 9 entitled:

An Act imposing a State floor tax on alcohol usable for beverage purposes and certain alcoholic liquors in the Commonwealth between the date this act becomes effective and the date the Twenty-first Amendment to the Constitution of the United States is ratified; describing the method and manner of collection of such tax; conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments, and certain individuals, firms and corporations, and imposing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the passage of this bill is of vital importance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is estimated that there will accrue to the treasury the sum of $5,000,000 as a result of the enactment into law of this bill. It imposes a two dollar floor tax on all spiritous and vinous liquor lodged or stored in this Commonwealth, and that tax, to answer the query of the gentleman from Erie, goes into effect upon this bill becoming a law, and continues in effect until December 5th. It is most important for every relief measure that we have passed through this House in the prior session and for the finances of the Commonwealth, for those liquors that are now within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to pay two dollars.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sterling, has told you, and correctly so, that the liquor dealers are fast removing from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania such liquors as would be taxed by this bill, and therefore, endeavoring to deprive the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania from the revenue to which it is justly entitled. Therefore, any delay would be a detriment to the Commonwealth and the quick dispatch of this bill, and I feel certain it will be quickly passed in the Senate, will stop those who are seeking to take from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the much needed and proper revenue that the Commonwealth is entitled to. I ask you to vote aye on this measure.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the sponsor of this bill?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna Mr. Cordier, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to explain that in the event that this bill passes, what will be the cost of the tax on a quart of liquor considering that the government of United States is going to put on an additional tax?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman repeat his question?

Mr. TAHL. I would like to know what, in the judgment, of my friend from Lackawanna would be the cost of a quart of liquor if this bill passes—the tax on a quart of liquor.

Mr. CORDIER. The cost of the tax?

Mr. TAHL. Yes.

Mr. CORDIER. The cost of the tax as I understand it under this bill will be two dollars per gallon and that the Federal tax will be about a dollar and ten cents.

Mr. TAHL. It does not take into consideration the additional tax that the government will pass.

Mr. CORDIER. That has nothing to do with this bill.

Mr. TAHL. Does not the gentleman from Lackawanna think it is to the best interest of the Commonwealth that liquor be made so cheap as to discourage bootlegging.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am obliged to oppose the passage of this bill. I believe that the people of Pennsylvania on November last voted overwhelmingly to repeal the present prohibition act. I think they did more than that. I think they also voted to eliminate bootlegging and racketeering as well as graft and corruption in government.

Now, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I am not opposed to any tax, but it must be a reasonable tax. It must be a tax that will not increase the cost of liquor to such an extent that the people will be buying it from bootleggers. If this act is enacted into law and the tax of two dollars imposed, and it is figured that there is going to be an additional tax of three dollars by the federal government or possibly four dollars, then you are going to have a tax of nearly five or six dollars per gallon, which is about one dollar and fifty cents per quart, and that is going to make liquor so high that the bootleggers will thrive as they did heretofore. That is one thing that the people in Pennsylvania don't want. That is why the people in Pennsylvania have voted unquestionably against bootlegging and racketeering. Now, I want to read to you ladies and gentlemen what the man who I think has been in the forefront against the prohibition amendment, what he says about it. Mr. Pitcairn:

"The tax rates proposed are so high as to render the continuance of the old evils inevitable." That is referring now to the bill before the House. "The anticipated federal taxes together with the proposed Pennsylvania taxes and license fees without counting the cost of manufacturing and distributing will exceed a sum for which new illicit liquor can be purchased today. With all my heart I hope the Commonwealth can be spared the moral, political and racketeering evil that such excessive taxes will inevitably perpetuate."

Ladies and gentlemen, I don't subscribe to the proposition or to the thought that we should pass these bills on to the Senate and let the Senate amend them. I think that we have a responsibility right here, and I think it is our duty to decide, in the first instance, whether or not these bills are proper bills. I don't think that you or any of you can go back to your homes and tell your people out there that the Senate is going to take care of it. That is not what I propose to do. My people in my neighborhood and in my district want me to vote for a tax to make liquor within the reach of the poor man, and that is why I am going to vote against this bill. I think that all of you here now will have to answer to your own people in your respective districts. I am in favor of a quick and prompt enactment of laws governing liquor control and taxes, but I am not in favor of putting it through in such a way that it will frustrate the will of the people, and it is for that reason, ladies and gentlemen of the House, that I think this bill ought to be defeated.

Mr. PHILIP STERLING. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we all admire our friend from Philadelphia, in his sincerity of approach to this question, but the remarks that he has made have simply drawn a red herring across the question.

I am going to try to clarify the atmosphere with your indulgence. In the first place answering the question which he asked the sponsor of the measure, it is very definitely estimated, even with this liquor tax imposed, that liquor will be saleable in this Commonwealth at a figure substantially less than the price that the bootlegger must get for his liquor to survive. The Commonwealth recognizes this obligation in the control of liquor that it can succeed only if the bootlegger or illicit seller is put out of business.

My friend from Philadelphia has said that Congress may increase the per gallon excise from one dollar ten cents to some figure greater than that. That is true, but he forgets that Congress cannot meet until January, and he forgets that this floor tax is a floor tax that will fall only upon this commodity between the effective date and the revocation of the 21st amendment. It is estimated that we have in Pennsylvania approximately ten million gallons ready for consumption. It is estimated with some degree of certainty that the national consumption is one hundred five million gallons. Pennsylvania has always been standardized in the past on the one-tenth fraction, and that is true in this case, and there is no reason to doubt it. It can be concluded as certainly as the sun will rise tomorrow that all of the liquor that will be taxable under this act will be long since consumed before the federal government imposes an increase on the tax which now exists. Therefore, members you may, without any qualms so far as concerns the bootlegger, vote for the approval of this measure.

It has been estimated with great care, taking into consideration all of the taxes that exist on liquor even with the floor tax, the profit to the commonwealth for the liquor which will be sold—if we approve the state stores plan—will be sold at about twenty-four dollars a case. The bootlegger cannot sell and survive at less than twenty-six and probably twenty-eight dollars a case. For these reasons, members of the House, and for the reason that I stated when I opposed the motion to recommit, I urge that this measure have your approval this morning.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on November 7th the people of this Commonwealth very definitely decided what they wanted, that is, the abolition of prohibition and the return of liquor so that the people may get it plentifully and cheaply.

I had thought from the returns that I had read in the newspapers that there was no such thing as Republicanism left in Philadelphia and for that reason I am surprised to find Philadelphia attorneys take the position that they do on the floor today——

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will avoid personalities.

Mr. O'CONNOR. However, it is true to tradition.

The question here is whether we shall support the old system that went out of date with the new deal of placing the state above the individual or whether we shall follow the leadership of our peerless President, and legislate in favor of the individual and against the state. We all know the curses suffered under prohibition; we all know that our great leader has inaugurated what is known as the new deal and done everything that is possible for the forgotten man. We all need to be supporters of that principle, we must support the President, we must do something for the common man, for the forgotten man. We must reduce the price of liquor so that the poor man can get it. If this bill becomes a law it will be absolutely impossible for the legalized liquor dealer to compete with the bootlegger. I don't agree with the statement of my friend from Philadelphia. I know in my section of the country the bootlegger can compete and does compete with the price of the government. Now, if we are going to support the policies of the President, if we are going to aid the poor working man we are, ladies and gentlemen, in my humble opinion compelled to give that poor man a chance to buy a drink of good liquor, government tested, government inspected for the price of ten cents, the same as before. We have legislated here on the price of beer, and we have brought the price of beer down to a nickel a glass. We must legislate to bring the price of good liquor down where it will abolish bootlegging. This bill proposes to continue the bootlegger in business. The state is going to protect him. Now, I am opposed to that, and I appeal to all the supporters of the President to vote against this bill. I don't see how we can support it. I give no quarter in my loyalty or support of the President. I am going to vote against this bill and ask my fellow democrats to do the same

Mr. PHILIP STERLING. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I recognize that that which I am about to say may not be to the point on this bill, but a reference has been made by the gentleman who last spoke to the President of the United States and our duty to support him. There is no question that many Republican members of this House have in the past and will in the future give due credit where it is deserved, and join with me in saying that it is the duty of everyone, whether democrat or republican, to support that person who becomes president of the United States. I cannot refrain however from calling my friend's attention to one thing, that when Mr. Roosevelt became president of the United States he was threatened with the necessity of balancing the budget. To do that it was necessary for him to impose what was then called nuisance taxes and among those nuisance taxes was one for one-half a cent on gasoline. I am asking my friend who asks us to support the president of the United States why in that emergency which then confronted him did not choose gasoline, a commodity used for a different purpose, but one almost universally in use and place the burden upon the poor man. Pennsylvania is today in the same position as the president was then. We need this revenue, and this is, gentlemen, a means of acquiring it. This is your opportunity and you should grasp it.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, like my collegue from Philadelphia, Mr. Sterling, I had hoped in discussing the liquor measures that apply to this state that a kind of feeling of impeachment or disloyalty to our president of the United States was out of the discussion.

The parties that are at present attacking the president of the United States are the democrats. The Bryans of Nebraska, the Norris, Harrises and Brisbanes are not Republicans. There is not an unadulterated unequivocal American that will not go along and support, every representative Republican in and out of the United States Congress, the President of the United States. I as an humble member of the Republican party who is out of power at present nationally do hope that they will continue whether it is the new deal, the square deal, the upper deal or the lower deal. Let us at least have common respect for each other to leave these indirect insinuations directly or by implication that there is disloyalty in everything that a republican says or does in this body. We are back of the President of the United States, and his critics and those who are loudest in annoying him including that brilliant statesman Mr. Glass of Virginia don't happen to be Republican. This is a Pennsylvania measure and every word that my friend, our brilliant collegue on the right, Mr. Sterling, has said, I enthusiastically support and subscribe to as should every other member here. The president of the United States and the Congress is at present satisfying the needs and not laying awake at night to relieve the common man from taxation when the necessity exists for the United States Government. We are legislating for Pennsylvania, as Pennsylvanians and let us leave discussions relative to the President out of our considerations here.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is not my intent whatever to delay the progress of voting on this bill. We all want to get home and attend to our respective businesses, but I cannot sit idly by and allow the proposition of my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Sterling, to go unchallenged. I think he is perfectly familiar with this act, but to have him blind you with painting a picture or throwing a smoke screen, that Congress doesn't meet until January, and that during the time from December 5th to January, whatever time Congress may meet and pass a new revenue measure, that the State of Pennsylvania would collect $2, I agree with him, but he failed to tell you that the next session of the Legislature doesn't meet until 1935. During that time, from December 5th till January of 1935, till the next session convenes in 1935, which may be a period of twelve, thirteen, fourteen or fifteen months, we would have this excise tax of $2 in Pennsylvania. If the gentleman from Philadelphia will write into that act that upon the immediate passage of a tax raising measure by the Federal Government that $1 will be discounted from the State tax, I can heartily support the measure to give to Pennsylvania every dollar that it receives from now until Congress passes its new measure.

It has been conceded that the tax possibly will be not less than three dollars, Federal Tax, and possibly as high as four dollars. We all certainly will agree that if two dollars is the tax in Pennsylvania and three to four dollars is the Federal Tax, I am sure that Mr. Sterling, who seems to be very familiar with the manufacture and price of liquor, must agree there is not going to be anything such as twenty-four dollar a case whiskey.

He also warns us that bootlegging will be placed at a disadvantage with liquor at twenty-four dollars a case. I wish I could look through the same smoke screen that he does. If anything, that will only encourage bootlegging and Pennsylvania will become the haven of all of the illicit manufacturers and sellers of liquor in the country, and I think shooting will be at a premium and the consequent destruction of many of the people who may engage in the illicit business. He talked about bootlegging. I don't know whether he drinks bootleg liquor or not. I don't know the price he pays for it, and I have not bought any myself and do not know the price of it, but I am told out in my part of the State you can buy it for a dollar and a half a gallon. How true that may be, I don't know, because I never purchased any. They tell me that you can buy it for twenty cents a half pint. That may be true and it may not be true. I don't know because I have not bought any myself. I cannot see anything else but that if we insists on this tax of two dollars plus the Federal Tax that we will certainly be encouraging the fellow now in business, and it is only a stimulation to him to make as much as he can out of it. If the State Highway Patrol and the State Police and the local municipal officers were unable to cope with the situation in the past, in the days that have just gone by, I don't know how in the name of God we are going to stop it now. I believe with my friend, Mr. O'Connor, and I think the people of the Nation have spoken plainly when they said they do not want prohibition, but what they want is the return of the sale of that commodity at a price within the ordinary means of the average citizen.

My good friend from Philadelphia goes on and makes the statement in regard to the emergency tax of one-half of one cent on gasoline, and he qualifies that statement by saying that the poor man purchases it. That statement is misleading, because there are no poor men in the State of Pennsylvania who are purchasing gasoline, their cars are in the garage and they are wearing out the soles of their shoes, and the white collar man's car is in the garage awaiting until the time when he may have employment and enough money to meet his needs, because today he has nothing in his pocket to buy gasoline with, the poor people are unable to buy bread and are not purchasing gasoline to ride through the streets.

Nobody knows better than I do how badly the State needs money. I tried in the last session to save this State six or seven million dollars, but the gentleman across the road said we cut too heavily and restored back practically all that we had originally cut. Pennsylvania needs every nickel that she can get. I am unofficially informed that the Department of Education will come here before us for the restoration of five millions of dollars to help out the badly embarassed school districts. If Pennsylvania needs five millions of dollars for schools, we will have to get it some place. If this is the avenue to get it, then right and good, but I remember in years past that people resented the use of money from the sales of liquor for the education of their children. They didn't want their children educated on the revenue from rum. However at the present time everything is changed. Now we will accept anything. We are willing to take anything that we can get, whether it comes from this source or from that source. The answer is to get it. Of course, twenty-five million dollars is not a piker's bet. That is a nice bit of money, in these days especially, but I cannot see why the State of Pennsylvania should place a tax of two dollars a gallon, and by doing so, encourage bootlegging. I appeal to you and ask that this bill should not pass in its present form.

Mr. ROOT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill should be defeated for a number of reasons. In the first place this bill was sponsored by and introduced at the request of His Excellency, the Governor. We all know that he has been a dry, that he is a dry, and will remain a dry, regardless of the mandate of the people of this State.

In the second place, the economic law of diminishing returns will surely operate if you adopt this measure. The higher the taxes the less the income. You cannot legislate temperance into people. We have learned that after fifteen years of blundering, and I repeat that you cannot and will not tax temperance into the people.

In the third place, this bill as at present drawn will mean the removal of many men from this State to more available States. It means more men will be thrown out of work and the people of Pennsylvania will suffer from the loss of revenue. Finally, regardless of the sponsorship of this bill, and regardless of the economic law of diminishing returns, and regardless of the loss to Pennsylvania, or either one of these reasons, fifteen years ago under a war hysteria the prohibition amendment was railroaded through the various legislatures and in that fifteen years millions of dollars and hundreds of lives were sacrificed in the vain attempt to enforce this noble experiment. Under the courageous leadership of our distinguished President, Franklin D. Roosevelt—and may I pay my respects now to the democratic collegues of this House for having that courageous leadership—this noble experiment has been discontinued in the repeal of the 18th amendment. The effort to clear this country of illicit liquor and to set up reasonable and effective control can be hindered or advanced by the kind of tax we adopt.

I realize there is a temptation to load on the liquor trade all of our governmental deficits, but high taxes will produce high prices and this will make inevitable the continuance of bootlegging and the whole system of corruption.

The Pitcairn statement was read to you today. He is one of the leaders of the wet forces of the State, and knows more than I can possibly state to you, and his judgment should be followed rather than the judgment of the chief executive. Let me read: "We cannot operate with such taxes, and it will mean many men will be thrown out of work in addition to farmers in Pennsylvania suffering from the loss of rye sales." And again, "I don't think the members of the Legislature comprehend the grave dangers of the straight floor taxes on all liquor manufactured in the State." And again, "The combined State and Federal taxes will average $6 per gallon, and when considered that smugglers pay no cost at it becomes obvious at once that the bootlegger will continue to undersell the legitimate distributors even if as proposed the distributor is the State itself."

If, therefore, you represent a constituency that is wet, or if it is dry, if you are interested in the discontinuance of racketeering and bootlegging and corruption, you will vote "no" on this bill until the entire program is revised in accordance with the mandate of the people.

Mr. JOHN J. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have listened to the debate, and the only thing I have heard discussed is the manufacturer and the man who drinks whiskey.

I am interested in, and I think every Democrat should be concerned in the unemployed man who has no money to buy bread, let alone liquor, and as I understand the enactment of this bill will immediately bring into Pennsylvania twenty-five to fifty millions of dollars which we can use for the man who has no bread. We went through the Legislature with our juggling of the beer bill when thousands of our people were starving. Insofar as the Democrats are concerned, I believe that we should take into consideration first the unemployed citizens of Pennsylvania and help by our votes to provide the food that he needs, and we should pass this bill here today rather than delay for the interests of the people who are interested in liquor.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Edward G. Shannon) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. George P. Donehoo, offered the following prayer:

Oh Thou Infinite and Eternal Creator of all things, we thank Thee for this beautiful starlit night; and as we look into the heavens may we remember that He Who is back of all things is the One Whom we call Father. Wilt Thou this night bless all those for whom we as individuals should pray, and in whom we are interested. Be with our loved ones tonight wherever they are. Be with the members of this Senate in their homes. Be with those who are sick, those who are in sorrow. Grant that they all may realize that the law of the Lord is perfect, that a thousand years in Thy sight are but as yesterday when it is passed, and as a watch in the night. Keep us in Thy fear and in Thy love and under Thy law. Help us to do our duty while we have the opportunity for service. We ask in Thy Name, and for Christ's sake. Amen.

REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE WAGES AND LABOR CONDITIONS OF CHILDREN IN THE COMMONWEALTH.

Mr. OWLETT presented the following report of the joint committee appointed at the last session of the Legislature to investigate wages and labor conditions of children in the State of Pennsylvania:

To the General Assembly of Pennsylvania:

The Joint Committee to investigate wages and labor conditions of children in the Commonwealth, appointed in accordance with a resolution of your Honorable Bodies (H. R. Resolution No. 91) adopted in the Session of 1933, begs to report as follows:

The Committee held hearings at Philadelphia, Scranton, Shamokin, Lebanon, Doylestown, Norristown, Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, during the period from June 6 to July 18, 1933. Voluminous testimony was taken dealing with so-called "sweatshop" conditions in certain industries in the Commonwealth. These industries included the three chief needle trades, (men's clothing, women's and children's clothing and shirts) and also silk, cotton and woolen textile manufacturing, hosiery, candy, cigars, shoes, paper-boxes, 5 and 10 cent stores, restaurants, and beauty parlors. Testimony was received from both employes and employers, and also from social workers, investigators, representatives of labor unions, and employes of the Department of Labor and Industry. Previous surveys made by the Bureau of Women and Children of the Department of Labor and Industry and by the United States Department of Labor were studied. The Committee was aided throughout by representatives of the Department of Labor and Industry, as provided in the resolution creating the Committee.

All the testimony taken is a matter of record and is available for examination by your Honorable Bodies. It is of such volume that any comprehensive analysis of it would exceed the reasonable limits of this report. In general, however, it was clearly shown that employment standards deteriorated badly during the depression, that there were some industrial establishments which paid oppressively low and even what might be fairly characterized as flagrantly indecent wages, that it was sometimes necessary to provide state relief funds to eke out the cost of living of employes and their families, that women and children were obliged to work excessive hours in order to earn enough to provide the bare necessities of life, and that there were establishments which had many other undesirable features characteristic of sweatshops.

Of more than 10,000 women employed in 111 establishments as to which the Committee heard testimony and the payrolls of which were subsequently checked by the Department of Labor and Industry, it appeared that 20% earned less than $5. for a full time week, and 68% under $10. Earnings were disclosed as low as $1.49 for a week of 53¾ hours work. Half of the women in one dress factory working 54 hours earned less than $3.72 a week. The median weekly earnings of 10,550 women in these establishments working full time amounted to $8.02. Nearly one-half of the plants employed children under 16 years of age, many of whom earned for a full time week less than $3., and half of them earned less than $4.66. One girl under 16 years of age worked 50 hours for $1.48 in a dress factory, another under 16 worked 5 days in a shirt factory for $1.02. Further instances of such economic atrocities could be cited in great number.

Previous surveys of the clothing industry in Pennsylvania (not including men's clothing) had shown 14 and 15 year old minors averaging $3.31 a week, with 78% getting under $5. a week, and more than 20% earning less than $2. a week. The average for women was $7.54 (in Philadelphia $9.09), with 71% getting under $10. a week. More than 3/4 of the children worked 49 or more hours per week, including the day in continuation school for those who attended; almost 85% of the children worked at least a 9 hour day. In factories surveyed which manufactured pajamas, underwear, shirts and ladies dresses, women working a full time week of 48 hours or longer received an average wage of $6.37, but many earned less than $4. a week. In the textile industry to the extent surveyed, it was found that over 1/3 of the women worked 33 or more hours per week.

A survey of the shirt industry by the United States Department of Labor in June, 1933, revealed that the workers were mainly women and girls, that in Pennsylvania the scheduled hours were longer (50 or more a week) and the hourly wages lower than in the other states studied, which included among others Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and New Jersey, that 50% of the female wage earners in the Pennsylvania establishments surveyed received less than 15c an hour, that 35% of all the workers in such establishments earned less than $5 a week, and that even with the longer hours the median weekly wage in Pennsylvania was only $6.10 compared with $9. in New York, $8. in Massachusetts, $7.90 in New Jersey, and $7.80 in Connecticut.

Testimony taken before the Committee revealed that in typical sweatshops in the needle trades employers would sometimes deduct from the meagre wages paid to employes various alleged charges for ice water, "hold-up" insurance, check taxes, and the like. It also was a practice sometimes resorted to that girls be employed as learners for a week or two without pay, and thereupon or shortly thereafter be discharged. Occasionally a concern would come into a community under an arrangement to secure free rent for a time, would conduct what amounted to a sweatshop, exploiting women and children employes, and would then disappear without paying the wages due the employes. In fact there was considerable testimony complaining of unpaid and apparently uncollectible wages.

Having thus briefly set forth the undoubted fact of the existence of sweatshops in Pennsylvania as revealed by the evidence presented to the Committee, it cannot be too emphatically asserted that these conditions were not at any time typical of industry in Pennsylvania as a whole. On the contrary, it must be carefully borne in mind that they are merely an unworthy and wholly unrepresentative section of our industrial life, but constitute, however limited in extent, a disease or cancer antagonistic to reputable and responsible industry, and requiring therefore, in the opinion of the Committee, remedial and preventive legislation to make the existence of such sweatshops or any future continuation or revival of them impossible.

Thus far the legislation in our State has been wholly inadequate to meet the conditions presented by these sweatshop establishments. It is quite shocking to note, for example, that, as far as child labor is concerned, Pennsylvania is outranked by 38 States which provide for a shorter working day, by 36 States which set apart a longer night period during which work is prohibited, by 11 States which have a higher minimum age for entering employment, and by 16 States which have minimum wage laws. Indeed Pennsylvania is one of the very few northern States that permit children over 14 to work a 54-hour week.

The Committee recommends to your Honorable Bodies the enactment of laws which will serve to remove future possibility of the evils which have been enumerated, and which will thus furnish an answer to the charge that Pennsylvania is backward in labor and social legislation worthy of the economic and ethical standards of the age in which we live. The legislation which the Committee recommends is not in any sense designed to lay, nor will it lay, additional burdens upon Pennsylvania industry in these troubled times. On the contrary, it has only two purposes: (1) to protect the womanhood and childhood of the Commonwealth; and (2) to protect legitimate industry against unscrupulous and disreputable competition.

With these objects in view, the Committee recommends as follows:

(1) The enactment of a minimum wage law for woman and children employes, substantially as provided in Bill No. 925, House of Representatives, introduced in the Session of 1933, by Mr. Fitzgerald. This bill is the standard minimum wage act recently adopted in New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Ohio and other States.

There is nothing new or radical about minimum wage legislation. It goes back to the year 1896 in the State of Victoria, (Australia), to 1909 in Great Britain, and to 1912 in Massachusetts. It is in operation in some form or another in most of the industrial countries of Europe. In this country, because of constitutional limitations, it has been made applicable only to women and children. It exists in 16 commonwealths.

A minimum wage law is the expression of the sentiment of the community that the wages of human labor, especially the labor of women and children, are not to be left entirely to the uncontrolled operation of the law of supply and demand which is more properly applicable to property values, and that there are limits below which the wage scale cannot be regarded merely as an item in the cost of production, but where social and human factors must be given paramount consideration. As a matter of fact the testimony presented to the Commonwealth clearly showed that many of the proprietors of sweatshops were not manufactures at all in the true sense of that term, but merely contractors of labor, having no investment of their own, owning neither the machines nor the plant nor even the raw material, migrating constantly to places where they believed labor to be least organized, and being more or less irresponsible from every standpoint.

It must be borne in mind that the proposed minimum wage law does not itself fix a minimum wage nor give to any governmental authority the right to do so. The act merely established a machinery by which the minimum wage can be set up by the industry itself. It is further to be noted that the act provides that a special license may be issued to learners, apprentices and persons whose earning capacity is limited by age or physical or mental deficiencies, authorizing the employment of such persons at wages less than the minimum rate, and thus overcoming the objection that minimum wage laws may tend to deprive aged and otherwise handicapped persons of employment.

(2) The amendment of Section 3 of the Act of July 25, 1913 (P. L. 1024), as amended by the Act of June 1, 1915 (P. L. 709), by reducing the maximum hours of work permitted to women from 10 to 8 a day, and from 54 to 44 a week, as provided in Bill No. 132. House of Representatives, introduced in the session of 1933, by Mr. Yourishin.

The 8 hour day and 44 hour week, at least for women, are in harmony with present-day thought, and are even more conservative than the provisions of the N. R. A. codes. Moreover maximum limits on hours and minimum limits on wages must go hand in hand if either is to be effective. A minimum wage alone might lead to the employment of fewer people at longer hours, and if the work were to be spread without a minimum wage provision it might result in greatly reduced earnings for individual workers.

(3) The amendment of section 1 of the Act of July 25, 1913, (P. L. 1024) by making the act regulating the employment of women apply to so-called industrial "home-work" (not, however, to domestic service in private homes).

One of the saddest features of industrial conditions revealed in the testimony taken by the Committee was the "home-work" done by women and children. The turning of a home into a factory is at best unfortunate, because it deprives the home of its proper function as a place of social companionship of parents and children. Sub-standard working conditions and night work are commonly associated with industrial "home-work," and the practice of taking work home from the plant and having the women and children labor half the night for a few dollars a week is one of the easiest ways to create a sweatshop, especially as the rates paid home-workers are invariably lower than those for factory employes. If the women's employment act were extended to make its applicable provisions cover work done at home the more flagrant abuses of the system would tend to be minimized.

(4) The amendment of section 4 of the Act of May 13, 1915 (P. L. 286), by reducing the maximum hours of work permitted to minors under 16 years of age from 9 to 8 a day and from 51 to 44 a week (leaving the restrictions as to night work as at present), and by extending those restrictions to minors under the age of 18, as provided in bill No. 341, Senate, introduced in the Session of 1933 by Mr. Salus.

What has been said above in regard to the reduction in the maximum hours of work for women is equally pertinent in regard to minors. A reason why we should not permit children to work excessive hours is because the speed and tension of present-day industry make overly long hours injurious to the health and development of adolescent boys and girls. The testimony taken by the Committee showed young girls and boys working as many as 51 hours a week, or even more, and their strained faces and frail bodies furnished mute evidence of the inadequacy of the law which permits such conditions. It is almost incredible, but nevertheless a fact, that under our present laws a boy 16 years of age is allowed to work any number of hours a day or week whatsoever, there being absolutely no limitation in this regard.

(5) The amendment of section 2 of the Act of May 13, 1915 (P. L. 286), by prohibiting the employment of minors between the ages of 14 and 16 during the period when the public schools are in session (leaving the present exceptions as to newsboys, bootblacks, etc.), as provided in bill No. 1475 H. of R. introduced in the session of 1933 by Mr. Shugarts.

The N. R. A. codes have raised the minimum age of employment to 16 years, and the general sentiment of the nation has shown itself to be in favor of the change. It is obvious that by taking children under 16 out of industry more places are created for adults, and certainly in these days of extended unemployment there is no need or reason for young children to take industrial jobs. The conditions of modern industry demand of youth more and more preparation, physical and educational. Moreover, employment open to 14 and 15 year old children consists for the most part of blind-alley jobs, furnishing no vocational training and leading nowhere. The testimony taken by the Committee showed the average earnings of the children to be $4.86 a week, while many of them received less than 3. a week,—surely not compensatory returns to counterbalance the devastating impairment of the health and educational development of American childhood.

There is less reason for objection to children between 14 and 16 working during vacation periods, and that is why it is suggested that the employment of children between 14 and 16 should be prohibited only during the period when the public schools are in session.

(6) The passage of a resolution ratifying the federal child labor amendment, as provided in No. 213 H. of R., introduced in the Session of 1933 by Mrs. Lilith M. Wilson.

Fifteen states have already ratified this amendment. Even those who oppose child labor legislation in individual states admit that they would have no objection if such legislation were made uniform by federal law. The amendment merely gives to Congress the power to regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age, leaving actual legislation to the discretion of Congress from time to time as economic and social conditions and the sentiment of the people may demand.

(7) The enactment of a law providing more effective remedies for the collection of unpaid wages, and enabling the Department of Labor and Industry to assist for that purpose, substantially as provided in bill No. 768 H. of R., introduced in the Session of 1933 by Mr. Shortz.

There was testimony presented to the Committee covering cases where girl employes had been unable to collect large accumulations of unpaid wages, sometimes because of employers' insolvency, sometimes because of actual absconding of employers. The girls who were the victims of such situations were usually helpless, having neither the funds, the knowledge, nor the aggressiveness necessary to assert their rights before legal tribunals. A law providing penalties in such cases, and enabling the Department of Labor and Industry to assist employes in the collection of unpaid wage claims exists in several states, notably in California, where it has proved highly efficient. It is said that under the California law that state has collected over a million dollars of unpaid wages a year, most of the claims being settled without resort to court action, and no fees of any kind being charged to the wage-earners. The proposed act for Pennsylvania is similar to the California statute.

(8) The enactment of a law providing for the registration in the Department of Labor and Industry of industrial establishments before they start operations in Pennsylvania, and also annually thereafter.

This is recommended as an auxiliary measure intended to enable the Department of Labor and Industry better to enforce the labor laws of the Commonwealth. At present there is nothing to prevent fly-by-night concerns opening up in Pennsylvania, disregarding every standard set up by the State to provide safe and healthful working conditions, and the Labor Department has no way of checking such establishments unless by chance an inspector learns of their existence.

It is submitted that these eight recommendations constitute a comprehensive program for legislation by your Honorable Bodies governing the employment of women and children in Pennsylvania and designed to prevent the existence, continuance or revival of sweatshops which exploit their labor. There is nothing "radical" in these suggestions, on the contrary they are essentially conservative, and represent the judgment of the American people today as evidenced in many ways.

Before closing this report it is proper to comment upon the views of the minority of the Committee who are submitting a separate report dissenting from the recommendations herein made. The minority, while not disapproving of these recommendations as abstract propositions, believe that the legislation proposed is unnecessary at this time because to a great extent the N.R.A. has ameliorated the sweatshop evil and has already established several of the reform measures recommended in this report. It is contended, therefore that the subject is, for present purposes, an academic one.

It is submitted that such a point of view is erroneous for several reasons. It would be idle to deny that the N.R.A. has, at least for the time being, corrected many of the evils which had existed, and that, if another survey were now to be made by the Committee similar to that which it made in the summer months, a quite different picture would be presented. But the N.R.A., the constitutionality of which has not yet been determined, is at best necessarily restricted to interstate commerce. Moreover, by its express terms, it is merely a temporary expedient designed to meet a national economic emergency. Its duration is limited to two years from the date of its enactment, or it may be terminated at any time sooner at the will of the President of Congress if the emergency shall meanwhile have ended. Obviously, therefore, the ephemeral, casual and uncertain status of the N.R.A. cannot be accepted as a substitute for laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which would express the definite and permanent policy of the State governing the industrial employment of women and children within the State, and treating the subject from both the soical and economic standpoint. The Committee's recommendations are aimed not merely for the temporary abatement of past or existing abuses, but for the establishment of legal barriers against sweatshops in the future. If we had had such laws on the statute book when the depression occurred the conditions which the testimony taken by the Committee revealed would not have been possible, and preventive measures are always preferable to remedial relief.

As a matter of fact, the legislation herein recommended would supplement the provisions of the N.R.A. and aid in their enforcement. Where state and federal lasw are in harmony they naturally serve to re-enforce one another. The Federal administration itself has several times expressed its approval of such state legislation.

Respectfully submitted,

THE JOINT COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE WAGES AND LABOR CONDITIONS OF CHILDREN IN THE COMMONWEALTH, By its following members:

THOMAS J. GALLAGHER
CLARENCE J. MOSER
HORACE STERN
BERTRAM G. FRAZIER
CORNELIA BRYCE PINCHOT

MINORITY REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE WAGES AND LABOR CONDITIONS OF CHILDREN IN THE COMMONWEALTH.

Mr. OWLETT presented the following minority report of the joint committee appointed at the last session of the Legislature to investigate wages and labor conditions of children in the State of Pennsylvania:

MINORITY REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE WAGES AND LABOR CONDITIONS OF CHILDREN IN THE COMMONWEALTH

To the General Assembly of Pennsylvania:

The undersigned dissent from the recommendations contained in the report filed by our colleagues on the Joint Committee to Investigate Wages and Labor Conditions of Children in the Commonwealth, and respectfully offer these statements of fact as the reasons for such dissent.

The Committee held eight public hearings, each widely advertised in advance by the public press, at places suggested by the Department of Labor and Industry, namely, Philadelphia, Scranton, Shamokin, Lebanon, Doylestown, Norristown, Pittsbrugh and Harrisburg.

These hearings were held at about the time that the very bottom had been reached in a continuous, country-wide, four-year depression. Admittedly, conditions in industry were far below par; worse than they possibly could have been in any normal or even partially normal period. This was not the fault of industry itself, for in some degree the same disorganization and disruption prevailed in every phase of business enterprise in this country.

Nevertheless, and in spite of these wholly sub-normal conditions, the best efforts of the Department of Labor and Industry produced these results, which we ask be considered impartially.

The total number of complaints received in these eight widely advertised public hearings was 288 for the entire State of Pennsylvania, and many of those were not presented by the complainants themselves but were in the form of unsworn statements admittedly prepared by representatives of the Department of Labor and Industry, the signers of which never appeared before the Committee.

These 288 complaints involved 171 out of the approximately 15,000 manufacturing establishments in Pennsylvania; and of these 171 factories, at least seven could not be found by the Department of Labor and Industry upon subsequent investigation.

That brought the number of plants to 164, of which about 90 were charged with paying one or more of their employees what might be considered abnormally low wages, in the light of the conditions prevailing. Assuming that all the complaints were valid, these 90 plants constituted about six-tenths of one per cent of the manufacturing establishments in Pennsylvania.

But even the relatively small number of 288 complaints filed for the entire State were not all valid. In at least 17 cases—and how many more we do not know, because each individual complaint could not be followed out—the complaints were either deliberately misleading, or related to alleged conditions in places where the complainants had not worked for a year or more.

If we assume that all the others were valid, the total number for the whole State was only 271; and many of these were isolated cases and not representative, as, for example, the incompetent, the inexperienced beginners, and the part-time workers who would have made a reasonable weekly wage, had full-time employment been available. If pressed, the signers of the majority report would have to admit that a very large percentage of all the complaints related to violations of the labor laws, to enforce which the Department of Labor and Industry was created and is maintained.

What we have set forth here is a statement of facts. It gives you a picture of the foundation on which our fellow members have made their recommendations for legislation which would apply not only to this less than six-tenths of one per cent of the industry of this Commonwealth, but to the other more than ninety-nine and four-tenths per cent as well.

Looking at the facts candidly, we do not suppose that six-tenths of one per cent is greater than the so-called "outlaw fringe" that will exist in almost any human activity—not because of a lack of adequate legislation, but in spite of any legislation that may be devised, at whatever cost.

But conditions are not now what they were at the time the Committee made its investigation and held its public hearings, at the very depth of a four-year depression. Nor are they anything like what they were then. Conclusive proof of that fact is revealed in the figures of per capita weekly earnings in the four major branches of the apparel industry in Pennsylvania, which, by direction of the General Assembly, was the chief subject of our investigation.

We assume it will be granted that the Federal Reserve Bank for the Philadelphia District is wholly impartial in this matter. We give the figures of the Research Division of that Bank for average weekly earnings in January, 1933, and in August, 1933, for the four major branches of the apparel industry in Pennsylvania.

> Men's Clothing: $11.32 in January; $15.68 in August; an increase of 38½%.
> Women's Clothing: $8.87 in January; $11.02 in August; an increase of 25%.
> Millinery and Lace: $13.31 in January; $18.37 in August; an increase of 38%.
> Shirts: $6.56 in January; $11.77 in August; an increase of 79½%.

In the men's clothing industry the average or per capita weekly earning in Pennsylvania in August was 7½% above the average for the country as a whole for the same time. In millinery and lace the Pennsylvania earning was 30% higher than the United States average. And in shirts the Pennsylvania figure was 20% above the national average.

To that statement we need merely add that more than 95% of all the complaints lodged with the Committee related to those industries.

Those very substantial increases in per capita earnings are in large part the results of Federal legislation which we all know has established minimum wage rates throughout all industry; which has practically abolished all child labor under the age of 16 years; which has rigidly restricted the hours of labor in every branch of enterprise; and which, according to the very highest authorities, has likewise eliminated the sweatshop, which was the subject of our investigation and is the ostensible excuse advanced for the legislative proposals by our fellow members of the Committee.

On June 17th, President Roosevelt laid down the principle and objective of that legislation in these words:

> "No business which depends for existence on paying less than living wages to its workers has any right to continue in this country. By 'business' I mean the whole of commerce as well as the whole of industry; by 'workers' I mean all workers—the white collar class as well as the men in overalls; and by 'living wages' I mean more than a bare subsistence level—I mean the wages of decent living.

On the same day, Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of the U. S. Department of Labor, said:

> "The new Industrial Recovery Bill contains minimum wage and labor standard requirements."

The American Federation of Labor said officially:

> "The Bill includes broad provisions for securing higher wages, shorter hours, improved working conditions for all workers."

Nine days later, Governor Pinchot, speaking over a national radio hook-up, made this unqualified statement:

> "Under this law . . . all industry can be controlled in the matter of wages, hours of work, and regulating production.'

And on August 4th, General Hugh Johnson said:

> "One of the greatest things they (the codes and the President's Re-employment Agreement) have tackled is the wiping out of the sweatshop and many other terrible things.

But we need not go to those relatively remote dates for our more definite and conclusive facts. In a prepared speech delivered in Chicago on November 6th, General Johnson said:

> "All that it (the National Industrial Recovery Act) has done is to put no less than 4,000,000 hopeless, destitute people back to work and raise the wages of millions more to something more than a subsistence level. It has wiped out the sweatshop and child labor."

And on November 14th, addressing the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, here in Harrisburg, Governor Pinchot said emphatically that this Federal legislation had raised wages, completely abolished child labor, eliminated the sweatshop, regulated the hours of labor, and established minimum wages. His exact language is important. I quote from a copy of his speech, sent out by his office:

> "But this necessary but slow and cumbersome means of preventing children from working long hours in factories (State legislation) has been outdistanced by one quick stroke. At the last session of Congress, child labor was legislated out of existence in the National Recovery Act. . . .
> "Not so long ago the idea that labor should have a right to a voice about its hours, working conditions and wages, was regarded as absurd. Today our National Government guarantees to labor the right of collective bargaining.
> "Not so long ago sweated labor was almost the rule. Now, under the provisions of N. R. A., minimum wages have actually been established."

There need be no speculation as to the extent that Pennsylvania is operating under those principles, and with those results, stated by Governor Pinchot. In response to an inquiry on November 16th, the Pennsylvania headquarters of N. R. A. stated:

> "More than 206,000 employers in Pennsylvania have signed up, either under specific codes or the President's Re-employment Agreement. Our official estimate is that at least 95% of all industry in Pennsylvania is now under the Blue Eagle.'"

Some of our colleagues on the Committee have asserted that there are violators of this Federal legislation. We do not doubt it. But to argue that there should be State laws, practically duplicating Federal laws, with all their additional costs upon the taxpayers of this Commonwealth, for no better reason than that they might serve to capture the relatively few violators of the Federal laws and regulations, seems to us to be specious reasoning which exposes the weakness of their whole case.

There is not a legislative proposal offered by our colleagues on the Committee that does not seek to do what the Federal Government already is doing or has done. There is not a one of those proposals but would add to the burden upon the taxpayers of this State.

Why litter the statute books of Pennsylvania with laws designed to do what already is being done? Why saddle upon the taxpayers of Pennsylvania more jobholders to duplicate the work that the Federal Government is now doing? Why, for example, enact a Minimum Wage Law in this State, and set up the inevitable staff to administer it, when the Federal Government has established minimum wage rates that have rendered Minimum Wage Laws inoperative in those States which have them, because the Federal Government has done and is doing a better job than any State could hope to do?

You can't justify such procedure, and you haven't the right, especially in these times, to put upon the overloaded taxpayers of this State a single additional dollar that you cannot justify.

The same is true, and with equal force, in respect of the various other proposals relating to child labor which doesn't exist, regulation of hours which already are regulated, registration of business enterprises which already are registered—more than 95% of our industry, according to N. R. A.—and so on, throughout their program.

There is neither need nor excuse for a single one of these proposals. Each is based upon conditions which either no longer exist or speedily are being put out of existence more effectively than the State itself could do it. All involve duplicated and therefore unnecessary work. The only purpose they would serve would be to load more employees into the Department of Labor and Industry, the result of which would add wholly unwaranted costs to the tax bill of this Commonwealth.

Upon the indisputable fact that there is no need for the enactment of any of these proposals at this time, and that the purposes designed to be served by each are now being met, fully and effectively, we record our vigorous dissent from the recommendations contained in the majority report.

We recommend that this Committee be continued until the next Regular Session of the General Assembly, by which time the permanency of N.R.A. will be determined.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. George F. Conner, offered the following prayer:

Dear Lord we thank Thee for the wonder and beauty of life, for the gladness of the morning, the beauty of the day and the grandeur of the night. Thou art the Lord of life. Yesterday we went our various ways to Cathedral, Church or Synagogue, we felt thy presence there. Today we meet on common ground in this Temple of Legislature, may we feel thy presence and power here.

Mighty issues confront Thy servants. In other days of battle, the Father of our Country said, "Let none but Americans be put on guard this night.'

O God, help the Speaker and members of the House to be on guard this night, with mind honestly seeking the truth, with clear vision, with unwarped judgment, and courage to stand for the hard right against the easy wrong.

For the glory of God and the welfare of the Commonwealth. Amen.

COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES MADE BEFORE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

Mr. WITKIN offered a resolution from the Committee on Rules which was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, November 20th, 1933.

Whereas, At a hearing this afternoon before the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, statements were made by A. Leo Weil, Esq., as follows:

"Don't misunderstand me, we are perfectly willing to pay our full share of the taxes. We don't object to that at all. We are today, we always have been, and we always will be willing to stand up with the other citizens of the Commonwealth and carry our share of the burden, but we are not going to be treated as an outlaw, we are not going to be treated as an organization engaged in that business that when they want the money they feel that you can go to them and get it, and they used to get it, and not legitimately and properly, but by devious and various means, and we have already had application for payment of certain amounts, so that when you pass your control bill and put it in the hands of the State Control Stores, parties who say they can control things, and if we would pay them a certain amount they will see that we get five-sixths of the business;" and

Whereas, Such statements cannot go unchallenged by this House, but the Members thereof and the people of this Commonwealth are entitled to know the truth or falsity of such charges; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives is hereby authorized to appoint a committee of five Members of this House whose duty it shall be to fully and impartially investigate the charges set forth in the preamble hereof, and make report thereof to the House as early as possible;

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the same force and effect as subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to adminster oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

RESOLUTION

URGING RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION TO CARRY OUT PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM

Mr. CANNON offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under rules:

In the House of Representatives, November 20th, 1933.

Whereas, the administration of the Honorable Franklin Delano Roosevelt has set forth a program containing the only hope for the improvement of existing conditions and the bringing back of domestic happiness by restoring employment and affording permanent relief to the people; and

Whereas, the program has already advanced to success by the creation of employment for those desiring and seeking the same; and

Whereas, the program of the Federal Civil Works Administration promises work for three hundred thousand wage earners within this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, in order to bring about a complete return to work of the unemployed it is necessary for the Commonwealth and municipal authorities to cooperate with the Federal recovery program; and

Whereas, complete recovery within the Commonwealth must necessarily include the opening and full operation of our coal mines, iron and steel mills and all other industries which are now idle; and

Whereas, Philadelphia, the workshop of the world, is filled with non-operating industries which can be made to function by a full cooperation with those having in charge the program of our President; and

Whereas, the safety, happiness and contentment of our people demand this cooperation in order to continue rapidly on the road to complete recovery, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby calls upon the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other agencies of the National Government having in charge the carrying out of the President's program to give consideration to the rehabilitation of the closed industries of the city of Philadelphia, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at Washington and to the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER (Grover C. Talbot) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. George F. Conner, offered the following prayer:

O Lord our God, accept our thanks for this new day with its blessings of life and opportunity. Help us to be loyal to Thee, to the Commonwealth, to our constituents, and our home folks today, for without loyalty life moves on to tragedy. As we move about in thy temples may we realize that we are on holy ground. Help us never to defile the temple of prayer. Keep us from polluting the temple of Government, keep us from befouling the temple of conscience, keep us from degrading the temple of art and beauty, and finally, dear Lord, keep us from corrupting the temple of the body. Help us to be pure and strong for the glory of Thyself and the service of our fellowmen. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. Scott, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair is about to refer the following bills but desires to make a statment before they are read by the Clerk:

Since your present Speaker was inducted into office all bills have been referred with the assistance of the legal arm of the Legislature, Mr. Fertig, head of the Legislative Reference Bureau.

It has come to the attention of the Chair that precedent apparently has been established in referring liquor control bills to the Committee on Judiciary General. In view of that fact the Speaker feels that the membership is entitled to an explanation.

Prior to the Session of 1933, or rather November 7, of this year, it had been customary to send bills of a similar character to the Committee on Law and Order because the issue was a question of morals, but after the election on November 7, when the people in no uncertain terms spoke, making it mandatory on the part of this Legislature to enact laws, it was the feeling of the head of the Legislature Reference Bureau and the Speaker that it became a matter of law entirely, and therefore, it was thought proper, because the Committee on Judiciary General is composed practically entirely of attorneys, to send the liquor control bills there. That is the reason that liquor control bills are being sent to the Committee on Judiciary General.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WILSON. Will the Speaker now entertain, or would it be in order to make a motion to strike from the report of the Committee of the Whole the amendments of Mr. Kane of Allegheny, which would send the money back to the district instead of the treasury of the State of Pennsylvania, or would that be done more properly after the report of the Committee of the Whole has been adopted.

The SPEAKER. It is the opinion of the Chair that such a motion would be in order after the report of the Committee of the Whole has been adopted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the report of the Committee of the Whole?

The report was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The bill is now before the House on Second Reading.

The Clerk will read the first article of the bill.

The first article of the bill as amended was read by the Clerk.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the article as amended?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I arise on a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, will state his point of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SOWERS. Before the House passes on the bill as amended, is it not necessary for the bill to be printed and distributed to the members?

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that the report of the Committee of the Whole has been adopted by the House, therefore, it is not necessary for the bill and the amendments to be printed, until the bill is disposed of on second reading.

MOTION TO MAKE BILL SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I move you that House Bill No. 10, Printer's No. 1, be fixed as a special order of business for tomorrow, Wednesday, November 22nd, at 12 o'clock noon on second reading.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, has made a motion that this bill be printed and made a special order of business for tomorrow at 12.00 o'clock noon.

The Chair desires to be fair to the proponents and opponents of this bill, but is of the opinion that the motion at this time is out of order for the reasons:

First, that the motion should have been made prior to the taking up of the reading of the bill. We are now considering article number one.

Second, were the bill to be printed as amended in the report adopted by the House from the Committee of the Whole nothing can be gained, because it is within the province of the House to change the amendments and the bill again amended.

However, the Chair finally makes this statement: That it is within the province of this body by a majority vote to decide what it desires to do.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I have no desire to enter into this controversy, although I feel there are only a few members of this House who really know what changes all these amendments have made in the bill, and I cannot believe the leaders of this House would try to move this bill up even for a second reading of it, and much less have a third reading of the bill, without giving the members a chance to study it.

If this bill is passed on second reading today it will probably come up on third reading tomorrow. The members will be coming in here at eleven or eleven thirty o'clock only to find that the printer is not ready and the chances are that the bill will just come from the printer and be distributed and will be put to a vote without the members having a chance to study the provisions at all. To my mind this is the most important piece of legislation that this extraordinary session of the Legislature will have before it, and while I am not trying to hold up anything or prolong this session, I do feel the members of this House should have ample time to study the amendments and see just what changes they have made. I do not feel like voting blindly on a measure of such importance and I believe that I speak for a great majority of the members of the House when I say that they no doubt feel the same way. Whatever is done I feel that we should have sufficient time to study this bill and the amendments that have been made to it before we proceed with it much further.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to read rule number 44 of the House:

"When bills on second reading are in order, the Speaker shall take up the calendar, and having announced each bill in its order, it shall be considered in the Committee of the Whole House; when the bill is reported back to the House the question shall be put, 'Will the House agree to the report of the Committee of the Whole'? and if agreed to, any amendments made by the Committee of the Whole shall become a part of the bill. The House shall then immediately proceed with the second reading of the bill."

The Chair having read this rule is of the opinion, and further rules, that the motion at this time is not in order.

MOTION TO SUSPEND HOUSE RULE No. 44

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I move you that House Rule No. 44 be suspended for the purpose of permitting House Bill No. 10, printer's No. 1, to be printed and put on the members desks.

The SPEAKER. Before putting the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, the Chair desires to read House Rule No. 88:

"Any rule of the House may be suspended at anytime for a specific purpose by a majority vote of the members elect; after the accomplishment of which purpose the rule shall remain in force as before."

The Chair suggests that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, first make a motion to suspend House Rule No. 44 and if his motion carries then make a second motion. Is that agreeable to the gentleman?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, that is agreeable.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is impossible to tell just what these amendments do. You have no copy of them and if this bill is passed on second reading then it will go over until tomorrow and come up here for third reading. Nobody can offer amendments to any part of it without the consent of every member of the House. That means that if the bill does not meet your wishes, you will not be in a position to amend it, and I ask you in all fairness to vote aye on this motion, and also vote aye for the following motion; that the bill be printed and laid upon the members desks as amended.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that he must correct the statement made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, when he stated th • an amendment cannot be offered tomorrow. The Chair desires to inform the membership of this body that they can tomorrow proceed in a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we have another of the dilatory motions that have been made in this House all afternoon to prevent the House from working its will on this bill. We have been trying all afternoon to put in what amendments we wish; the Committee of the Whole has met, and everybody has had an opportunity to put in any amendments they wished. Amendments have been adopted, they are there, and they afford the House now an opportunity of passing today on them, and we certainly should not be confronted at this time with motions to delay which they have been offering all afternoon, and I ask that the members of this House vote this motion down. This bill does not have to come up tomorrow morning the first thing.

The people of Pennsylvania are asking above everything else that this House function, and we have been trying to function and get this bill on final passage so the members can vote for or against it as they wish. We have the bill in front of us at the present time, and if we pass it on second reading at this time we can have it before us tomorrow and vote on it as we wish. I ask the members to vote this motion down.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, so far as I am concerned, this is not a dilatory motion. This is only a motion, as I see it, to give the members a chance to know what they are voting on. I think it would be a reflection upon this body if we, after all this muddle that we have been in here for five hours in the Committee of the Whole in order to insert these amendments, were to proceed with this bill without giving the members a chance to know what it is all about. I have served in this Legislature for eight terms. I consider myself an average member, and I am willing to admit that I don't know just exactly what all the changes are in this bill, and I feel as a member that I have a right, without being accused of delaying things and of making dilatory motions, I have a right to ask that this House give every member a chance to vote on this bill intelligently. We are not here to vote like a lot of blind sheep. A lot of these amendments were put through this afternoon, and a lot of us don't know what they are all about. And I object to having this rushed through and put through on us as though we were a lot of blind sheep. I think we should have a right to vote intelligently on this motion. I hope this motion to suspend the rule will prevail.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to announce that it will be necessary to have 105 votes for this motion to prevail. The Chair will state the motion before the House.

It has been moved by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, that House Rule No. 44 be suspended, and a vote "aye" will suspend the rule; a vote "no" is to maintain the rule. The chair orders a roll call.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the article as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second article as amended was read and agreed to.

The third article as amended was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the article as amended?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move to strike from House Bill No. 10, now on second reading, the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Leonard J. Kane.

"Amend bill page 13, by adding thereto, after line 23, a new section, 307, as follows: section 307, distribution of part of profits of State Stores. One-half of all net profits arising annually from the operation of any Pennsylvania liquor store shall be for the use of the municipalities in which the store is located, and for such purposes any moneys arising from such profits and deposited in any special fund are hereby specifically appropriated to be paid over as soon after the first day of the fiscal year as the audit of the Auditor General of any such store for the fiscal year has been completed."

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that the motion as made by the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, is that the particular amendment adopted by the Committee of the Whole, sponsored by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Leonard J. Kane, be stricken from the Bill. For the information of the House, the Clerk will proceed in a distinct and slow manner to read the amendments.

The amendment was again read by the Clerk.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I wouldn't bother this House at this stage of the proceedings after so long a time if this amendment wasn't so important.

I appreciate the purpose of the gentleman from Allegheny in offering it, but I don't think that in the confusion and disorder when this was adopted that the members of this House realized how important this amendment was and how it would wreck the unemployment program and the funds of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. This takes the money we have appropriated and that we depend on for relief to take care of the poor and needy in this Commonwealth from the Commonwealth, and attempts to give it back to the districts. It takes the money from your mother's assistance. Without this money we will not be able to finance those projects.

I want to say one other thing to the House, that this amendment is absolutely unconstitutional. The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in the anthracite coal case held that the Legislature of Pennsylvania couldn't send back to the districts one-half of the money received from the anthracite coal, because under the constitution there was no provision for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to send that money back to the district.

In the Supreme Court decision in the Talbot case the Supreme Court held that that money could go back to the districts for relief because relief was a State function. This amendment sending the money back to the districts, not earmarked for any particular purpose is clearly unconstitutional. Further than that it takes the money that the State of Pennsylvania is going to use for the relief of these parties who are now being taken care of by the State, and without this money the whole relief program goes to smash and I am sure that the ladies and gentlemen of the House didn't realize that in the noise and the confusion, and therefore, at this time I ask you to strike this amendment from the bill.

Let our relief program and mothers' assistance program go forward and we cannot do these things without this particular money being in the funds of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. L. P. KANE. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen, when the amendment was introduced I had in mind that the unemployment program would not be disturbed in the State of Pennsylvania. On November 7th the people of Pennsylvania voted a twenty-five million dollar bond issue, which is enough to take care of unemployment relief for the next year. Besides that the Attorney General has estimated that the floor tax will produce another twenty-five million dollars for the State of Pennsylvania. Then the manufacturing tax of $1 per gallon on liquor is estimated to produce another $25,000,000 in the State of Pennsylvania, and the profits from these sources are estimated to produce anywhere from forty to seventy million dollars per year besides our $600,000 a month on the beer tax.

Apparently there are still some people in the House that don't realize that the people back home need relief. It is the local taxpayer you have to relieve, not the man who pays a large State tax. He can afford to pay that much better than the local taxpayer back home. There is no use of giving a man unemployment relief, and then take away his home from him. If you want to save thousands of homes in the State of Pennsylvania, you will have to relieve the local taxpayer. As I have said before, in Pittsburgh alone there are 45,000 people that cannot afford to pay last year's taxes. Therefore, if you ladies and gentlemen want to relieve the people back home who are crying out for relief, I urge you to vote down this motion.

Mr. W. A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I voted for this amendment but the matter came on us so quickly that I did not appreciate its meaning.

I think we can realize, however, the purpose of the amendment that has been offered.

It is certainly not the intent of the sponsor, for instance, that the revenue or one-half of the earnings should go to the municipality in which the store is located. Now, assuming for instance, they open a store in Slippery Rock, that store draws from the patronage of the entire county, but the particular municipality in which the store is located gets one-half of the profits or proceeds, which would be an inequitable distribution of that money so far as the other people in that county who support that store are concerned. Likewise in Allegheny County the stores could be located in Wilkinsburg, McKeesport, Bellevue. The city of Pittsburgh, would produce a huge revenue for the taxpayers who would share in the profits from the stores. I think as it is worded, it would certainly render an inequitable distribution of the profits and would not help the taxpayers in an equitable manner.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Pittsburgh, Mr. Kane.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interogated?

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. I will.

Mr. FITZGERALD. I would like to ask the gentleman whereupon he basis his figures of the estimated revenue that he has cited to this House?

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. Mr. Speaker, from the figures reported prior to prohibition, the best estimated figure was that the gross revenue of the State was approximately fifty million dollars.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether or not he listened to the evidence submitted to the Ways and Mean Committee when certain representatives said that the figures set by the State at twenty-five million dollars would be cut exactly in half.

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I was not at the meeting.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as previous speakers have mentioned here this afternoon, we spent approximately five or six hours in discussing what I think are the prime factors: the manufacturer, the distiller, the State, and the stores. In very few instances did we give any consideration to the working man and the toiler, other than to regulate how and where he would secure his liquor. This liquor control bill is an important one in more ways than one. With the revenue secured from this bill we intend, as Mr. Wilson has briefly stated, to take care of the essential issues of the State finances, and particularly old age pensions, and I ask you now and here as friends of old age pensions to help us defeat this amendment and to secure for the relief of the worthy of Pennsylvania old age pensions that they are not rightfully and justly entitled to.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I just want to say one thing. It will just take me one second. I just want to remind the House that this money that the House has provided for relief, the Federal government matches that, but when you send that back to the municipality or county, in so far as that money is used for relief you are throwing it out in so far as that money may be used for relief. If we get ten or fifteen million dollars which we use for relief the Federal government matches it, if the State has it and if it goes back to the municipality the money that the Foderal government would give us is entirely lost to the sick and the poor and the downtrodden and those that need our relief. I desire to suggest to the gentleman from Allegheny with reference to his figures that this Commonwealth will be out of relief money along about the first of June or the first of July, and a way will have to be found to give that relief. I ask the members not to take away this money, and not to take away from them the money that the Federal government gives to match ours. Let us take this amendment out and vote on the bill.

Mr. WILLIAM L. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the absolute unfairness of this amendment lies in the rural districts and the boroughs in the State of Pennsylvania. We have over two thousand of them. We know that there are only going to be a few hundred of these stores located throughout the State. There is not one of these municipalities that has anything to say as to where they shall be located, and the ones that are discriminated against and don't get a store will be absolutely pouring their money into the coffers of the municipality or township that is fortunate enough to have a store located in it. I think it is absolutely unfair.

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the article as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fourth article as amended was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the article as amended?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the amendment to Section 411, Article IV, page 20, line 22, after the word "room" put in by the Committee of the Whole be stricken from the record, which amendment is as follows:

"Or to employ or permit any female to serve liquor or malt liquor to guests, patrons or members."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think it is very apparent that we need some new method of distribution of liquor. Up to the present time, or rather prior to Prohibition, there was a restriction that required liquor to be handled by men. I think that the feminine touch in the distribution of liquor will possibly allay some of the malcontents. I feel at the present time that in the distribution of malt products the feminine touch would be beneficial. I know from my own knowledge in my community of a number of girls and women that are employed in tap rooms and I can assure you that the conduct of those tap rooms is one hundred per cent. better with the presence of feminine persons than the conduct of the tap rooms where they employ only male help.

I ask that we take this forward step in liquor distribution in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and strike from the bill the amendment that would require liquor to be served only by men.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, before prohibition the feminine sex of our country was placed upon a pedestal. During prohibition they were brought down to the brass rail. I say we should retain this amendment and put them back on the pedestal and away from the brass rail.

Mr. JOHN J. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this amendment was put in the bill at the request of people who are interested in trying to keep women from selling and distributing liquor. As I understand it there was an agreement reached by the leaders of this House on that amendment and the argument is now being advanced that to prohibit women or females from serving liquor will cause unemployment. It is nothing of the kind, and I don't believe that there is any man in this House that wants to ee any member of his family, a female member of his family, erving liquor in any place where liquor is sold, and I ask he members of this House to maintain this amendment in he bill.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. MALINA. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal rivilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will tate his question of personal privilege.

Mr. MALINA. Ladies and gentlemen of the House: It has een conceded that the best legal minds of the State are f the opinion that upon the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the Snyder-Armstrong Act will automatically eliminate self. However, I am of the belief that when the Eighteenth mendment was enacted for this Nation, this Commonwealth as compelled to enact legislation to enforce the National ct. Therefore, for the safety of the future to save this Commonwealth money which may be expended in legal controversies, I take this opportunity in presenting a measure repealing the Snyder-Armstrong Act. I trust the committee to whom it will be referred will report it out favorably and the members of this House, together with the members of the Senate will vote in its favor for its passage, to be signed by His Excellency, the Governor.

"It is moved that this House do now recess until Monday evening, December 27, at 9 o'clock, in order that the members of the majority party may remain in continuous caucus and arrive at a final agreement relative to a legislative program."

MOTION TO ARRANGE AND PRINT AMENDMENTS

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, I move you that the Chairman of this Committee arrange all of the amendments in order corresponding to sections and pages of the bill, and that the amendments be printed and that this Committee rise until they are printed, so that each member of the House will have the amendments before him and will understand what he is voting on.

The CHAIRMAN. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers he is informed that the motion is not in order This House has resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole, and we trust consider as a Committee of the While the amendments as they are presented here to the Chair.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, it is my thought that the Chair is wrong in its ruling in that it conceals and keeps from the Committee information that it should have in order to vote intelligently.

The CHAIRMAN. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Chair desires to state that he assumes that there is no imputation in the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia. Furthermore, every amendment presented here at the desk will be carefully considered, the amendments of the gentleman from Philadelphia included.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, do I understand that my point of order is denied?

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair informs the gentleman from Philadelphia that his point of order is not well taken.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, I appeal from the decision of the Chair to the body.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, has appealed from the ruling of the Chair. Is the appeal seconded?

Mr. ROOT. Mr. Chairman, I second the motion.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Chairman, I second the motion.

The CHAIRMAN. The appeal of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, having been seconded by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Root, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, what is the pleasure of the House relative to the appeal?

The Chair calls to the rostrum the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Williams, to dispose of the appeal from the decision of the Chair.

(MR. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS IN THE CHAIR)

The CHAIRMAN. The question before the Committee is shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the ruling of the Committee?

On the question,

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the ruling of the Committee?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman and members of this Committee, the procedure of this Committee is in the hands of the Committee. Nobody is bigger than this Committee. This Committee is to exercise intelligent judgment and discretion. This Committee can hardly exercise such judgment without having before it in writing, or printing, the amendments that are now being offered by the various members of the Committee of the Whole upon the bill before us. Precedent in the past may be against this. The precedent last November has come, and a new deal has come. This Committee can change precedent. This Committee can stand for intelligent and progressive ideas of government or for the ideals of the past that have been repudiated. Will this Committee for the first time in the history of Pennsylvania say that the ideas of the men that formulated and wrote the Constitution of this Commonwealth is wrong when they state that no member of the Legislature shall be required to vote without having on his desk a printed copy of what he desires to vote for?

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, asks you this morning to destroy a precedent insofar as parliamentary procedure is concerned. I am winding up my fifth session in this body, and always have I seen the decisions of the Chair sustained, because they have been in the interest of the members. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, insisted upon this body going into a Committee of the Whole. Then, as I understood him, he said that the members had not had an opportunity to read the amendments as offered. Always heretofore the amendments to any bill in the Committee of the Whole have been read carefully, and every member heard them and voted according to the dictates of his own conscience. I am inclined to believe that no member of this House can charge that these liquor control bills are being railroaded, because conferences have been held by the members of both parties in an attempt to give the people something that will control liquor.

And further and beyond that point, the question before this body is whether they will sustain the rulings of the Chair, or whether they shall destroy this precedent in parliamentary procedure. I ask you to sustain the Chairman of the Committee of the Whole in his ruling.

The CHAIRMAN. The question recurs.

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the ruling of the Committee?

In voting "aye" you vote to sustain the ruling of the Chair, and voting "no" you vote against the ruling of the Chair.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. LONG. Mr. Chairman, I second the motion.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Chairman, do I understand that if the Chair is overruled it merely means that this House will then vote upon the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia as to whether or not we shall rise until the amendments are printed?

The CHAIRMAN. The only question before the House at this time is the question on the appeal from the ruling of the Chair by Mr. Sowers.

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Chairman, perhaps I am a little dull, but I don't understand just what we are voting on. As I understand it, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, made a motion that this Committee rise until the amendments are printed, so that the members will have them before us. The Chair then rules that motion out of order, and it is upon that ruling of the Chair that the appeal to this body is taken, and if this is sustained we will then vote upon the motion as to whether or not we will have a recess.

The CHAIRMAN. If the appeal is sustained, then we will vote on that motion.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, I was going to to ask before the debate was closed, that you state again the question of what an "aye" and "no' vote will mean.

The CHAIRMAN. The question before the Committee is on the ruling of the Chair, to which the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, took exception. Those voting "aye" vote to sustain the ruling of the Chair and those voting "no" vote against sustaining the ruling of the Chair. The ruling of the Chair is that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, is out of order.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, then does it not follow that the original motion comes before the body as in order.

The CHAIRMAN. If the House sustains the ruling of the Chair, the motion does not then come before the Committee.

Mr. SOWERS. But if the Committee does not sustain the ruling of the Chair then the original motion comes before the body.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman is right.

On the question recurring,

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the ruling of the Committee?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Sowers and Mr. Long and were as follows:

(MR. HUTTON IN THE CHAIR)

The CHAIRMAN. Owing to the number of amendments offered, and also the fact that many of them are inconsistent one with the other, the Chair is of opinion that in order to proceed intelligently and in an orderly way, in consideration by this committee of the several amendments, that the following procedure will be carried out:

The amendments will be ready by the Clerk in the order in which the sponsors offered them. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure, offered the first amendments. Those amendments will be read first, and the sponsor will be given the opportunity of explaining to the committee the import of his amendments.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Dr. Steedle, was second in sponsoring amendments, and his amendments will be read by the Clerk, and Dr. Steedle will be given the opportunity of explaining to the committee his amendments. So on through the list as we have them here at the desk arranged in the order of sponsorship.

There will be no vote taken until all the amendments as offered are read and explained by the several sponsors, after which we will then take up the matter of the adoption of the amendments in the same order. Is that clear to the committee? If so, we will proceed.

The Clerk will read the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure, to explain his amendments.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, you have just heard read the proposed amendments to House Bill No. 10. You have had this bill in its original form before you since November 13, and you have had opportunity to take the bill home and go over it piecemeal with your constituents.

During the time this piece of legislation has been on your desks and in your possession, a great amount of study and thought has been put on it. I realize for one that anything we may do here in this session, this special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, on liquor control, will be subject to review by future legislatures. I am of the opinion that on a subject and on an issue as great as this, for the next fifteen or twenty-five years we will be legislating on state control and merchandising of this commodity. I don't want to take up your time by speaking on the bill generally, but I think in fairness to myself as sponsor of the measure and in fairness to those who are interested in its success that you should realize and know as you vote on this measure that it is a real effort to handle a difficult problem in this great Commonwealth.

The bill as originally prepared provided that the matter of control of liquor in Pennsylvania should be handled by the Pennsylvania Alcohol Permit Board. As you all know the Pennsylvania Alcohol Permit Board is composed of the Attorney General, the Secretary of Education and the Secretary of Welfare,, the three of whom are direct appointees of the Governor of this Commonwealth. Immediately that provisions in the bill drew fire. A number said that Governor Pinchot tried to set himself up in power for the purpose of political patronage. The bill has been amended as you gentlemen have just heard, taking the Pennsylvania Alcohol Board out of it and in lieu thereof, inserting the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.

This bill in itself does not set up the Pennsylvania Alcohol Control Board. For your information I desire to state that there will be a bill submitted to the Senate providing that the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board shall be composed of three members. Those three members shall be appointed by the Governor, subject to the approval of a two-thirds vote of the Senate of Pennsylvania. The purpose of this board and the intention of those interested in working out this problem is if possible to appoint a non-political board to take this problem out of politics. In my opinion the problem of handling liquor in Pennsylvania should be fully and completely divorced from politics. Politics ought not control our merchandising activities. By what logical reasoning should politics control merchandising of liquor in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We propose, as I just said, to change the board from the Pennsylvania Alcohol Permit Board to the Liquor Control Board, in the manner which I have just designated.

During the time the bill has been before us there have been numerous and worthy and commendable suggestions for amendments. Those amendments, insofar as it was possible to carry them out and grant the request of the membership, have been inserted in this bill, or will be inserted by the amendments which you just heard read. There were a number of high lights in the matter of the amendments, but to me the more important ones are the ones which we have endeavored to place in the bill and cure the objections.

I don't want to burden you by taking up those amendments piecemeal, you have been over them and listened to them, I believe, intelligently. Most of you understand what the bill is and the form in which I hope you will approve those amendments.

On page 2, section one, line 21, concerning the type of club which would be eligible for a license, there was considerable controversy on that matter. We found from the information that reached us that there were a number of outstanding clubs in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which have been in existence from twenty to twenty-five years, fifty years, were not incorporated in the bill as originally prepared, and it would have been impossible for them to receive a charter. Under the bill as it now stands, any club which has been chartered or incorporated for a period of six months is eligible for a license; any unincorporated club that has been in existence for twenty years is eligible to receive a license, certainly all of them that fully meet the regulations and requirements as set forth in the bill. That amendment in my opinion is quite liberal. It gives any legitimate club in Pennsylvania the opportunity of securing this license and dispense liquor as provided for in the bill.

The next amendment is merely a definition, on page 3, line 28, of the word "person" for the reason that it made the bill more easily construed in its use for those places.

On page 4, line 4, you will note that the size of a restaurant shall be five hundred square feet, equipped with tables and chairs, accomodating at least fifty persons. This bill is originally drafted provided for one thousand square feet. At the request of some of the members of the House the amount of square feet was reduced to five hundred square feet, and the seating capacity fixed at sixty. The bill now reads "five hundred square feet with a seating capacity of fifty." This amendment reducing the required size of the restaurant was advocated on the theory that a one thousand square feet restaurant would not be feasible and practical in many of our districts. In other words, it was the desire back of this amendment, and I agree with them, that the men coming out of the mill, the man living in industrial and sparsely settled territory should be entitled to his drink of liquor if he wants it. The people have spoken, and it is our duty as legislators to intelligently, with reasonable and proper legislation, make it possible for them to secure liquor if they so desire. I feel that this amendment in the bill should satisfy most everyone as to the requirements as to the size of a building for the purpose of a restaurant.

When you come to the question of the amendment to the part of the bill pertaining to the description or definition of a hotel, the bill originally drawn required a building or establishment with fifteen rooms. That has been reduced to ten rooms. There are a number of men who still feel that that is not small enough. The purpose, and the only purpose, of defining these places which are properly entitled to a license is in order to safeguard not only society, but safeguard the welfare of those who have their means invested in the manufacture and commercializing of liquor. We felt that we had to have some dignity to the hotel rather than permitting the establishment or setting up throughout the State of Pennsylvania several-roomed dives, which would be for no one's benefit except that of the immediate operator and the filthy gold he might derive from the operation of it.

On page 6, line 3, originally the act read, in conjunction with the board's setting up stores in the communities, that before they should be permitted to do so on sites selected by them, they should be aproved by the Court of Quarter Sessions. For reasons presented by those interested, and due to the fact, to be frank, that in some counties there are dry judges sitting on the bench, it was felt that to insist upon the Court of Quarter Sessions passing on the location, that a number of our counties who under their vote are favorable to these liquor stores would be denied a liquor store for the reason that the judge sitting in Quarter Sessions would not approve the site, and they would be denied, or the board would, the opportunity of establishing a store in that territory. For that reason we have stricken out the necessity of the Court of Quarter Sessions passing on the location of the store. You will find later on in the bill an old tradition to the establishment of a store in a certain locality, near a church or schoolhouse, or what not, where the citizens, or a group of citizens may on their petition go before the Court and try the question as to whether or not that is a fit and proper and suitable place for the location of a liquor store in the locality where they contemplate locating. We also provide that there shall be advertising of at least five days, in order that the residents may have notice to give them opportunity to go into the Court and block the locating of a store opposite your residence or mine or the other fellows, and I think they are entitled to this. But the point I want to make is that the bill as originally drawn provided that the Board must secure the approval of the Courts before the store could be located in a certain place. That has been taken from the bill.

We felt that on page 10, where we set up the question of civil service, we have, insofar as it is humanly possible, protected the interest of the applicants. The man or woman examining the papers of the applicant for a position under the board under the civil service system, shall not know whose paper he or she is examining. The applicant's papers will bear a number, and in that way the applicant will be protected, and he receives credit for whatever his papers show. We made a slight amendment there merely to correct the thing and make it more clear as to the purpose of the Act.

The Act as originally prepared at page 12, line 8, provided only for the sale by the Pennsylvania Liquor Stores at wholesale to hotels, restaurants and clubs. That has been amended to also include railroads, Pullman cars, steamship companies, and later on in the act, and following that amendment at line 10, we provide that drug stores may also purchase it at wholesale from the Pennsylvania Liquor Stores. These amendments further provide that the drug stores may upon the prescription of a doctor in practice deliver liquor to the man holding the prescription. There was considerable objection to the bill as originally drafted that you would not be able to secure whisky at certain hours of the day or night in case of sickness. We felt that since whisky under the American Pharmacopia is defined as a drug that certainly no prescription, and in the use of mixing drugs, that the pharmacist should be allowed full freedom and liberty in the handling and sale of this commodity by the medical profession. That matter has been taken care of in the amendments.

There were a few minor amendments as we were going over the bill which were offered, which I don't believe are important enough at this time to speak of.

We come next to page 17, to the fixing of license fees in the community. On page 17, line 2, we amend there a similar situation in the words, in order to determine the population of the municipality, "as determined by the last preceding decennial census of the United States." In determining the size of the towns and the rate of the license fee to be charged, you will notice on line fifteen, that the classification has simply been changed, "in those having a population of one hundred thousand and more but less than one hundred forty thousand inhabitants, five hundred dollars." In other words, we have reduced the classification by ten thousand. There was considerable demand for that classification, and I think it is a fair and reasonable reclassification.

On page 18, section 408, and also on page 33, section 701, the question of the distribution of the license fees is taken care of. The bill as originally drafted provided that in the municipality, except townships of the second class, all the fees paid in to the Board for retail liquor licenses, should be turned over to the Commonwealth. Those coming from second class townships felt that this was unfair discrimination against that type of municipality. Under the amendments which were read it will provide that in townships of the second class, the money shall be turned over to the school districts coextensive with townships of the second class. We felt it was only fair if the townships wanted this money, like all other municipalities and communities in the State, that they should be entitled to it and procure it from the Board.

On page 20, at the end of line 22, we have inserted an amendment to take care of another problem which arose during the consideration of this bill. The question raised on that was that it was not the proper thing in this Commonwealth to permit females to serve liquor. That is, for females to mix and serve liquor in dining room, restaurant, club, or whatever. We amended that section at that point to provide against the employment, or permitting any female to serve liquor, or malt liquor, to guests, patrons, or members. I feel that that is a worthy amendment and ertainly the people in the liquor business ought not to ant barmaids.

The next amendment on that same page provides that ne Board may, with the approval of the Governor, temorarily close all licensed places within any municipality uring any period of emergency proclaimed to be such by ne Governor. Certainly that is put in there so that the oard may close establishments during times of strike or ny other disorder and in my judgment is a fair and reasnable regulation.

The next amendment of consequence is that at the botom of page 22, section 414, which is a new section written nto the bill. During the study on the bill the fact was rought to the attention of those endeavoring to formulate , that we were in a sense interferring with the handling nd use of sacramental wines. Now, certainly there was o intention to do that thing, and the amendment which will now read to you clearly handles that problem.

"Section 414. Sacramental wine permits. The board may pon application endorsed by the highest authority with- this Commonwealth of at least one religious denominaon or sect grant to responsible persons of good character acramental wine permits. The fee for such permits shall e one hundred dollars per annum and before any such ermit shall be granted the applicant shall file with the oard a bond in the sum of ten thousand dollars conditioned or the faithful observance by the permittee of all of the ws of this Commonwealth relating to the distribution, sale nd use of liquor and of the regulations of the board.

"Holders of such permits may import into this Commonealth wine to be used for sacramental or religious purposes, and to sell the same only to priests, clergymen or abbis for such purposes, under such regulations as the oard shall prescribe. Priests, clergymen and rabbis may wfully make purchases from such permittees under the gulations of the board but any wine purchased under uthority of this section shall not be used for any other an sacramental or religious purposes.

"Any such permit may be revoked by the board upon roof satisfactory to it that the permittee has violated any w of this Commonwealth relating to the distribution, sale use of liquor or any regulation of the board."

In my judgment, that fully, freely and liberally takes re of the requirements for the use of sacramental wines Pennsylvania, and is as I think it should be.

We found in going over our work considerable protest om the City of Philadelphia, and particularly did it seem come from a group, or a number of groups, interested in welfare of the Port of Philadelphia, and certainly there s no desire to reduce in any way traffic or shipping into g Port of Philadelphia. The question came up on the atter of importation of foreign liquors and wines, and is following section has been written into the bill to et, if possible, that objection, and in my judgment it rly does meet the objection.

Section 415. Importer's Licenses. The board may upon plication grant to responsible persons of good reputation porter's licenses. Such licenses shall permit the holders reof to import liquor from foreign countries to be sold side of this Commonwealth and exclusively to Pennsylvania uor Stores within this Commonwealth.

The fee for such licenses shall be one hundred dollars annuum and before any such license shall be granted applicant shall file with the board a bond in the sum ten thousand dollars conditioned for the faithful observance by the licensee of all of the laws of this Commonwealth relating to the distribution, sale and useof liquor and of the regulations of the board.

"Any such permit may be revoked by the board upon proof satsifactory to it that the licensee has violated any law of this Commonwealth relating to the distribution, sale or use of liquor or any regulation of the board."

Under that amendment it would be possible for importers to procure a license to import liquor, and in that way not interfere with the business of the Port of Philadelphia, and prevent the distribution throughout the country of imported liquors and also the sale of it to Pennsylvania liquor stores and the distribution of it to our citizens.

The next change in the bill was in page 23, Article 5, dealing with the question of local conditions. The bill at this point sets up a system whereby the local condition may be tested by an election. The bill as originally written confines the test by vote to a municipal election. There were some of those in the House who felt that there might not be a municipal election for several years, and for that reason was amended to provide that at any general or municipal election the question of local option might be oted upon. In other words, those communities who desire to test this, determine whether or not licenses shall be permitted within their municipality, may do so at the next general or municipal election.

Again on page 25, line 14, we deal specifically with the dispensing of liquor by the pharmacists. In the event that I don't make myself clear on it, I desire to read it to you. The text of the bill, also the proposed amendments, starting at line 13, if the proposed amendments are accepted, would read as follows:

"Or a pharmacist duly licensed and registered under the laws of this Commonwealth from," then we insert there, "dispensing liquor on prescription of a duly licensed physician, dentist or veterinarian, or selling medical preparations containing alcohol or." That is there taken out of the prohibition of the bill, and they will be permitted to sell as I have just defined to you by that amendment. We read further "using liquor in compounding prescriptions or medicines and making a charge for the liquor used in such medicines, or a fanufacturing pharmacist or chemist from using liquor in manufacturing preparations unfit for beverage purposes, and making a charge for the liquor so used." We permit them to do that.

The next amendments pertaining to the keeping of liquor and under the amendments as offered, that is permitted by those holding importer's licenses, or priests, or clergymen or rabbis, or any holder of a sacramental wine permit, are permitted to keep liquor in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania other than that purchased through a Pennsylvania liquor store.

One other amendment that we added to the bill is this: That an applicant for a license should be required to file with his application a fee of ten dollars, this money to go to the liquor fund. We felt that the activity and the work of the Examining Board, or rather the License Board in the issuing of the license, in the event the same are granted, that fee of ten dollars should move into the terasury of the State of Pennsylvania, and the other fees, as I have explained, the general license fee shall go to the municipality in which the license fee operates.

In closing: I trust that I have made myself clear on these amendments, and if I have not, I would be pleased to try to answer any questions you might have to put to me, but I say this, and I say it in all frankness and sincerity to you, that the member in this House who votes to place these amendments in this bill is doing a public service. I feel that this question of liquor control must be safely and intelligently handled for all those interested, either as purchasers or sellers of the product, as well as that of the man who wants his drink when he wants it. I feel if you vote these amendments into this bill, looking toward the success of the measure, that you are doing yourselves justice, and you are doing justice by your constitutents.

There is one other thought I want to leave with you before I close, and that is this, that if any of our friends are worried about the type of board which may be set up in this Senate bill, I want to relieve your mind on the matter of the political makeup of this board. It is the intention of those who are responsible for the change of plans to set up a group of men as a board whom everybody in Pennsylvania would look up to as honorable, decent business men. As I said before, this job is bigger than politics. Let us not be partisan in a matter which concerns the safety socially, and the welfare of the citizens of this Commonwealth. I say this to you in closing, that before we come to the final vote tomorrow on the passage of House Bill No. 10, the Governor will announce publicly the names of the men who will compose the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board. In voting now we are not voting on that question, we are simply providing that that type of board shall be recognized after the Senate passes the legislation and the members are acted on by two-thirds of the Senate. The point I am trying to make clear is this: Before any member of this House will be asked tomorrow to vote finally as to whether House Bill No. 10 shall pass or not pass, he will know who the appointees of the Governor shall be.

I ask you members in all fairness to vote favorably upon the amendments we have offered to this bill.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Chairman, may I make a slight explanatory remark. I should like the attention of the members of the House during the reading of these amendments because these amendments offered by myself and Mr. Sowers go hand in hand. I took the first two topics owing to the fact that they were not off the typewriter and his amendments follow right in line. After the Clerk has discontinued reading my amendments, amendment by amendment, I would request that he take up Mr. Sower's amendments, which follow right straight in line with them. I say to the men and ladies of the House that are interested in the abolition of the State liquor stores, who are not in sympathy with State liquor stores, this amendment offers to rout out the State liquor stores. The only explanation I wanted to make is that the amendments of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, immediately follow mine and after the Clerk has read them then he takes up the amendments offered by Mr. Sowers which go hand in hand with the amendments I just offered.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair requests that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle come to the rostrum and aid in the reading of his amendments, and that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers also come to the rostrum for the same purpose.

Section 803, Repeal of inconsistent legislation. All Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent herewith are herewith repealed.

The CHAIRMAN. The Committee has just heard read the amendments as proposed by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers. According to the program the Chair will now recognize the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Chairman and ladies and gentlemen of the House. My amendments that I have offered, the first amendment on page 1 entitled By striking out all of the title from the word "to" to the word "penalties" and is nothing more than what necessary follows so that the act may be properly considered and it eliminates it its language particularly the so-called State liquor stores and creates or sets up the mechanics which follow the creation of the so-called Zone Commission.

The next amendment that I offered to House Bill No. 10 is amendment to section 2 on page 2 lines 23 and 24 by striking out the words "having a dining room for the use of its members and a kitchen apart therefrom in which food is regularly prepared for the members." The reason for that is that under a true interpretation of the law as presented by the original bill, it denies certain clubs; they have already been cared for in amendments, if they are sustained by this body, offered by Mr. McClure. Under the amendments of Mr. McClure, clubs that have been in business for twenty years are taken care of. In the Pittsburgh district now we have some old time singing societies who have a club room or an assembly room on the top floor of a certain bank building, or whatever that building may be. Now, they don't themselves have the necessary equipment for regular kitchen service. In their congeniality possibly at a meeting night, or a Saturday or a Sunday and after a little service they may properly tap a quarter or a half or a barrel of beer, as the case may be. They have an ice box in which they may keep some things, I am talking now of pre-prohibition days, it contains liquor and probably a bottle of wine and probably gin, whatever it may be, but however it is still liquor. Now, these men under the purview of the act of Mr. McClure's would be denied that right. They would have to build kitchens separate and distinct from their assembly hall. If it is fair enough to admit them into the picture for the bodies that existed twenty years or more then it is just as fair that these clubs be permitted to do business without all of these specific regulations, because it is a hardship on that kind of club. On these occasions in the way of serving meals probably all they serve is a limber on a plate or ham or cheese or some other type, probably smoked herring. They don't have a dining room, they have an assembly room where they sit down and enjoy what they do. So it was the intent, therefore, not to place a strict regulatory measure on such a club.

On page 2, section 2, the next amendment offered by myself is as follows—what does the Commission mean. "The Commission means the zone liquor control commission hereby created for the purpose of granting, regulating, suspending or revoking package store licenses, hotel licenses, restaurant licenses and club licenses, for the sale, purchase, transportation, importation, distribution of alcohol beverages as hereby defined." It means the sale of a quart or more over the counters and not for consumption on the premises. It is a new name for an old object. If this be transgression we had to arrange our language probably to meet the will of the public "hotel licenses, restaurant licenses, club licenses for the sale, purchase, transportation and the importation, distribution of alcoholic beverages as herein defined." That takes away or helps to take away in the language the so-called State owned liquor stores.

The next amendment is on page 2, section 2, line 26, by inserting in the paragraph ahead of the word "corporations" the amendment which is as follows: it is a definition for a consumer, "a consumer shall mean a person who buys liquor for any purpose other than for resale." In other words if I go to a package store house and buy a quart of liquor I am not permitted to resell that.

The other amendment offered by me was on page 2, article I, section 2, lines 28 and 29, by striking out lines 28 and 29 for the purpose of clarifying "importations." Under our present laws I can now go to France or any other country, and if I want to I can have shipped to whatever part of this country it is, anything that I want to buy, as long as I pay the tax.

Article I, section 2, page 3, line 4, we took away or detracted therefrom a fifteen room hotel requisite. To my mind we considered at the time we wrote this here that for the ordinary hotel in a small town five rooms would be amply sufficient, but, however, it was agreed that probably eight might answer the purpose. I am still however of the opinion that five to my mind is better than eight, because we must realize that every little hotel in a small town has to have quarters for its immediate family, and they may themselves occupy six or seven rooms, depending on the number in the household, and five guest rooms would be suffcient, but possibly eight is not asking too much. Mr. McClure in his amendment changed it from fifteen to ten rooms, and we have just went him one better and took two more off.

Article I, section 2, page 3, line 9, after the word "public" as follows: this is just an expression of what the word "license" means. "License means and includes both the person making the application therefor and the premises upon which the privileges of the license are to be exercised."

The other amendment is with reference to malt liquors. The reason we did that was that if the licensee holding a restaurant or hotel liquor license and selling beer, he would not be restrained from selling Duffy's Malt Extract or any other liquor that is distilled from malt. So therefore, we protected that so that there would be no infringement upon the man that would have a beer license, and by permitting him to sell malt liquors, so we put in the word "undistilled", and that protects the man who may be in competition with him and that has a beer privilege.

The other amendment offered by me was the package stores. "Package stores means an establishment where liquor or alcoholic beverages are lawfully sold as herein provided in quantities of not less than one quart, and not for consumption on the premises, and in which liquors may be rectified."

The rectifier under the old Brooks High Law system had to apply to the Federal Court, and he paid for the additional privilege $200 for rectifying spirits. That granted him the right to reduce a high proof liquor to a blend, and it was to the Federal System which he had to apply, to the Federal Government, and he had to maintain an invoice as to the purchase, sale and everything beyond five gallons, so that the revenue agent coming around could check up on how much he had purchased, how much he had sold, and check to whom he sold it so the Federal Government could get the revenue out of it.

The other amendment offered by me has reference to the floor space total, and we took out the word "sixty". Mr. McClure made it fifty. We went it one better and only made it forty.

The next amendment is to Article I, page 3, and the amendment offered is by striking out the word "Board". At this time in the act it has the words "Alcohol Permit Board". We took that out and substituted the words "Pennsylvania Liquor Control Commission", and after the words, strike out the word "instrumentality", and insert in lieu thereof the word "instrumentalities", which is only a correction.

In Article I, section 2, page 4, line 10, by inserting after the word "transfer" and before the word "of" the following words: "And delivery". This amendment is permitting a man who takes out a package liquor license, so that he can deliver to your home and to my home upon a telephone order, or whatever method we may use, for the information and request for delivery to our particular premises, or a club, without the necessity of walking to the liquor store, and the delivery privilege grants to the individual some personal prerogatives.

I hope, ladies and gentlemen of the House, and it is not my intention to keep you here, but I hope you will give favorable consideration to the following amendments as well as the ones I have read to you, and the following amendments are the real nucleus in the eliminating of State owned liquor stores.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman and members of the Committee, to discuss each amendment at length would take too much time. I will try to discuss with you the question of political policy and expediency and principle, rather than the clothing of the amendment or the clothing of the bill itself.

It was well said that what we do here today would be long remembered, and in opening my remarks and bringing to you the policies involved, I will start and give you this thought.

The Anti-Saloon League gave birth to one of the ugliest propositions that was ever given to the American people, the Eighteenth Amendment. That League today is trying to bring forth a second child, and that second child is House Bill No. 10. Members of the Committee, House Bill No. 10 is in all respects of policy and as to all respects to expediency, and all respect to its principle an exact duplicate of the Snyder-Armstrong Law in this Commonwealth. The amendments that we have offered, with Mr. Steedle, are amendments to change the policy or law in this Commonwealth other than the Eighteenth Amendment and from the retaining of the Snyder-Armstrong law. A vote for the bill unamended is to record yourself as still continuing to favor the Snyder-Armstrong act.

I propose an amendment to the article that creates the so-called state stores. That amendment strikes out all of the articles creating State stores. I propose a substitute for State stores and that substitute for State stores is the creation of ten liquor control Commissions. I have tried to divide the State as equally as possible, having in mind the population and the territory. The amendments creating a commission of four members each in each zone; four members not of the majority party, only four members on the local board and two members of each party, two of the dominant and two of the next highest party. We provide in these amendments that no decision of that commission shall be binding until at least three members of that commission agree to the decision, so that the commission cannot be used as a football of party politics. We propose for that commission to have the power to issue licenses; also to have the power to supervise and to watch. We propose that the commission shall have a secretary, stenographers, and such other employes, which by the natural course of events shall be equally divided between the two parties.

We propose by that amendment this policy; to take liquor out of politics, to take it out by putting the responsibility directly on the shoulders of both parties, because they are both equally represented. We propose a practical and a certain measure of taking liquor out of politics and we feel that the bill as unamended keeps liquor in politics worse than liquor was ever in politics before. We feel that in our amendments we are dealing with the second child of the Anti-Saloon League which is uglier and meaner than the first one ever was.

We feel that the system of Ben Tillman of the south that was in existence for twenty years, possibly, and then revoked and repealed is one of the meanest systems put over by a politician on a people to perpetuate his power. The system of by having state stores in the south was the system that kept him in political power against the will of the vast majority of the state for many years.

Now members of this committee this system that is proposed is not without precedent; it is not without experience back of it. This system is practically the system of California, practically the system of Ohio, practically the system of Canada. The word "package store" is not created by the sponsors of these amendments. The word "package-stores" you will find in the laws of state after state. The words "State stores" in what state of the Union today will you find it.

Now, members of the Committee, House Bill No. 10 lays down the policy that the enforcement of the liquor laws must come from Harrisburg. House Bill No. 10 is like the old prohibition laws, like the old 18th amendment, like the Snyder-

Armstrong law, that it does depend for its enforcement from a central place. Our amendments present you a different policy, a policy that was an American policy from the time the first settler landed here and stayed here, the policy of local government. I submit to you that the policy of local government is far preferable to that of a monarch sitting up here trying to prosecute the laws either at Philadelphia or in Erie. I submit to you that you cannot enforce any law that does not have the sentiment and the backing of the people in a community. Where do your jurors come from; where do the real enforcers of the law in America come from? Do they come from the state? Don't they come from the county? Don't they go to the court with a feeling of their own as to whether or not a law is good or is bad? How many prohibition cases have you heard in court argued where all the lawyer for the defense had to do—I guess I have done it too—was to say "here is another one of these liquor cases." Without the sentiment of the county back of the law there never can be enforcement. Our proposal is to give to the localities the enforcement of that law and let that locality have rules and regulations such as they may choose to propose to meet the requirements of that particular locality and in that way let the liquor law of the state be enforced and applied as wet Erie would like to have it in Erie, or as dry Tioga County might like it. In Erie you will never get a conviction unless you have a sensible policy. In Tioga County you would get a conviction up there probably, even if it was me.

Now, members of the jury, pardon me, members of the committee, but you are the jury, but not like a jury in court, you are not leaving this for the next legislature but you are leaving it to yourself. And remember the people won't worry about the next legislature correcting the bill but they will worry about correcting you.

Now, members of the committee, just for a moment, what about the provisions as to clubs? A club that is nineteen and one-half years old is a criminal and a club that is twenty years old is an innocent man. Did you ever hear of anything more ridiculous than that? I don't know why my friend Mr. McClure didn't put it in at twenty-one years so that the club might have reached its majority? Where, members of this committee, can you see a sound policy in House Bill No. 10. In the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny county, Mr. McClure, saying that clubs should have been in existence for twenty years? How many incorporated clubs live twenty years? Gentlemen that belong to incorporated clubs, that have been incorporated for a year or two years or three years, must they necessarily be criminals; must they be robbed?

Now, members of the Committee, we maintain to you that House Bill No. 10 as unamended continues a policy that America wants no more. What was that policy? That policy was the creator of the bootlegger and the creator of the rum-runner and the creator of the murderer and the creator of gangs and blackjack groups that existed all over this State and all over America. That policy said to these people of America "Have no more faith in thy neighbor than in thy gang, because your gang will protect you more than your country will." That was the policy that the Eighteenth Amendment gave birth to. That was the policy of the child of the Anti-Saloon League. This House Bill No. 10 continues the same policy with possibilities that are worse probably and more frightful than the old Eighteenth Amendment created. Any man that practices in the criminal courts of our Commonwealth knows that when a State store sells a barrel of rum the purchaser will remove the label and the contents will always be there, the bottle will always be full. Nobody will ever fill it, but the bottle will always be full. Every hotel keeper that will buy from the State Store a quart of liquor at $4; won't he go around the corner and get stuff that did not come from State Stores. He will get it for a nominal sum of money and put it back in the bottle, and it will still be State Store liquor.

Remember, members of this Committee, in this connection that the Eighteenth Amendment educated our children in this Commonwealth to the manufacture of all kinds of intoxicating liquors. They are as good experts as anybody can be in the distillation of liquor. Remember, members of this Committee, that pretty good liquor can be made for 35 cents a gallon. Remember that today on the streets of Philadelphia fairly good shots are being sold for as little as fifteen cents and twenty cents a pint. Do you imagine that this competition is going to go out of existance because of the policy that is laid down in House Bill No. 10.

We offer amendments to change that policy; we offer amendments to make it possible for the liquor dealer to cease being a crook and a criminal, a hijacker and a murderer; we offer a policy that will put him in competition with the bootleggers and let him lick the bootlegger. We want to lick the bootlegger. We don't want to destroy House Bill No. 10, but that section of House Bill No. 10 makes the bootlegger a bigger and better bootlegger than ever existed before. The policy of House Bill No. 10—I would break an arm trying to describe how rotten it is.

Now, I listened to the cries from the rostrum, "I want to sit down and accomplish results. I don't want either the Republican Party or the Democratic Party to have anything to do with it. Oh, men, I want to operate the liquor stores, and let me do it." That is No. 10 bill. "I want the liquor stores and let me do it."

Members of this Committee, did you ever hear tell of one American, one single actual American, asking an American community of ten million inhabitants to give him authority that he might say "What thou shall drink I shall buy for you, and thou shall pay me what I ask." Did you ever in the history of a liberty loving people hear a policy, the policy set forth in House Bill No. 10, a policy that will tell you that, and which you will find worse than anything you have had before.

Today the sponsor of this measure offers an amendment to put the liquor dealer in religion. Put liquor dealers in religion!

President Roosevelt has said, he is chasing the money changers out of the Capitol, but the policy of House Bill No. 10 chases the liquor dealers into the Capitol. The poor priest must buy his wine after he gets his $100 permit or his friend gets it. The poor rabbi is in the same boat. I have drank some of their wine, it doesn't all stay in the church. He has to go around to get a permit and pay one hundred dollars to get wine to celebrate Christ, and the rabbi to celebrate in his devotion. I am astonished that my Christian friend from Allegheny ever attempted to put the liquor dealer into the Capitol of God when Roosevelt is doing all he can to chase out the money changers from the Capitol of the people. Which is worse, God knows they are both bad, but which is worse?

I am sorry that I did not have character enough to stand by my honest convictions, the convictions of my heart as to the furniture and as to the size of the room, of the bar, and the rail, with the railing for your legs to rest on. But No. 10, it is not as good as the old No. 6 was. Old No. 10 says that if you sell a drink to a man with one foot on a rail you are a crook and a criminal but if you sell a drink to a man with a girl sitting at a table you are talking to and giving her a drink at a table with a napkin and a clean white tablecloth, then you are a saint. I wonder who is the better saint, the man at the bar who is not enticing a woman to drink, or the man at the table who is enticing your daughter or some other man's daughter to drink.

Members of this Committee, if the policies of House Bill No. 10 are so terrible, how can you consider it for any length of time? I wanted to, in fairness to you men and ladies of this House, to explain to you the policies that were laid down in our amendment, so that if you don't like them you can vote against them. If you don't like them and prefer the provisions of House Bill No. 10, you can again say American liberty is still not my desire.

Now when the Governor gets through with House Bill No. 10, you will get the search warrant. And then the search warrant will be out again for everybody that has a pint of whiskey. The search warrant will be out again for anybody that has any other varieties of liquors but those sold by the State stores.

Members of this Committee, I say that House Bill No. 10 continues all of the evils and all of the sins of the Snyder-Armstrong Law and all of the mean things of search warrants. Into your homes at midnight they will come with search warrants and hunt all over your house for contraband liquor. If you might have had good sense enough to buy a bottle of State liquor first and than drink it and fill up the bottle again you would be all right. I imagine the people of Pennsylvania will have sense enough to know that they should first buy a bottle of State stores liquor and use it and next buy good liquor at a lower price and then put it in the State store bottle. Can you imagine American people paying four dollars for a quart when they can get it for fifty cents. No, they won't do that, and if you have good sense when the search warrant officers wakes you up at midnight it will only be to find liquor in a State store bottle. Do you want a mean, contemptible system like that, the meanest system that the mind of man could invent, the first the system of the Eighteenth Amendment and the second will be the system of House Bill No. 10, another and a second baby of the Anti-Saloon League.

Now, members of the Committee, does Central Pennsylvania want to tell the City of Philadelphia how it should manage and control its liquor traffic? Does Philadelphia want to tell central Pennsylvania how it shall guide itself? Do you men in the country know better how to take care of yourselves than we in the city do and don't we in the city know better how to take care of ourselves than you in the country know how to do it? I can see the evils of the chain stores system of the A. and P. and the other stores in this. This is Pinchot's new venture but he ain't selling stock in it. What kind of a chain store system does the policy of House Bill No. 10 propose? If the chain store system is so terribly bad in the country, if it is so mean and contemptible in the country, taking in every small dollar and big dollar in a local community and putting it into the bank and sending it on to New York the next day, does not this House Bill No. 10 do that and do it in a worse manner than the A. & P. and the other chain stores or are all of them combined together? Where is the liquor money going to be handled, where is it going to be deposited; where is it going to be loaned out, how is it going to help the business in your locality. It is going to be shipped out of your community and sent to a bank and that bank will probably be in New York.

Now, members of the Committee, the American people voted down that Eighteenth Amendment because they were tired of bootlegging and our good clever President realizing that they were tired of it acted promptly in order to get a revenue on it, but I want you men to remember that when you put too much on it you destroy the very purpose of getting revenue.

Now, House Bill No. 10 and our amendments are in conflict with two policies. House Bill No. 10 is of itself a prohibition measure. Our amendments are liberal, progressive, sensible and reasonable.

House Bill No. 10 and its policy of taxation is only to assist to continue prohibition. Prohibition is gone out by law, but this says "Thou shalt not have" and the Lord knows that if you have not got the price to pay for it you won't have it either, so that House Bill No. 10 is only prohibition in another gown, in a different dress. State stores of prohibition in a different dress and a different suit of clothes.

Now, members of the committee, I am going to close with this thought. Some circus manager once said, "you could fool all of the people, all of the time." Some other circus managers say that that can be done. The American people have spoken.

Members of this committee during the last regular session, members of this body shed tears when they voted on the Sunday Blue Laws. Some of them shed tears when they voted on the search warrant repeal, but they both got through. But when the people came to vote on the Sunday Blue laws, I heard of one county where an advocate of the blue laws stood here on the floor of this House and shed tears as to what it would mean and I think that the county from which he came voted eight to one in favor of the repeal, so you can see what a good judge of sentiment in that community that advocate of the Sunday Blue Law was. Now, you cannot fool all the people. This House Bill No. 10 is simply an effort to continue the policy of prohibition. It was the meanest kind of an effort to have you think that a state store system is going to fool the people and still keep them under the yoke of prohibition and if you think they will do that you are mistaken. You are not here today with a year and a half ahead of you, for re-election; you are here today with only a few months ahead of you when you must answer the people and will you go to the people with a cry of prohibition; will you go to the people with the reply that you are an anti-saloon advocate; will you go to the people and say that you are interested only in the rich and those who have the price to drink? Will you not rather go before the people with an honest, fair and reasonable policy as written down in these amendments.

The CHAIRMAN. The clerk will read the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Rectenwald.

The amendments were read as follows:

Amend sec. 301, page 8, line 24, by inserting after the word "act" the following: "Provided that in counties of the first and second classes not less than fifty liquor stories shall be established in each such county

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Rectenwald. Does the gentleman from Allegheny desire to be heard? If not we will pass on to the next amendment.

The Clerk will read the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. L. P. Kane.

The Amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend bill, page 13, by adding thereto, after line 23, a new section 307, as follows:

Section 307. Distribution of Part of Profits of State Stores. One-half of all net profits arising annually from the operation of any Pennsylvania liquor store shall be for the use of the municipality in which such store is located, and for such purposes any moneys arising from such profits and deposited in any special fund are hereby specifically appropriated to be paid over as soon after the first day of each State fiscal year as the audit of the Auditor General of any such store for the fiscal year has been completed.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kane.

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, the amendment I submitted is very brief and I will confine my remarks to a few words. In all this discussion that we have had here, it impresses me that we are forgetting one thing, and that is the so-called forgotten man. Our local taxpayers all need relief in the state of Pennsylvania. The average man does not pay any state tax directly but he does pay the local taxes and these local taxes are a burden to him. Just six months ago the city auditors of the city of Pittsburgh published a list of names of forty-five thousand people who are unable to pay their 1932 taxes, and from information I received the same condition exists in Philadelphia, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Erie, and other municipalities in the State of Pennsylvania. The local taxpayer is the man who needs relief. Practically for the last three years they have been promised and promised relief, but I don't think that we have ever done anything to relieve the local taxpayers. In my opinion this is a golden opportunity where we can give the taxpayers some relief. In this proposed bill the State of Pennsylvania will receive $25,000,000 floor tax. They will also receive $25,000,000 in manufacturers taxes, and it has been estimated that the profits from these stores will run anywheres from forty to seventy-five million dollars a year, but up until now no one has suggested that the local taxpayers get any benefit, nor anything. The State will be receiving approximately $600,000 a month from the beer license. That is a tremendous amount of revenue to come into the State without any relief for our local taxpayers. Regardless of how much revenue the State receives, the man back home, our constitutent, does not get any relief, and my amendment proposes that half of the profits from the State Stores will be returned to the municipalities in which the stores are located. Some members have said that their municipalities may not have a store, but I guarantee, gentlemen, that if this system of State Stores is put into effect, every municipality in Pennsylvania will demand a State Store. People are not going to travel thirty or forty miles to buy a bottle of liquor. They want it where they can walk down and get it and walk home, they want it as convenient as the average post office and drug store is. If you gentlemen are really sincere, and if you want to serve the Commonwealth and want to serve our constituents, the local taxpayers, I ask you to take advantage of this golden opportunity and vote "aye" when these amendments come up.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendments offered by the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Brown, will be read.

Amend Sec. 701, page 33, lines 1 to 5, both inclusive, by striking out all the words in said lines.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Brown. Is there explanation of these amendments to be made? If not, we will take up the next amendments.

The amendments of the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Hart, will be read.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 2, page 3, line 4 by striking out the word "fifteen" and inserting in lieu thereof: "eight."

Amend Sec. 302, page 9, line 18 by inserting after the word "prescribe" the following: "Provided, however, That the board shall not require an applicant to furnish a photograph of his or her self and that no application blank shall require the color of the applicant to be designated."

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hart.

Mr. HART. Mr. Chairman and ladies and gentlemen of the Committee, I have three amendments. The first two have been covered already. Therefore it appears we are all in accord on those two amendments. The third amendment, however, is offered for the purpose of securing fair and just recognition of any colored applicant under the civil service provisions of this bill, and it simply states that there shall be no requirement for pictures to be furnished, or that there shall be no designation of color in the blank application.

I have received at the hands of this body fair recognition many other times. I hope the members of this Committee will vote for the adoption of this amendment when it comes up.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gartner, will be read.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 411, page 20, line 18, by inserting after the word "hotel" the word: "or."

Amend Sec. 411, page 20, line 18, by striking out the words "or club."

Amend Sec. 411, page 20, line 23, by inserting after the word "licensees" the words: "other than clubs."

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gartner.

Mr. GARTNER. Mr. Chairman and members of the Committee, some of you, and I personally have been agitated in the last couple of days particularly as to clubs. I will take up these amendments. I will not talk on them at length, I will just talk generally on them and very, very briefly.

I only seek to protect the small club that has not the dining room feature or costly kitchen that many of the higher places and clubs have. I notice that Dr. Steedle has also offered such an amendment and I will be satisfied of course, if you follow out my thought and vote aye on either one of them.

The amendments offered on page 20, are just as important if not more so. We know what the club means to every member of this House and every individual in Pennsylvania. Nearly everyone of us belongs to some organization or other that has its club house. From time immemorial the club has been been a man's second home. He has gone there individually and he has gone there with his friends and fellow members and he goes there with his family. I don't think this act should restrict the freedom that the man has had in and about his club. It has been well said under the old law we have not bothered, nobody ever was concerned, that is quite correct, and that is because the club was not specifically mentioned. However, in this act the clubs are mentioned. Their hands are tied, and they are told how they should do this and when they should do that. I don't think that that is right. Many of us know from the course of the recent prohibition era that court decisions have held that the man's club is his second private home. Only recently in Delaware a prohibition agent was found guilty of perjury because the information he gave with his search warrant was solely that of becoming a member of the club and then using the key to go in there and get evidence upon which he later raided. The raid was set aside and the man who was quite a notable man in the prohibition ranks went out west and continued in the prohibition service, but he was brought back for trial and convicted in Wilmington, Delaware, for contempt of court—I may be wrong on that, but it had something to do with a search warrant.

I bring that thought to you to show you just how close the club is and must be to all of us. I don't think any of us will suffer a great hardship if clubs are left out of the provisions of this act. After all a hotel and restaurant is a public institution; everyone can go there; everyone has his right to the service, and quite rightfully so, whether it is this act or any other act, they should be governed as they were prior to prohibition, but the club should still keep its preference. The club should be the place where we can go. As a matter of fact if it is a real club, as it should be, it will be incorporated and is governed by the court and proper proceedings can be taken in court to eliminate it. Therefore, let us keep the private club, let us keep it in this country, and when these amendments are brought before you I hope you will vote favorably for them.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendments offered by the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Peters, will be read.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 302, page 9, line 13, by adding after the word "establishments" the following: "but in all cases, persons appointed shall be citizens of the United States."

Amend section 403, page 15, line 21, by adding after the word "thereunder" the following: "Licenses shall be issued to applicants, if natural persons, only to such who are citizens of the United States who have been residents of this Commonwealth for at least three years immediately preceding the application for license; or, when corporations, only to such as were organized, or are duly authorized to transact business in this Commonwealth, and all of whose officers and directors shall be citizens of the United States who have been residents of this Commonwealth for at least three years immediately preceding the application for license.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Peters.

Mr. PETERS. Mr. Chairman, I do not wish to be recognized.

The CHAIRMAN. The Committee has heard read and explained the various amendments submitted to House Bill No. 10. As explained by the Chair prior to the consideration of the amendments, the several sets of amendments submitted do not dove-tail and if such inconsistent amendments should be incorporated in the bill the result would be a bill which, if adopted, could not be applied.

Consequently, it is the purpose of the Chair in calling for a vote on these amendments to follow the same procedure as was followed in the reading and discussion of the amendments: That is to take them up in the order submitted. The Chair now submits to the Committee the McClure amendments with which you are familiar and the question is, "shall the amendments to House Bill No. 10, proposed by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure, be inserted in House Bill No. 10?" Those voting in "aye" will vote for the adoption of the amendments. Those voting "no" vote to reject the amendments.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by Mr. McClure?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Chairman, in the event that the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure, were to pass that practically would nullify the amendments that were passed or recommended by other members; is that right?

The CHAIRMAN. That is not correct.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Chairman, do we vote on each one?

The CHAIRMAN. We do, we vote seriatim.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, may I offer a suggestion?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia may offer his suggestion.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, if we start to vote on the amendments, it will take a long time. I will say that it took fifty-six hours of continuous time to prepare the amendments of Mr. Steedle and myself. There is but one issue here and that issue is: shall there be state stores or shall there not be state stores. If this committee decides against our thought that there should be state stores, our thought being that there should not be state stores, then I would have no interest in any kind of amendments and I would suggest that before the committee proceeds to vote on each and every one of these amendments, which means striking out the word "or," or putting in the word "commission," numerous in number, that we frame a question of policy and that we go on record whether we are for state stores or whether we are not for state stores.

I think that maybe my friend from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, will agree with me that if the committee votes that it is for state stores, then we can withdraw our amendments and if the committee votes that it does not want state stores, hen our amendments can be adopted almost en bloc.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair informs the gentleman from Philadelphia that in the interest of celerity and expedition in this matter, the Chair has announced that the McClure amendments could be voted on in toto, and the same will be done with the amendments of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

As has been well stated by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, there are principles at stake and those principles have to be voted upon by taking the entire amendments, or the amendments in toto rather than severally, otherwise we would be here indefinitely and the Chair desires to inform the committee that under regular parliamentary procedure we cannot recess, we must proceed with the business and cannot rise and report to the House until we have finished the business or cannot finish it. That is in explanation of the position of the chair.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, what is the status of a member who desires to vote in the affirmative upon a large number of the amendments submitted by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure, and who desires to vote in the negative concerning one particular amendment? How can we take up all the amendments in toto if the amendments deal with different sections and different subject matters?

I state very frankly, that I find myself in the position of favoring a number of the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, but not all of them, and I would like to know how I can express my vote before this committee.

Mr. JOHN M. FLYNN. Mr. Chairman, I would suggest that when it comes to voting on the amendments of the gentleman from Allegheny and the gentleman from Philadelphia that any member so desiring may ask for a division on the question.

The CHAIRMAN. That is perfectly proper.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I therefore move that all of the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny that do not deal with state stores be submitted before this committee and that separately there be submitted before this committee those amendments of the gentleman from Allegheny, that deal with state stores.

The CHAIRMAN. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Chair desires to state that there are no amendments in the McClure bill pertaining to state stores, they are in that bill.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, does an affirmative vote upon the amendments submitted by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure, indicate the thought of any member of this committee that he is either for or against state stores?

The CHAIRMAN. It would not, in my opinion.

Mr. WITKIN. Therefore I take it, Mr. Chairman, that the only question that arises by the amendments introduced by the gentleman from Allegheny are amendments dealing with certain portions of the bill, and that an affirmative vote or a negative vote does not indicate the member's position on state stores?

The CHAIRMAN. That is correct.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE

Mr. BECHTEL. Mr. Chairman, I now move you that the vote by which the motion of Mr. Sowers calling for the printing of the amendments and having them placed upon the desk of each member was defeated be reconsidered. I do not see personally how any member of the House can intelligently vote "no" or "yes" upon any amendment now before the House, because it is surely out of their power to immediately determine at this time how they affect the original Bill No. 10, on account of the number of amendments and the conflicting statements made in the discussion of those members.

Speaking for the members of Schuylkill county, I feel and we feel at this time that though it might not have been in error to have voted originally to sustain the Chair in this ruling, we do feel that it is in error that we do not have these amendments in front of us so that we can determine at this time how they affect the original Bill No. 10, and if the motion is not reconsidered, speaking for the members from Schuylkill, we cannot intelligently vote upon any of the amendments, and propose to vote "no" upon them all.

The CHAIRMAN. For the information of the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Bechtel, the Chair desires to make this statement: In ruling this morning it was simply a question of an inherent situation. This committee of the whole is now sitting, we could not have these amendments printed unless we bring the printing presses up here or unless we bring the printing presses up here or unless we could tarry around without rising until the amendments were printed. So the Chair rules that the motion of the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Bechtel, is out of order, and for the reason that we have before us now the question of the adoption of these amendments as proposed by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Elk, Mr. Flynn.

Mr. JOHN M. FLYNN. Mr. Chairman, I was merely going to state what the Chairman has stated in much better terms.

Mr. PEELOR. Mr. Chairman, suppose we vote on the amendments that have been suggested by the sponsor of the bill and amended to that extent, or suppose they fail and the amendments of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, are adopted, what sort of a thing will we have and what shall we call it when we get through with it?

Supposing the proposed amendments of Mr. Steedle and Mr. Sowers are inconsistent with the intent of the original bill, we will not have anything that any of us can understand.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair can only inform the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Peelor, that that conclusion at which he has arrived, in event certain things happen, would be for the determination of the committee of the whole.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Chairman, I am in sympathy with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin. However, it has been ruled that it is out of order, but I can't in my mind, and possibly I am a little thick, but I can't understand how we as members of this committee can vote "aye" or "nay" on Mr. McClure's bill and then come back and vote "aye" or "nay" on the suggestions offered by Mr. Sowers and myself, because the physical structure is so disturbed by our amendments that our amendments practically go out of the window the minute we pass the amendments offered by Mr. McClure. We can't vote intelligently on two issues of different character, of different intent and still be sane in our judgments. So the only thing that I can see, if we are going to vote for the McClure amendments in toto, is for the members of this committee who are in sympathy with the abolishing of the state store program to vote down all the amendments of Mr. McClure. In other words, we vote to throw the whole picture out and then we go into a new picture, we resurrect it, and we vote upon it. So I can't see how under any parliamentary procedure we can vote on two different elements and at the same time be sane in our judgments, because it certainly will cause conflict as Mr. Peelor has stated. We would have something that would be so emasulated that it wouldn't even be intelligent reading. Therefore, I think, Mr. Chairman, if that group who are opposed to state stores—much as we dislike to vote against the amendments of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure—there are lots of good features in this bill—therefore we would have to vote as a unit, vote down anything that would apply to the state store picture and all the rest, and the whole state store picture goes out of the window and only such amendments as are not disturbing elements of the act would be considered, such as the amendments of Mr. Hart, the amendment of Mr. Gartner, the amendments of Mr. Kane, and the amendments of Mr. Rectenwald, and those are probably only amending certain lines, after we have voted upon Mr. McClure's amendments, because they amend the bill, so there is no sane judgment in that position. We are mixed. So let us clarify the situation and see if there is not some way out of the picture. Probably we could accept the suggestion offered by Mr. Witkin, so that the liquor store people can vote in favor of it or vote against it and those opposing the liquor store plan could do likewise. I cannot see how we can intelligently vote on two different structures.

The CHAIRMAN. The chair desires to remind the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, that while we are in the committee of the whole, this bill must be reported back to the House and it will then be on second reading and it then can be considered for further amendments. As to the other point, if the McClure amendments should be adopted by this committee, for the time being it is true that the other amendments inconsistent therewith would be, to use the phrase of the gentleman from Allegheny, out of the window but by the very same token, if this House should subsequently adopt the amendments or part of the amendments as proposed by the gentleman from—I might say the entire amendments of the gentleman from Allegheny, then the McClure amendments would be out of the picture. It just depends on which stage of the parliamentary process we are discussing.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, in order to clear up the difficulty, I move that this House take up my amendment to House Bill No. 10, beginning with article three, page 13, by——

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair has already ruled, the gentleman from Philadelphia is informed, that the amendments will be taken up in the order of their sponsorship, and the question now before the House is on the adoption of the McClure amendments in toto.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, yes, but I wanted to submit to the body for their decision whether we cannot take up my amendments, striking out Article 3 and substituting another article for it, and then the whole difficulty is solved.

The CHAIRMAN. The amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, will be taken up following the amendments proposed by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, as a parliamentary proposition there are only two practical motions: motion one, that this committee of the whole report to the House, House Bill No. 10 as amended by the gentleman from Allegheny or on the other hand that this committee report to the House, House Bill No. 10 as amended by the gentleman from Philadelphia. Therefore I move that this committee report to the House, House Bill No. 10 as amended by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure.

The CHAIRMAN. For the information of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, the question which was before the House upon the adoption is practically the same as the motion as he made.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Chairman, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Hermansen, will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HERAMANSEN. Mr. Chairman, I would like to know that if an amendment that destroys the purpose of a bill is in order.

The CHAIRMAN. In answering the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Hermansen, the Chair will state that the question is entirely too general, and it would have to be more specifically framed in order to give an intelligent and proper answer. Furthermore, the inquiry in the opinion of the Chair is out of order, because we have for consideration the adoption of the McClure amendments. That is the sole question now before this committee, and these particular amendments, of course, do not change the intent or purpose of the bill.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Chairman, as a parliamentary consideration, I think what is in the minds of most of us in passing on these amendments by our votes: does this House, as the House, in bringing this bill No. 10 into committee lose its initiative and discretion in discussing the question of state stores?

Then don't we proceed to adopt the amendments, what there is to be adopted or defeated, and then bring the bill before the House for the purpose of discussing it on the basis of state stores? Since we are not losing time, which seems to agitate us on the only thought that may or may not be under discussion. It is only simply that we are making a little circuitous route in getting there. Let us proceed to discuss the amendments and discuss the amendments as incorporated in House Bill No. 10. Let us proceed in an orderly manner, in whatever sense that is parlimentary, and bring House Bill No. 10 before the House.

The CHAIRMAN. In answering the parlimentary inquiry of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Bennett, the Chair desires again to state that we are in that process of parlimentary procedure known as the Committee of the Whole. This Committee reports to the House, the bill in the House remains on second reading and is subject to any amendments whatsoever while in the custody of the House on second reading, and full discussion can be had at that time.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by Mr. McClure?

They were agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. The next amendments for consideration of the Committee are the amendments proposed by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, and these amendments are taken up in toto. They have been read by the Clerk and have been discussed by the sponsor. On the question of the adoption of these amendments——

MOTION FOR COMMITTEE OF WHOLE TO RISE

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Chairman, I move you that we now rise and the Committee of the Whole report back the McClure bill so that I can put into that bill our amendments, as offered by Mr. Sowers and myself.

Mr. Chairman, I move you that as a Committee of the Whole we report back to the House the bill as amended.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Committee agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a question of parlimentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state his question of parlimentary inquiry.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Chairman, as I understand the situation, the Committee of the Whole has before it additional amendments to the McClure amendments?

The CHAIRMAN. That is correct.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Now, if this motion is amended, so that it provides that the bill as referred to the House has to be recommitted to the Committee of the Whole, in order to consider the other amendments, I think that motion is in order, otherwise it would prevent the Committee of the Whole from voting on amendments before it.

The CHAIRMAN. That is perfectly true, but that is a matter that must be decided by this Committee of course. On the other hand it is true that the amendments that are not acted upon by this Committee can be subsequently acted upon when the bill is on second reading before the House.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny, by adding to it the following; That House Bill No. 10, after being reprinted as amended by the Committee of the Whole, be recommitted to the Committee of the Whole to take up the others amendmends now before it.

The CHAIRMAN. In answering or passing upon the parlimentary question of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, the Chair is of opinion that the motion is not in order, in fact it would not be within the power of this Committee to pass such a motion. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, is again reminded that we are in that technical procedure in parliament law known as the Committee of the Whole, and all that Committee can do is report to the House, Now, then, the House may resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole but that would be under parlimentary procedure for its determination, not for this Committee. So, the Chair is of opinion that the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia is perhaps premature.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Chairman, might I remind the Chair that in answering a parlimentary inquiry the Chair advised the Committee of the Whole that it would vote on each set of amendments? The effect of this motion would prevent this Committee of the Whole from following out that ruling of the Chair.

May I further elaborate, Mr. Chairman? There are members here who are in favor of the bill as amended by the McClure amendments with additional other amendments. This Committee of the Whole should have the opportunity of voting upon the amendments offered by Mr. Gartner. This motion would prevent such action by the Committee of the Whole.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the potency of this Committee, and whatever action is taken must be taken by the Committee. The Chair also recognizes the fact that in the case of the motion as made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, the amendments of the gentleman from Allegheny and the Sowers amendments would not be considered by the Committee of the Whole, but that would not be the fault of the Chair, that would be the fault of the Committee of the Whole in taking such action.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Chairman, I withdraw that motion.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of information. Is there any motion now before this Committee?

The CHAIRMAN. The question before the Committee is on the adoption of the Steedle amendments. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, will proceed.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, I would suggest this method of solving the difficulty. That a motion be made that this Committee arise and report the bill with a negative recommendation, and that a vote to report the bill with a negative recommendation shall mean that we are against State Stores, and a vote to report it favorably will mean that we are in favor of State Stores and the bill with the McClure amendments.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair desires to inform the gentleman from Philadelphia that the Committee has already by its action adopted the McClure amendments. Therefore, it will have to report the bill to the House as amended.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, what is now before the Committee.

The CHAIRMAN. The Steedle amendments, if the Committee desires to take up those amendments, are before the Committee.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, is there anything else in order except the adoption or rejection of the amendments?

The CHAIRMAN. For the information of the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, the Chair desires to inform the gentleman that a motion to rise at this time would be in order.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, may I suggest that the Steedle and my amendments be voted upon in one group, because they are all in harmony following each other and one vote would answer them all?

The CHAIRMAN. If the Committee has no objection to the suggestion as made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, the Chair will so rule. Are there objections? The Chair hears none and the amendments of Mr. Steedle and Mr. Sowers will be considered in one group.

On the question,

Will the Committee agree to the amendments offered by Mr. Steedle and Mr. Sowers?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, is a motion that this Committee to now rise in order?

The CHAIRMAN. It is.

Mr. ANDREWS. I make such a motion, Mr. Chairman, that the Committee rise and report to the House, House Bill No. 10 as amended.

On the question,

Will the Committee agree to the motion?

The CHAIRMAN. It has been moved by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, that this committee now arise and report House Bill No. 10 to the House as amended.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, I wanted to debate that motion.

The CHAIRMAN. Debate is in order.

Mr. SOWERS. Members of the committee, we are so close now to voting on the main proposition, shall there or shall there not be state stores, that we should not rise and report to the House. The amendments of Mr. Steedle and myself are now in order for you to vote upon. If you vote affrmatively for our amendments you vote against state stores. If you vote "no" on our amendments, you vote for state stores, and I suggest that we do not rise, and that we vote now, and that we vote on this motion.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, will state his point of order.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman is out of order. His remarks are distinctly out of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair was informed that the gentleman desired to discuss the motion.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, I arise to urge the members of this House to vote this motion down. We have now before us these amendments. We have voted on the McClure amendments. We can't hurry this thing by reporting this bill out and putting it on second reading when these amendments can be made again. We have to face them. We are here in the committee of the whole, which is the proper place to face these amendments. We voted on the McClure amendments. These gentlemen are entitled to have their amendments voted on by the committee of the whole. We will have to vote on them anyway either here or upon second reading after we report. Let us proceed in this manner and let us get done with these motions which attempt to impede us. We ought to dispose of them and vote on these particular amendments. I think we ought to dispose of these matters, and then report back this bill and get through with it. I urge the members of this House to vote down these motions and proceed to vote on these amendments one by one as they come up and then report to the House.

The CHAIRMAN. For the information of the Committee the Chair desires to state again that the motion that is before this committee is the motion made by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews. It is that this committee do now rise and report to the House, House Bill No. 10, as amended.

On the question recurring,

Will the Committee agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the Committee adopt the amendments offered by Mr. Steedle and Mr. Sowers?

The CHAIRMAN. The question now before the committee is on the adoption of the Steedle-Sowers amendments.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, there is no use or need to debate these again. Therefore, I would ask for a roll call. A vote, as I understand it, of "aye" is a vote to abolish state stores and to accept my amendments.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair informs the gentleman that the question is as to the adoption of the Steedle-Sowers amendments in their entirety. That is the question that is now before this committee.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, will state his point of order.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, in order to present the amendments as presented by the gentleman from Philadelphia, they must be presented as amendments to amendments. The bill has already been amended, and the gentleman from Philadelphia must present his amendments as amendments to amendments.

The CHAIRMAN. The point of order is not well taken.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Chairman, may I ask another question for my own enlightenment, at least.

Voting on this set of amendments, again dealing with the fundamental question of state stores, I have heard it said here on the floor of the House audibly a moment ago that a vote of "aye" would mean the abolishment of the opposition to the consideration of state stores?

The CHAIRMAN. That is not correct.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Chairman, I want to ask briefly as to the status. Does it put the question of state stores before the House, as the House, and not as a committee?

The CHAIRMAN. The entire bill, whatever action is taken by the members, subsequently is before the House. Therefore, any member can do as he pleases at that time.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Chairman, in all of its consideration?

The CHAIRMAN. Exactly so.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Chairman, I will only delay you a moment. A vote "yes" for these amendments means a vote against the state store program, because these amendments amend out the state stores and substitute and put in its stead and place a commission, and when you vote "no" on the amendments you vote to retain the state stores.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the committee. I would like to clear up a statement which the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, made in one of his speeches a short while ago. He said that this bill No. 10 is the child of the Anti-Saloon League. I want to say that that isn't so. As I understand it the Anti-Saloon League only had one child and that died on November 7th. If I understand right from the communications that I have received and which other members of the House have received, the Crusaders whose headquarters are in Philadelphia—their president being Joseph Clark—claim they are the father of this baby. The ladies who compose the anti-prohibition league one million strong, claim that they are the mother of this baby. Members of this House, I would like to know who is the father of the kid.

Mr. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS. Mr. Chairman, would it not be a fact if the Steedle-Sowers amendments are adopted and the bill is returned with the McClure and the Steedle-Sowers amendments included in the bill. Will not the amendments seriously conflict with one another?

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair is of opinion that that is a correct statement. The bill would be terribly mutilated.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the amendments offered by Mr. Steedle and Mr. Sowers?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Sowers and Mr. Schwartz and were as follows:

They were not agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. The next amendment is that proposed by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. L. P. Kane.

Will the Committee adopt the amendment offered by Mr. L. P. Kane?

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were agreed to.

Mr. PEELOR. Mr. Chairman, the vote as recorded, have we amended bill No. 10, the original bill No. 10, or have we amended it as amended? Have we amended the original bill or have we amended the original bill as amended by the amendments?

The CHAIRMAN. For the information of the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Peelor, by the adoption of this amendment the bill itself is amended and it is not an amendment to an amendment.

The next amendments for the consideration of the Committee, are the amendments proposed by the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Brown.

On the question,

Will the Committee adopt the amendments offered by Mr. Brown?

They were not agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. The next amendments are those proposed by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hart.

On the question,

Will the Committee adopt the amendments offered by Mr. Hart?

Mr. HART. Mr. Chairman, we are making another appeal to the members of this committee. I am actuated solely by the desire that fair play may be given to the members of my group in the civil service branch provision of this bill.

It has nothing at all to do with whether we are going to have liquor by stores or anything to do with the administration of the bill, but it is a precautionary measure to guard against conditions that have prevailed in many sections in this country where colored men and women who are applicants under the civil service provisions are forced to present pictures of themselves or the blanks contain some designation as to the color of the applicant. I appeal to the members of this committee for fair play in the adoption of this amendment.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hart, said to the House earlier in the day that two of his amendments had already been taken care of. Do I now understand that the only amendment which he is now presenting is an amendment which he thinks will take care of his people?

Mr. HART. That is right, sir.

Mr. WILSON. There is nothing else in the amendment, Mr. Chairman, except that which the gentleman from Philadelphia desires and believes will take care of his race?

Mr. HART. That is all, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. WILSON. Is there anything about hotels or rooms in it now?

Mr. HART. No, Mr. Chairman, I will withdraw those amendments. I am only standing by this one amendment.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, might I ask to have the amendment read, so that the House may hear it? I have no objection to it, but I would only like to hear the amendment read.

The Clerk again read the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Hart, withdraw the first two amendments?

Mr. HART. I have already withdrawn the first two amendments, Mr. Chairman.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE RISES

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, I move you that the committee do now arise, and that the Chairman of the committee report House Bill No. 10, to the House as amended.

On the question,

Will the Committee agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, in the matter of the action taken on the McClure amendments, there were several amendments that I was personally in favor of and several that I was not in favor of. I am in favor of extending the hours in which state stores may be allowed to be open, and I am strongly opposed to the restriction that women and girls shall not be allowed to be employed in tap rooms. I desire to know whether or not——

The CHAIRMAN. What is the point of inquiry?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Chairman, I desire to know whether it is in order to move to strike out that section of the bill which deprives female labor of the opportunity of employment in tap rooms or stores or hotels that are selling liquor.

The CHAIRMAN. That matter may be taken care of by the gentleman from York when the bill comes up on second reading before the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the Committee agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1933.

Vol. 16 HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1933. No. 7.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, November 22, 1933

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Edward C. Shannon) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. George P. Donehoo offered the following prayer:

O Thou Infinite and Eternal God, our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for this bright and cheerful day. We thank Thee because Thou hast spared us through another night. Grant that all Thy revelation may bring us to a realization that the things which we see are temporal, the things which are unseen are eternal. Therefore keep us all in touch with the Infinite and Eternal as well as with all these material worries which today amount to so much and tomorrow amount to nothing. Let us see Thee as Thou art. In all of our cares and worries and anxieties, may we keep our souls in touch with the Infinite, and that while our heads are in the skies we may keep our feet on the ground. Abide with us and protect us. For Christ's sake. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 11 (House Bill No. 9), entitled:

An Act imposing a State floor tax on alcohol usable for beverage purposes and certain alcoholic liquors in the Commonwealth between the date this act becomes effective and the date the Twenty-first Amendment to the Constitution of the United States is ratified describing the method and manner of collection of such tax conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments and certain individuals firms and corporations and imposing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I think it is my duty to ask the indulgence of the Senate. There are some phases of this bill which I think need most careful consideration. I don't want to be misunderstood that I am trying to oppose or delay any action which we all regard as being very essential in these days of emergency; but I believe that the gentleman who wrote this bill was given over in part to the haste with which I understand this legislation is to pass this Senate.

I have, perhaps, three objections to this bill in its present form: The first goes to the lanuguage of the bill itself. I have no doubt that every man here is in agreement that it was never intended that anybody but those persons who have liquor in storage or in bond should be affected. We have come to the point where the appellate courts of this State can pretty well be relied upon to interpret an Act of Assembly in the spirit of the act itself. They go beyond the mere language, in other words, and get to the primary purpose. But I want to call your attention, gentlemen of the Senate, to the fact that the language of the act does not exempt the private citizen who happens to have liquor in his possession. You can read Section 3 in both ways.

I take it that it was the purpose of the Governor of this Commonwealth to derive as much revenue from the tax which he has proposed as possible, I take it that it was his purpose to catch as it were, every gallon of liquor that may now be in the State of Pennsylvania and that will be in the State as of the effective date of this act, if it passes. If you will look at Section 3 of this act you will find that it can be read in both ways, and particularly do I call the attention of the lawyers of the Senate because of the fact that when any industry, regardles of its character, is to be taxed in an estimated amount of $25,000,000 for purposes which in themselves are entirely worthy, we should be just a little bit careful as to language to which we subscribe.

You will notice that Section 3—perhaps themost important section of the act—contains this lanuguage: "A State floor tax is hereby imposed upon spirituous and vinous liquors lodged or stored in this Commonwealth at any time between" certain dates, the effective date of the act and, as we have been given to understand, December 5th or 6th.

I notice that there is some complaint made because of the fact that certain parties are trying to get rid of the liquor in Pennyslvania and get it across the border. I can understand that, although I question that that is done in any substantial way, for the reason that I believe no liquor can be moved without a Federal permit. But is it the purpose of the act that the liquor which is to be taxed is limited to that which is lodged between these two dates?

I tell you, gentlemen of the Senate, what I believe originally to have been the purpose, and that is this: that the liquor which was to be taxed was that in storage when this act became effective, and such other liquor as was then stored and lodged. I have no doubt that you notice the difference. And if you will follow that lanuguage to the next section you will find that every person must make a report. I take it that it is not necessary for us to be called upon to guess at just who is included in this act and who is excluded from its provisions.

I can very readily read into this act, and so can you, that every person must make such a report; but there is something beyond that, which, in itself, I believe, is ambiguous. When I spoke a moment ago about the natural desire of those who have liquor to remove it before this act becomes effective, I am asking you to agree with me, gentlemen, that the very language of the act invites removal before its effective date.

If there is any gentleman in the Senate who can read for me, in the light of the language that is before us, Section 5, and follow over to Section 6, I am frank to admit that it will take a wiser head than mine to understand that language. In the first place, every time that the word "removal" is used in the act there is an invitation that this liquor shall be removed before the act becomes effective.

Section 3, on page 4, and Section 6, on page 6—the latter section containing the word "thereafter"—the word "thereafter" in that section is dangerous for this reason—and, in order to explain that, let me call attention to that language: "Every person having possession or custody"—not "every person having liquor in storage or in bond," but "every person having in his possession or custody either as owner or bailee of spirituous and vinous liquors in this Commonwealth"—between the effective date of this act and the date of the ratification of the Twenty-first Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, inclusive, who shall thereafter use or remove, or cause or permit to be removed, any spirituous or vinous liquors from the place or places in which they are lodged or stored, before the tax herein imposed shall have been paid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

I ask you to interpret for me what the word "thereafter" means there. I imagine the purpose of the Act was that any person who had such liquor in possession, and any day after he came into possession removed that liquor, would, under certain circumstances, be guilty of a misdemeanor; but you can very readily see that if you use the word "thereafter" in its ordinary sense, as we use it upon the streets, it would refer to after the date, December 5th, 1933; and immediately, I think, you realize the difficulties we would get into if that were the construction of it.

But beyond that, gentlemen of the Senate, I think it is fundamentally true that distillers, people in the liquor industry, have a perfect right to be in the liquor business in the State of Pennsylvania. I hold no brief for them; although I do, may now be considered to be speaking for them in that I do not want to subscribe to the unfairness of the manner in which this bill came over here and the speed with which, without, I think, substantial consideration on our part, enaction of it is sought.

I might say, perhaps, in a more humorous vein, that my ancestral forefather came over from Switzerland to Lehigh County and opened up a distillery—and he wasn't much of a success at it; but it may be for the that reason I am pleading their cause. But there is another reason: This is an act to destroy the industry. Did you ever, those of you who are members of the bar, find in one act penalties such as these? For the use or removal of this liquor before the tax is paid, from one to three years must be imposed. Anybody, any person—you or I—whether by accident or otherwise, who would happen to accept a bottle or container that is unlabeled, is subject to a fine of $25.00, or up to ten days in jail. If you find false labels on any bottle, a fine of $25.00 or from six months to three years in prison.

And here is an item which, gentlemen, I think deserves our most careful consideration. In this act you will find this language: "Any person who shall fail, neglect or refuse to make any report required by this act, or who shall refuse to permit the department or any agent appointed by it, in writing, to examine his books, records, invoices or other papers pertaining to, or stock of spirituous and vinous liquors in his possession or custody, or who shall make any incomplete * * * report"—an incomplete report—a fine of up to one thousand dollars—not "and or"—"and six months' to three years' imprisonment."

An incomplete report can be made in any business accidentally. You want to say that our courts will have good judgment. You want to say that our prosecuting attorneys will be thoughtful. You want to say, perhaps, that nobody would be so ridiculous as to have any prosecution instituted on an incomplete report; but I think in every other Act of Assembly which provides in any way for the punishment of any crime committed there is the wilfullness at least held out,—wilfully making mistakes, wilfully making an incomplete report. And I can understand why that should be.

And, beyond that, the Alcohol Permit Board,—if anybody is found violating these provisions,—can, if it then exists,—I suppose, after some new legislation that may come along, perhaps it will be discontinued,—but if it then exists, can revoke the license.

And in addition to that, gentlemen of the Senate, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has a lien on all this liquor, which lien under this act, is to be recorded in the judgment docket of the Prothonotary's office of the county in which the case may happen to come up.

Bring to my attention, if you will, such a provision in any other act. I would like to see one other Act of Assembly with such punishments quite so severe, or one with language which is, perhaps, more easily misunderstood. To me it is the first constructive invitation for the bootleggers to remain in Pennsylvania, and actively on the job.

It has become an agreement, I know,—and the purpose of everyone who is sincerely interested in this problem,—to keep taxes so low that those against whom we have had cause to complain will be driven out of business. But this, in my humble judgment, is the first invitation, not only because of the provisions in the act itself but because of the fact that the act itself is of a prohibitive and confiscatory nature.

I do not know very much about the liquor business but I do know this much,—if the information that I have is correct: The State of Pennsylvania has three of the nine, I think, distilleries that have been legitimately operating under existing law. Do you know that if anyone of those companies has in its possession, we will say, four million gallons of liquor, they will be called upon within ninety days of the effective date of this act to pay $8,000,000. And $8,000,000, gentlemen of the Senate, may be four times as much in amount as the original capital investment for real estate and equipment and what not. That, to me, looks unfair.

If it is the purpose of the Governor to destroy the industry in the State, and drive it into other States,—if that is the consensus of opinion here, then we might just as well yield any opposition to this bill; but you and I have knowledge of the fact that this industry, under the existing law, has also provided employment for people, has had a right to exist. And if you and I, by chance or by choice, have been in that business even before 1917, it would have been our hope and our purpose, I assure you, to so conduct our business and so preserve the whiskey which we had on hand, as to look forward to the day when the people of the United States would turn their backs on this colossal mistake which was made some time ago.

Now the day is here. The investment has been made. Somebody told me that a barrel of whiskey which contained forty-eight gallons in 1917 may, today, contain seventeen or eighteen or perhaps twenty gallons. If it is the policy of the State Senate to drive the industry out of the State; if it shall be the policy of the State Senate to make it impossible for those who have been legitimately conducting this business to compete with others who are in the same business, in adjoining States, then again any of us who are in opposition to this bill might yield.

The Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, I think even before we were in session, gentlemen, gave out the information there was an estimated income of $25,000,000 to be derived. It has become the custom, if not the habit, to give out information of that kind. I should like to know, and so would you, just what the enforcement of this bill would cost. I should like to know, and so would you, whether it is correct or not that there are twelve million gallons of whiskey in the State of Pennsylvania which would yield nearly $4,000,000; or whether the other information that comes to you from the public press is correct, that there are only six million gallons in the State of Pennsylvania. I don't know. But I do know this,—and I venture the prophecy, that the Governor of the State will not succeed in deriving enough money from this particular item to provide for unemployment relief, to provide for old age assistance, and to provide for such other subjects as were mentioned in his preliminary information given out.

The people of the State of Pennsylvania have a right to reply upon such information; they probably have a right to think that anybody who opposes the passage of this legislation would, in turn, at least indirectly, oppose the obtaining of the funds for causes that might be worth while. But let me venture the prophecy that if anyone here makes a careful investigation upon the subject, he would find that it would be impossible to obtain sufficient funds from these revenues derived from taxation to provide, perhaps, more than one quarter of the funds which would be necessary as suggested.

But beyond all this I mentioned certain things in the bill. I am looking beyond this bill, gentlemen. Three years ago I listened with very much interest to those of you who stood before me and pleaded for the retention in this body of the independence and the supremacy of action, if I may put it that way, of the State Senate.

Gentlemen of the Senate, I am asking you to agree, finally, with me in this: People from outside the State have been called into Pennsylvania to conduct affairs in the State; people from outside of Lehigh County have been sent into Lehigh County to conduct the affairs of Lehigh County pertaining to welfare and what not. Regardless of the emergency, regardless of the necessity of obtaining such revenue for worthwhile purposes, I am not, as an individual member of the Senate, ready to subscribe to the theory that one man, regardless of the position which he holds,—if it be the highest in the Commonwealth,—should by manipulation, by chance or by choice or by astute practices, establish for himself an absolute control, might I say, of the State Highway Department, might I say of all of the welfare funds that go out from the State; and this control, might I say, in one who, by virtue of personal choice and personal opinion, has been the leader of the dry forces in a State which is preeminently wet,—I say, I do not care yet to yield, sir,—and I now address you who spoke so eloquently of the supremacy of the State Senate,—I am not ready to yield now, as far as this particular legislation is concerned, and as to that which I understand is coming over from the House, on the theory that there is any emergency, that there is any cause whatsoever sufficient to compel us to turn our backs on our original principles established in the State Senate of Pennsylvania generations ago.

The difficulty with this bill is just this, gentlemen: It is link in a chain,—it is a link, and a very important link, in the chain, which was created before we were called into session, to drive the industry out of Pennsylvania; to have those who have subscribed consistently to the dry cause to be absolutely in crontrol, in a State which has always been wet. And the practical difficulty with the bill is this: That it is a floor tax instead of a sales tax. Where will industry be able, within the ninety days, to get $12,000,000 or $25,000,000? How is it that the surrounding States have sales taxes? If this were a sales tax there would not be any question of the private individual; there would not be any question at all concerning the difficulties which I have mentioned, but why should the State of Pennsylvania, or any industry in it, be again placed in competition with the surrounding States?

Gentlemen of the Senate, for these reasons,—perhaps for others which I have neglected to mention, but which I hope will be mentioned by others in this body,—I hope this bill will be defeated.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I do not want to detain the Senate long; but, in view of the vote which I intend to cast on this bill, I wish briefly to state my reasons. As this time I do not propose to take any position as to whether or not the imposition of a two-dollar tax is a wise or an unwise legislative policy. My objection to this bill is entirely owing to the fact that I do not feel that the bill is clear in its provisions, that it is doubtful legislation, as it is improperly, or at least not carefully drawn. As the distinguished Senator from Lehigh has stated, section three is the important section of the bill. Therein "A State floor tax is hereby imposed upon spirituous and vinous liquors lodged or stored in this Commonwealth." What do these words mean? Is it to be confined to vinous liquors which are contained in storage, or is it in fact a tax upon all such liquor, even that which may be in the possession of each individual? That language to me is not clear; but, when we turn to the title, which I think the courts will have to refer to for construction as to the legislative intent, we find it is "An act imposing a State floor tax on alcohol usable for beverage purposes and certain alcoholic liquors in the Commonwealth." Therefore it seems to me to be a construction of the title. The language of section three is that every and all liquor coming under the definition comes within this act, and the private individual is just as liable to make report and to pay the tax as is the distillery company, and failure to comply therewith by the individual who may have one or two or three gallons in his possession may subject him to the very serious penalties provided in the act, namely, a year to three years imprisonment.

When we go on we find the tax on "each proof gallon or wine gallon when below proof." The words "proof gallon" are defined in the act, but I have searched the four corners of the act to find out the definition of "wine gallon when below proof." Possibly that is a term well known to the trade; but, as the act stands, I submit it will be necessary for the courts to determine and to define what clearly should be defined in the act, namely, the exact meaning of the words "wine gallon when below proof." Then comes the question, Is this proper classification? I am still old fashioned enough to believe, especially in matters of taxation, that we should be very careful to see to it that our tax laws are not within the prohibition of the Constitution of Pennsylvania; and to my mind the question is raised instantly right in the title, because the tax is levied against certain alcoholic liquors. To my mind alcoholic liquor is a proper subject of classification; but, when we consider section three, levying the tax in part on liquor which is defined in the act and in part on liquor which is not defined in the act, it raised, to my mind, a very serious question as to whether there is the uniformity of taxation which is required by the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I have searched the authorities carefully and the more I have read the more I am in doubt. I simply want to quote one authority, the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, emanating from Mr. Justice Brewer, of the Supreme Court of the United States, which court said:

"Equality in right, in protection and in burden is the thought, which has run through the life of this nation and its constitutional enactments from the Declaration of Independence to the present hour. Of course, absolute equality is not attainable, and the fact that a law, whether tax law or other, works inequality in its actual operation does not prove its unconstitutionally. But where a tax law directly, necessarily and intentionally creates an inequality of burden, it then becomes imperative to inquire whether this inequality, thus intentionally created, can find any constitutional justification."

And that is precisely my inquiry at the present moment. As I have stated, I shall not vote against this bill on the ground of policy. I believe it is the duty of this present legislative session, especially in reference to a bill which is as momentous in its possible consequences as the present bill, to see to it that the bill is carefully and clearly drawn so that the legislative thought, the legislative intent, can be clearly understood; and it is purely on this ground, because in its present form I question seriously the constitutionality of this measure; and under my oath of office I will be compelled to vote in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, in view of the fact that certain members of this Senate have raised the question that there are some ambiguous words in this bill, and also in view of the fact that there are certain other questions as to the payment of this tax, which may or may not have paid immediately, I now move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present in order that the Attorney General may be called upon by the Committee on Finance to explain some of the wording and some of the phrases in this bill

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING POSTPONED FOR THE PRESENT

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 11, (House Bill No. 9), on third reading, postponed for the present, entitled:

An Act imposing a Sate floor tax on alcohol usable for beverage purposes and certain alcoholic liquors in the Commonwealth between the date this act becomes effective and the date the Twenty-First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States is ratified; describing the method and manner of collection of such tax; conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments, and certain individuals, forms and corporations, and imposing penalties.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TRAINER. Mr. President and members of the Senate, as an humble Senator I desire to beg the pardon of the people who are interested in the liquor business, representing an investment of twenty-five million dollars, who have not had an opportunity in this Legislature either in the halls of the Senate or House to present their case. It is one of the biggest interests in the State of Pennsylvania, and when the representatives come here as a reputable body of men and request a hearing and it is denied, it is a slap at the dignity of the Senate, and it is natural that anyone should be irritated. Let me go into another phase of the question. You are putting out this bill for the help of the poor, for old-age pensions, and the various commissions to spend money to try to employ people—and where is it coming from? It is coming from the liquor-control bill where it is estimated there is twenty-five million dollars to be turned over from that business.

I want you to distinctly recollect that on the seventh of November sixteen million people in the State of Pennsylvania voted for a fair-play bill, and that is all they expected or want; but when bills are brought into the Legislature and railroaded through the House and railroaded through here without giving anybody the opportunity to express himself, it certainly makes the Legislature look as though they are a lot of jackals.

And I want to say to you now and I want to give you figures from the United States Government Prohibition Office, that there was in the State of Pennsylvania on the first day of November 4,682,000 gallons—I am not going into the hundreds—of alcohol; 6,771,000 gallons of whiskey; 121,000 gallons of rum; 98,000 gallons of gin; practically 230,000 gallons of brandy and 14,000 gallons of wine.

Taking it on the basis of stuff that was made prior to 1917 and on down the line, there is an average loss in the absorption of whiskey and in its evaporation, in the whiskey alone of 24.7%, in the rum 47.3%, in the gin 43%, and a loss of 59% in brandy. This is one of the reasons why you were told this afternoon in the meeting that whiskey was being sold at sixty dollars a case.

When you stop to consider that the men who fourteen years ago suffered under the prohibition law and were wiped out, that they didn't have a chance to turn a dollar over, but could stand in the warehouses and see the stuff go out the windows; and that is the way it went. I want to give you just as an example the Government returns from the warehouse with which I happened to be connected that, of eight barrels of whiskey placed in bond, there were three hundred and ninety proof gallons when they were tax paid; and one hundred and ninety-eight months they were in the warehouse before they could be used. When they came out they had one hundred and thirty-eight proof gallons, a loss of 67%. You can readily understand why whiskey is [illegible] that are spoken of; and I want to say for your information that that whiskey was sold on a general basis of from thirty-five to forty dollars a case, until now, in the whole United States, there are about 3,500,000 gallons of it left to go over th whole forty-eight States of the Union.

That is a sample of the whiskey end of it. Apple brandy, made in the State of New Jersey, kept one hundred and ninety-nine months in the warehouse, went in with one hundred and eleven proof gallons, and came out with forty-five gallons, a loss of 59.6%.

You can then go into rum that was made in Massachusetts and was entered at forty-five gallons and came out at twenty-four gallons, a loss of 47.3%.

Now then, when they argued before you downstairs as to the whiskey, the United States Government did not give an opportunity to distillers to make whiskey between the years 1917 and 1930, a variance of thirteen years; and of the whiskey that was made in 1930, taking two barrels as a basis out of a thousand, ninety-eight gallons went in, and today there are only eighty gallons in them, making a loss of 18.4%.

Of that which was made in 1931, one hundred and one gallons went in, and there is left now ninety-two gallons, showing a loss of 9.2%. That which was made in April of this year went in with ninety-six, and now is ninety-three, showing a loss of 4.8%.

That whiskey which they are now, under this bill, asking to pay two dollars tax on, was, in the last two or three years, manufactured at a cost of seventy-eight cents. This new stuff in the last three years was manufactured at a cost of seventy-eight cents. They have been able to carry it and hold onto it and satisfy the people who wanted it for legitimate purposes. Then to think of putting this tax on it, and charging six dollars a case to any of your constituents who want to buy a case of whiskey!

And I might add now that today, in this Government return, there are 4,682,000 gallons the officials of the State of Pennsylvania were able to dig up. Roughly there are 12,500,000 gallons of liquor on hand, but that is reduced to practically 4,200,000 gallons of taxable whiskey; and when you are going, in this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to put out your money for the various causes you need it for—and there is nobody in Pennsylvania more willing to pay their share of the tax and do their part than those men in the distilling business—why should they be asked to pay the enormous tax of more than three times the cost of the product?

I want to say to you gentlement now that the alcohol placed here at 4,682,000 gallons has been denatured, and there goes $9,000,000 of your $25,000,000 right out. Take down the balance of this—and I am giving you the benefit of the doubt—$15,000,000, and you will receive only $10,000,000; and I want to warn you gentlemen of the Senate, when you are preparing to spend the peoples' money for these needed aids, don't think you are going to get it out of the liquor business.

Another thing I want to call to your attention is this: In the State of Pennsylvania within the last six months there were 2,300,000 gallons, and it will have to remain in bonded warehouses for a period of three years; and yet you are going to ask the distillers to produce a tax of two dollars a gallon on that, which they cannot get out of it for three years. It is the most unbearable and unjust tax ever put over by the State of Pennsylvania.

When the Government of the United States wants to collect taxes it is not from bonded warehouses. The whiskey is there and nobody can touch it. And I want to tell you that the United States Government does not collect this tax until the goods are taken out of the warehouse and put on the market.

Another unfair thing is to ask any man to pay three years in advance two dollars tax on something that he does not know will be his at the end of the three years.

Another illustration of the high cost of whiskey: When a barrel of whiskey is made and put into a bonded warehouse it may hold fifty gallons. Under the Carlisle Regauging Act you are entitled to a loss of eight gallons and a half. If there happens to be a cracked stave in that barrel and the whiskey happens to leak out, the day the tax collector reaches the warehouse and finds the barrel empty he tells the distiller he has to pay the tax on thirty-two and a half gallons, even though it all has been lost in evaporation. And when you listen to the large prices paid for whiskey there is a reason behind it.

I want to say, gentlemen, talking about the immense withdrawals of whiskey from Pennsylvania, 1,116,000 gallons between November 9th and November 17th, in the natural course of business, I want to say to you that that stuff was taken down to the Christian street wharf and shipped to Los Angeles, Seattle and San Francisco in order to help those people out there, so that when the 5th of December comes along they will be able to get something real—Pennsylvania whiskey. And in industry in the State of Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania rye stands out preeminently to any one of them; and now you are trying to destroy the business.

I have today received a telegram from the Schenley Distilling Company—perhaps the rest of the Senators have also—in which they say that twelve hundred and twenty-five persons were laid off at their plant. In the Publicker Alcohol Company's plant in Philadephia twelve hundred employes are out of employment; and from the Continental Distilling Company's plant seventeen hundred were put out of business—because they cannot stand it.

In Philadelphia all we have to do is to cross the river, take our machinery and everything, and start in business over there, because New Jersey is inviting us.

Then, when we come down to the Overholt Distilling Company, employing five hundred and sixty men and one hundred women, with a payroll of $550,000, railroad revenues of $750,000; supplies $2,195,000; with whiskey in bond in Pennsylvania as of November 1st, 1932, according to the Government figures—when produced in 1917 it amounted to 1,000,000 gallons, with outage of 500,000 gallons, leaving 500,000 gallons of this whiskey that you want to tax and would be entitled to tax, that is now in the warehouses.

In 1930, and on to November 1933, there were 6,203,000 gallons of whiskey made, and from it there was a loss of 620,000 gallons leaving 5,583,000 gallons. In the alcohol there were 4,663,000 which has been completely denatured; and the State of Pennsylvania won't get a nickel of tax from that.

I am calling these things to your attention, gentlemen, so that when you are voting on this bill—and this is the second time I have ever stood on the floor of the Senate to address you, but I happen to be the president of one of these organizations, and if I don't know my own business and what would be unjust to it, I ought to get out—I am appealing to you now not to pass this tax for the reason that it is an imposition on people who have been suffering for fourteen years; and God knows if you are going to take the teeth out of them they won't be able to take soft milk.

I want to tell you that these distilleries are going to close, and also call your attention to the fact that on the borderlines of Pennsylvania and on the southern end, where West Virginia comes along the line, the Union Carbide Company is going to manufacture alcohol as a by-product, and that will not cost them a cent, and it will be toted into Pennsylvania, and the bootlegging game is going on higher and bigger than ever.

We are just coming now to a stage where prohibition was born in sin and raised in iniquity before going back to the Devil's own den.

I am going to ask you, gentlemen, in all fairness and in all sincerity—I have tried before the House committee, I have tried before this body and before the general body to let these men be heard, and when they are not able to be heard I have to talk to you in my own defense and their defense, and tell you the injustice of the bill. Senator Snyder told you, Senator Reed told you, and I want to take another step and say that when you are passing this bill you are treading on dangerous ground. A barrel of whiskey that goes into a United States Government bonded warehouse is the property of the United States Government, and nobody can touch it. I say that to you for this reason, that when it goes into bond the distiller is compelled to put up a bond that that whiskey cannot be touched or taken out of the warehouse until the tax is paid, and then and not until then can anything be taken out for the benefit of anybody, and the result of it is, I question whether, under the law, the State of Pennsylvania, under this bill, is going to have a right to go into a bonded warehouse and touch an article that belongs to the United States Government, and if they do so they will be tried at law. I am advising you now that when you are banking on this thing to raise twenty five million dollars, it s a question in my mind whether you are going to get eight million dollars out of it. I am going to ask you, gentlemen, to bear these facts in mind and at least do one thing, bear in mind that we had fourteen years of torture, and for heaven's sake do not try to crucify us.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

STATEMENT BY MR. WILSON

Mr. WILSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, yesterday afternoon, after the Committee of the Whole rose, I made a motion to strike from the bill the amendment of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. L. J. Kane, which sent back to the municipalities one-half of the money provided for in the section. I hesitated very much to do it, not only out of my personal regard for the gentleman from Allegheny, in which the whole House shares, but also from the fact that by doing so I was preventing the municipalities from receiving money which they very urgently need. With that in view and because of that reason I ask unanimous consent now to read to the House a statement which covers my position.

When I last addressed you yesterday afternoon, I was tempted then to give you the information which I am about to convey, but refrained from prolonging the discussion, realizing as I did that the House was exceedingly weary. The impression seems to prevail that there is an ample, unlimited supply of funds for unemployment relief. I think every member of the House should understand the financial aspects of this relief situation. As I understand it, it is as follows:

We are spending an average of five million six hundred thousand dollars for relief. The figure I have named includes allocations to counties, medicine, clothing, cost of administration and sundry items.

Up to the present time the state has provided $47,000,000 in actual cash, and the federal government has given us $56,281,849. This makes a total of over $103,000,000, which will be exhausted by December 1st next. It should be noted from these figures that the state is about $9,000,000 behind the federal government in actual money contributed.

We have immediately available twenty million dollars from the twenty-five million dollar bond issue just approved by the people. On a strict basis of matching we will have that twenty million and eleven million dollars from the federal government or a total of $31,000,000 which on the monthly average basis of $5,600,000 should last us until June 1st, 1934.

If we appropriate $20,000,000 out of the liquor revenues at this session and the government matches that sum we will have $40,000,000 which on the monthly average basis will cover these needs only until the end of 1934. You will note that this leaves no provision for the last five months of the present biennial period and it means further that if we make no more generous provision than I have outlined above we are leaving to our successors the problem of providing in midwinter for relief needs as one of the first problems it will have to solve when the Legislature convenes in January, 1935.

You may say that I am unduly pessimistic in not speculating upon the result of the revival of industry. Let me remind you that I am probably unduly optimistic when I predicate this picture upon the fact that the federal government will go along with us during all of the year 1934, on a fifty fifty basis of matching dollar for dollar which we provide for unemployment relief.

If there are millions of dollars just around the corner as we are given to understand we certainly have a place to put this money without looking very far. Before we become unduly generous in other directions we had better provide for what we know is an imperative demand from our people everywhere in the Commonwealth for food, clothing, medicine and shelter for our unemployed.

I make this statement, Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House, in order that I may have on this record—understand here that I am interested very much in the purpose of this bill of the gentleman from Allegheny and this purpose in offering the amendments and for him I have great regard,——but I make the statement in order that I may have on this record the reasons why I made the motion to strike from the bill the amendment which gave the municipalities certain sums of money, which the Commonwealth needs, and without which it would be absolutely impossible for the Commonwealth to get through until the time when the next Legislature meets on the first Monday of January of 1935.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. My Speaker, I would like to know whether it is permissible for one member of the Legislature to use another member's alibi.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would hesitate to rule on such a question of parliamentary inquiry.

If another member's alibi is used he has methods to pursue outside of this forum.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in view of the very able statement just made by my friend from McKean, Mr. Wilson, protecting his record on the vote yesterday, I would like to ask the permission of the House that the same statement be made on behalf of all those who voted on that question yesterday, so that the record of all the rest of the members will be the same, and he alone will not be placed in that position.

The SPEAKER. Does the Chair understand from the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, that he is apologizing for his vote on the measure yesterday?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Bar, I often have to sit in Court and have the Court say things to me on which I cannot come back.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, is advised that he is in Court at the present time.

Mr. TURNER. But when I stand on the floor of this House, I concede no right to the Speaker to say anything to me on which I cannot come back at him. I think that the gentleman who is presiding over this House with his long acquaintance with the gentleman from Delaware who is now speaking, knows that he is not in the habit of apologizing for any of his votes, except those that he casts when the Speaker requests him to.

I think that all the members that voted against this amendment yesterday, to take it out of the bill, that they all wish to avoid any consequences that might come to them back home by reason of the fact that some municipality might say that they took some of this money away from them. It cannot affect me personally in any way because I live out in that part of the country where there cannot be any liquor stores, and no municipality in my section of the county would get any of this money, but Uncle Ed. Nothnagle living in Chester would get all of the money that would come into Delaware County. However, I do feel that some of the members might be misunderstood at home. I think the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, made a very fine statement, and the rest of us should be given the opportunity to say the same thing also.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WILSON. I wish to state, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, my statement was not made in any way with a view to protecting myself or with any thought of any political consequences that might arise. The Speaker was present the other evening when one of the leading officials of the Commonwealth said, when the question arose as to whether or not I would be adversely affected by the things that I might do, that it was too late in the day to make my record any worse than it now is.

I made this statement because I thought that we ought to realize the serious financial situation with which this Commonwealth is faced. I wished to get that before the members as well as to get my reasons for the motion I made before the House. I do not expect to ever be a candidate for public office again, and I make a promise to the House that I will not be in the Legislature in the future, so I don't want to get myself on the record as making this statement to protect myself politically.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make an inquiry from the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson and the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, whether or not their motion before the House is a motion for a new trial on the ground of after-discovered evidence.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sowers, desire to interrogate the gentleman from McKean and the gentleman from Delaware?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the gentlemen can both explain themselves very well.

The board shall be required to establish a Pennsylvania liquor store in each municipality having a population of ten thousand inhabitants or more, and shall establish therein an additional store for each ten thousand inhabitants.

Amend section 503, page 28, by adding after line 13 the following:

No hotel, restaurant or club license shall be granted, and no Pennsylvania liquor store shall be operated in any municipality or township in which the electors under the provisions of the Beverage License Law of May 3, 1933, P. L. 252, voted previous to the adoption of this act against the granting of beverage licenses unless at an election held under and in accordance with the provisions of this act, the action of the electors is thereafter reversed

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker, I object.

MOTION TO GO INTO COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Mr. RECTENWALD. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of considering the amendments offered which are very important to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SCORZA. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's call for a roll call comes too late, the Chair is sorry to announce, because he has already put the question. The Chair regrets it very much.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, yesterday I introduced an amendment to House Bill No. 10, which was defeated, and later I learned that the phraseology of the amendment did not suit several members of the House. I intend to submit an amendment today and ask unanimous consent of the House to have the bill amended to provide that fifty per cent of the profit from State Liquor Stores will be returned to the counties in which these stores are located, with a specified portion to go to old age pensions, unemployment relief, and mothers' assistance funds. Under House Bill No. 18 which has been introduced, and in all probability will be passed, and should be passed, I would like to call attention to section 15: "No poor district shall receive its allotment——"

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman delay for a moment? The Chair desires to read House Rule No. 67: "Any member may arise and explain a matter personal to himself by leave of the Speaker, but he shall not discuss any pending question in such explanation."

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. Then, Mr. Speaker, I intend to ask the unanimous consent of the House to offer my amendment to House Bill No. 10.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman send his amendments to the desk in order that the clerk may read them?

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to explain that these amendments were requested from the Legislative Reference Bureau at a quarter of twelve, but up to this time they are not here.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that if the amendments are not here at the present time, that it would be out of order to give consideration to the gentleman's request.

Mr. LEONARD P. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I am sending my amendments to the desk in writing.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend bill, page 15, by adding thereto, after line 8, a new section 307, as follows:

Section 307. Distribution of Part of Profits of State Stores. One-half of all net profits arising annually from the operation of any Pennsylvania liquor store shall be returned to the county in which such store is located to be used by the county for unemployment relief and for the paying of the county's share of moneys used for mothers' assistance or old age assistance, and for such purposes any moneys arising from such profits and deposited in any special fund are hereby specifically appropriated to be paid over as soon after the first day of each State fiscal year as the audit of the Auditor General of any such store for the fiscal year has been completed.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House two weeks ago yesterday the people buried Noble Experiment No. 1, and before the flowers on the grave of Noble Experiment No. 1 have wilted, they are endeavoring to give birth to Noble Experiment No. 2, that will not answer any better purpose.

I feel that the constituents in my district are against this legislation because we have legislation in Committee that will answer the demand of the people of Pennsylvania if we have an opportunity given to us to vote upon it. I feel that in our county, with the provisions in this bill, that our people will be required to go thirty miles to buy a quart of liquor, and they will be required to pay a price which will cost them four or five times as much as it does to make it at home or to buy from a neighbor who does make it; and they will continue to make it.

I believe that the principle that we should have before us is one which would eliminate the bootlegger and the speakeasy and I dare to say that if this bill passes, and if it becomes a law that it will not eliminate them, but that it will bring them back threefold as strong as we ever have had them. I think the whole proposition resolves itself into this: whether one person shall run this State or whether the people shall run the State. We are representatives of the people. We are told that there is no other bill that will be signed by His Excellency the Goveronor of the Commonwealth but this particular bill. I repeat that the question resolves itself into whether or not the Goveronor shall run the State or whether the people shall run the State through their representatives. The people have spoken on November 7th as to what they want, and I feel quite sure that they will not get it through this legislation, but they will have it by the Legislature which meets here the next time; they will get what they want. By the advice and at the wishes of my constituents I am compelled to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House. We have before us for final consideration House Bill No. 10 which is known as the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Act. We hashed and rehashed this matter in the House yesterday, sitting in the Committee of the Whole for practically six hours. I do not intend to purposely tire you this afternoon by making a long, protracted statement concerning this bill. I believe that the membership is fully aware of the contents of the measure as it now stands amended.

It has been said that on November 7th the people of this Commonwealth loudly voiced their desire for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the return of liquor as a beverage in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

We were called into this session particularly to prepare and pass legislation to regulate trafficking in liquor in this Commonwealth. The bill before you is the result of much study and thought. It is the result of numerous conferences held in Harrisburg wherein those representing the so-called wet groups were represented and those representing the so-called dry groups were represented. The bill as it now reads has been much amended from its original draft.

The bill as it now reads in many parts is liberal and liberal to the nth degree and I refer particularly to that section of the bill on page 30 refering to clubs. Yesterday we amended out of this bill the restriction as to clubs. There was also amended out of it the restriction for the sale of liquor in clubs on the Sabbath. I state that to you, ladies and gentlemen, to show you how liberal this bill is.

There is and has been a lot of accusation against the Chief Executive of this State, that he has attempted to play politics with this legislation. He has certainly shown that he intends to do nothing of the kind when he appoints on the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board men of such high character and standing, both as public servants and as private citizens as the three men whom he will nominate to the Senate to compose this board. The names were read by the Speaker of this House; Robert S. Gawthrop of West Chester; Thomas W. Phillips Jr., of Butler and A. Marshall Thompson, of Pittsburgh. They are all men, in my opinion, fully worthy to be entrusted with any duty or position within the gift of this Commonwealth. I think they are all men of character and ability. In his appointments he has not confined himself to any political party. He has favored our good friends the Democrats by the appointment of Mr. A. Marshall Thompson, Dean of the Law School of Pittsburgh.

I believe in the suggestion of these names the Chief Executive has shown good faith in this matter of keeping this thing out of politics.

In considering this measure the high point in it is the power of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board. This board will have the power to establish State owned Pennsylvania liquor stores; this board will have power to issue the licenses to hotels, restaurants and clubs; this board will have the power to issue permits to importers; this board will have the power to issue permits for the purchase of sacramental wine.

The bill, and the functions under the bill, practically divide themselves into two classes. One class of business where liquor shall be sold for consumption not on the premises, and the other is the class where it shall be sold for consumption on the premises.

The sale of liquor for consumption not on the premises will be handled by several agencies. First and primarily it will be handled by the Pennsylvania liquor stores. These stores, under the direction of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, will be established in communities throughout the State where the demand for the store justifies such an establishment. Our good friend, Rev. Ruth is of the opinion that a man in order to get a quart of liquor will have to travel thirty miles. Certainly I cannot see how he can reasonably read that into this bill. If it will be to the advantage, economically, of this State to have these stores, certainly they will have these stores and plenty of them to accommodate the demand. Everybody realizes the great call for this commodity and certainly the supply must be made to meet that. The demand must be met and the supply will be on hand to meet it.

The Pennsylvania liquor stores will sell at wholesale to the hotels, restaurants, clubs and also to drug stores, Pullman cars and boats. If an individual desires to purchase one quart, two quarts, or a case, or any other quantity from these stores, he will present himself at the store and purchase the goods and the good will be delivered to him at retail.

Further than that, these goods will be sold not for consumption on the premises by druggists on prescription, it shall be sold not for consumption by importers and also by those holding permits for the sale of sacramental wine Someone was in doubt the other day as to the type of permit which would be granted for the purpose of selling sacramental wine. I think the reading of the bill certainly would clarify that thought. The idea as to the sacramental wine is to grant a permit to an outstanding individual in a group after he has been properly recommended by the group to which he belongs. After paying a fee of one hundred dollars the permit will be issued to him and he is permitted to sell at retail to priests, rabbis and clergymen, sacramental wine for sacramental purposes only. There is no fee or charge made to the clergymen, rabbis or priests except the purchase price of the sacramental wine.

The sale on the premises, the other provision of this bill, would provide that liquor may be sold for consumption on the premises by hotels, restaurants and clubs, Pullman cars and boats. The license fees for hotels, restaurants and clubs—or rather for restaurants and hotels range from one hundred and fifty dollars to six hundred dollars, depending on the population of the community. The club is fifty dollars and the Pullman car, I believe, is twenty dollars per car. We feel that this license rate is fair and reasonable.

We further feel that the moneys derived from these license fees should be put into the treasury of the municipalities wherein the establishment is in business. This applies, as you will recollect, by amendment of yesterday, to all types of municipalities, including second class townships where the proceeds will be paid over to the school districts for the purpose of aiding in the operation of the local schools.

If a man procures a license from the Pennsylvania Liquor Board, under that license he may deal in distilled liquors and also malt liquors and beverages. If he has this license he need not apply for a license under the Pennsylvania beverage act. On the other hand the passage of this act does not interfere with the license for the sale of malt beverages only. The act of 1933 remains on the statute books and the provisions of the act shall be carried out by the treasurers of the several counties.

Some question has been raised as to the employing of females in the liquor traffic. Some one has endeavored to construe that to mean that no females should be employed in restaurants or hotels. Clearly that is not the intent of the act. If you will kindly turn to page 22, line 20, and read the amendment, I believe you will agree with me that that is not a fair construction to place on that amendment. Reading at page 22, starting at line 16, we find, "A hotel or restaurant licensee shall not maintain any counter or bar at or over which liquors are sold to guests or patrons or members and it shall be unlawful for any such licensee to keep, display or mix drinks in any part of a public dining room or to employ or permit any female to serve liquor or malt liquor to guests, patrons or members." Clearly there is but one way to construe that amendment, and that means that no female shall be engaged in the serving of liquor. Personally I underwrite that amendment one hundred per cent. As was said by one of the members here on this floor yesterday, would any of you desire to have one of the female members of your family engaged in serving liquor. I don't believe you would. I think that that amendment is a worthy amendment and one that was wisely placed in this bill. The bill prohibits the sale of liquor to a man who is visibly under the influence or is intoxicated. It prohibits the sale of liquor to an insane person, and it prohibits the sale of liquor to one under the age of twenty-one years; a minor.

I do not want to tire you with a discussion of this bill, so I am going to hurry on. We find at page 23 the local option feature. I feel that this local option feature is perfectly fair and reasonable. That section of the act provides that in any municipality, if ten per cent of those voting at the last municipal election, petition their local authorities, they may have the opportunity to place on the ballot the question as to whether or not liquor shall be sold within that community. Either local councils or other bodies may petition the Commissioners, and the question is placed upon the ballot. If the people vote against the sale of liquor in that community, certainly they would not be permitted to sell it. If the people vote for the sale of liquor in that community, the licenses would issue. We feel that is a fair, reasonable and sensible way to put the matter before the people, and I believe you all agree that if a community does not want this commodity sold within their borders, it should not be permitted.

I want to speak for a few minutes on apparently what is the high light of this bill. We have found in our study of this bill and in debating it that the big point of argument was the Pennsylvania Liquor Stores. I have yet to hear of any sensible, sound and logical reason why the State of Pennsylvania should not handle this commodity under the plan established in the Pennsylvania Liquor Stores. It has been estimated that the gross revenue from these stores would approximate seventy-five to ninety million dollars per year. From this the State hopes to derive an annual profit of approximately twenty-five million dollars per year. It has been suggested that of this twenty-five million dollars, for the first year at least, twenty million dollars be set aside for unemployment relief, and a like prportion, so long as the State finds upon its hands people in need, and so long as money must be appropriated for that purpose. The remainder of the money, up to five million dollars, should be appropriated for old age assistance, for old age pensions, if and when that becomes a law in this Commonwealth. The remainder of the money, if any, should be applied to social activities of the Commonwealth. I ask you whether that is not a fair and reasonable argument, that the citizenry, the taxpayers of this Commonwealth should benefit by the profit from the sale of this commodity. Why not the Pennsylvania citizenry rather than the individual. In my opinion the strong opposition to the liquor stores feature is nothing more than an attempt on the part of certain individuals to act as distributors or wholesalers of liquor in Pennsylvania, in order that they may personally benefit from the profits.

I feel that the purposes for which these moneys will be appropriated are highly commendable. I believe the thing which has been most detrimental to old age pensions has been, who is going to pay for it. If this bill passes and the stores become operative, the money for old age pensions is at hand without levying a tax on any man individually or any property.

It strikes me that any man who votes against this bill after the fair treatment the bill has had, after it has been so liberally amended as it has been, if he is a friend of old age pensions, that he is voting against his own convictions. In my judgment, members of the House, it will be a long time in the State of Pennsylvania before you have old age pensions if you wait for the day when you will have money to appropriate or give to that cause from any group of individuals or industry. Clearly and undoubtedly that has been a great element in defeating this most worthy project, for which I have voted and the members of this House know that I have voted.

I intend to close now with just a few remarks. I believe that an honest effort is shown in this bill to regulate, and honestly regulate, the commodity and the commercialization of the commodity of liquor in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I feel that any man who casts his vote against this measure today that by that vote he clearly shows that he is not in sympathy with the object of applying the profits of these stores to the use of old age pensions—a very likely and worthy proposition. I believe that everyone interested in formulating this bill and amending it acted in good faith. I believe that under the terms of this bill Civil Service rules will apply to keep employes of this Commission out of politics. They have done a good work, and we are showing an honest effort to keep liquor out of politics in Pennsylvania.

I ask you to vote for the final passage of this measure.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. I hardly need to say that this is an important measure to the people of Pennsylvania. I believe that the attention of the entire State of Pennsylvania is now directed toward us, and I think that they are following every stage of this bill with the keenest interest and the greatest concern.

In the recent election there was a majority of more than a million votes rolled up in favor of repeal. The people of Pennsylvania are opposed to stringent restrictions in the sale of liquor. I believe that that heavy vote was a mandate—yes; I think it was a demand of the people for a liberal method of dispensing liquor in Pennsylvania.

Any provision in that bill that is now before us must be tested by those principles. If we do not follow them, then we fail to carry out the will of our people.

Any control bill, I do not care what it is, unless it appeals to the people as a reasonable measure, and so reasonable that they are going to abide by it, you are going to have racketeers, bootleggers. The trouble with the prohibition law was that every citizen felt justified in evading the law, and that built up a system of bootlegging and racketeering and other attendant evils.

As I understand it, the basic principle of this bill is the liquor store question in Pennsylvania. I believe in my mind that if you are against liquor being put into politics, that this feature of the bill is going to put it into politics more than ever before.

I say to you further, that if this feature of the bill is approved then you are going to have all kinds of influence used to influence officials that are managing these stores to approve or disapprove certain brands of liquor.

There is going to be the greatest scandal in public contracting that we have ever had in Pennsylvania, and in a worse form. It is going to build up a system of bootlegging probably worse than we had during prohibition.

I think that the best system and a system that has been tested and found to work well is the system of the old Brooks High License Law. That system has kept liquor out of politics as well as any law can, and this law is going to put liquor right into politics.

If we are going to obtain the benefit of the repeal. I say to you, members of the House, that the features of the old Brooks High License Law should be enacted. When a man has to pay a thousand dollars, twelve hundred dollars for a license and has to put up a bond, you will not need a policeman to watch him; he is going to watch himself; he is not going to take a chance to be put out of business, and that is the very thing that the Brooks High License Law provides. In this statement I am supported not only by the sentiment of my district, but I am supported by such distinguished jurists as Judge Shull of Stroudsburg. I understand from the public reports that he considers the liquor stores as being a very vicious system.

I want to go further and quote one of our own judges, Judge McDevitt, who has always been a terror of law violators and bootleggers and racketeers. I want to read to you what Judge McDevitt says about this matter. This statement that I quote is taken from the Philadelphia Inquirer of November 19th Here is what he said:

"Although neither I nor any other judge in the 67 counties in the State desires the task," he continued, "the best way to control liquor is under the provisions of the old Brooks High License Law.

"This old law kept liquor out of politics as much as any law could. The State liquor stores as now proposed will put liquor right in politics."

We have here the opinion of men that are charged with the administration of the law, who are familiar with conditions, and they are men who are in a position to tell you which is the best method to dispense liquors in Pennsylvania.

One other thing, this bill has a number of vicious provisions. I shall not take the time to dsicuss them, but I should like to call your attention to one particular provision, that is the provision which makes it a crime for one to purchase liquor in Pennsylvania for himself, it makes it a crime for one to bring liquor into Pennsylvania. Now, even the Volstead Act, even the vicious Armstrong-Snyder Act didn't have that provision. It is going to make reputable citizens subject to fines and penalties worse than before prohibition.

Who are the people behind this bill? This bill is the creature of the drys; those men whom the people of this State have repudiated in that particular respect, and they are the very people that come to you now and want to dictate to the people under the guise of a law and order measure, to regulate the private habits of our citizens.

I think that the people are against this measure. I think that this measure should be defeated. I cannot believe that you can afford to ignore the voice of the people so loudly uttered, and the lessons of the past so tragically learned.

I ask you to defeat this measure.

Mr. SARIG. On behalf of my constituents from the 4th Legislative District of Berks, I rise to utter a vigorous protest against the passage of this bill.

In my district the sentiment is almost unanimous against this bill. I am not speaking for the Democratic delegation. The Democratic delegation, as such, has taken no stand on this bill, and I want it distinctly understood that what I am doing and what I am saying is as a representative from the 4th Legislative District of Berks County.

Pass this bill and you will deprive the citizens of Pennsylvania of a large part of that very thing for which they voted so overwhelmingly on November 7th.

This bill, as I read it, takes the liquor question and throws it directly—the whole liquor control situation, into the lap of one man, the Governor. It would practically make the Governor the whiskey king of Pennsylvania, and that is the very thing that my people are opposed to

We have been told that this measure takes liquor out of politics. If you pass this bill you will place yourself on top of a keg of political dynamite and you will have this liquor question before succeeding legislatures, and a more live issue than it has ever been before.

Now, let us see how it works out in my own district. In my own district liquor was sold before prohibition largely through what is known as the country hotel or the country tavern. These places were well conducted under the Brooks High License Law. Many of these men owned their own places—most of them in fact—they were jealous of the reputation of their own places; they were jealous of anything that might cast a reflection upon their business and upon themselves and upon their families. These men, after the election of November 7th, now appeal to this Legislature to give them a square deal and to give them what they voted for. In my district the great majority of these country taverns would be excluded under the provisions of this bill, which requires ten bedrooms for guests. They could not meet that situation, and it would mean that only a small clientele, a select clientele could purchase by the drink at retail, while probably eighty-five percent of them would have to buy their quart or their pint, or whatever it might be, and slink away out of the public's sight, in order to drink their liquor.

If we believe in a democratic form of government, then we must accede to the principle that there will be equal rights for all and special privileges for none. I warn the members of this House that although you may defeat their will, which they so strongly expressed on November 7th, the people will have their final say when these mmebers come up for re-election. You cannot provide liquor for a select clientele and refuse it to the great bulk of the people, the working man, the mechanic, the average citizen of Pennsylvania. One of the great arguments in my district in prohibition days was that during the prohibition era, the men of wealth, the men with whom money was no consideration could always get liquor, but the average citizen, the farmer and the average working man could not get it, and the result was that the latter fell back on moonshine and on the bootlegger and the racketeer. If you pass this bill, you will turn my district, eighty-five per cent. of the trade, back to the bootlegger and back to the racketeer, and you will have again just what we had during prohibition. If you pass this bill, this State will begin on the dawn of a new era—the second era of prohibition for Pennsylvania. We have gone through the first era, with all its evils, with all its terrors, and let us hope and pray that now the people have spoken this Legislature will not by its vote today say that Pennsylvania shall now repudiate the voice of the people and begin a second era of prohibition and a second era of racketeering.

There is one other phase to which I wish to call your attention and that is this: We heard a great deal during the prohibition era that it has been made a farce, because a number of wet men were placed in charge of prohibition enforcement and in a number of cases no doubt that was true, but my friends, is it not just as ridiculous to take an out and out professed dry, to take this whole liquor situation and throw it into the hands and into the lap of a man who has never been sympathetic with liquor in any form.

Only a few weeks ago the Postmaster General, the Honorable James A. Farley, made a speech in Philadelphia, and in that speech he described the prohibition era as an era of terrorism. He pointed out Wheelerism, on Wayne Wheeler and his lieutenants as the terrorists of the prohibition era. He said that the methods of Quay and Penrose, of Platt and Crocker were mild compared to the methods of the Wheelerites and the men who ruled during this reign of prohibition. Now, shall we turn and say that we are going to continue this era of political terrorism which we thought was ended on November 7th?

You older members all know the attitude of the present Governor on this question. I was a member of this House in 1923 when the Snyder-Armstrong act was passed and I remember at that time the Governor put us up on the pillory before the public and he said that every man who votes against my bill and against my wishes is a scofflaw, that he violated his oath and violated the Constitution, that he was an emeny of the flag, that he was an enemy of the country. Yet this first lieutenant of Wheelerism, of terrorism, is now asking you, as members of the Legislature, to take this whole situation and throw it back into his lap for him to do with it practically as he likes. You say, "Oh, yes, but there is a board, there is a commission", but you and I know that whenever there has been any man appointed by this Governor who did not play with the Governor, and who did not agree in all respects with the Governor's wishes, he was suddenly kicked out of office. Think of the political power that is back of it. If I were a cartoonist I would picture this bill having the Governor of Pennsylvania sitting astride a whisky barrel trying to ride his way into the United States Senate. Only a few years ago he tried to ride to the United States Senate on the back of the Anti-Saloon League, and he tried to ride into the United States Senate on the back of the W. C. T. U. Now, after sniffing the wet sentiment all over Pennsylvania, he has changed his course, and he says, "Instead of riding to Washington on the back of the Anti-Saloon League, I am going to ride into the United States Senate astride of a whisky barrel." That is the situation that really confronts us in this bill. Look at the latent power that is in it. Why, ladies and gentlemen, the only customer for whisky in Pennsylvania, would be the Governor himself, even though he might act through his board. There is only one purchaser of liquor in Pennsylvania under this bill, and it would mean that every distillery in Pennsylvania and everyone connected with the liquor business would have to fall down on their knees and lick his boots, the same as every laborer on the highways today has to surrender his citizenship, and fall down and lick the Governor's boots before he can get a forty cents an hour job in this Commonwealth. He says he wants to take it out of politics. I submit to you that of all the Governors, beginning with the first one in 1790, down to the present day, we have never had a Governor in Pennsylvania that played one-fourth as much politics as the present Governor of Pennsylvania. With him it is all politics and it matters not how he advances his political ambitions. If it best can be advanced by teaming with the drys, he is a dry. If it can best be advanced by teaming with the wets, he is a wet. Principle counts for nothing. Political ambition counts for everything. You have stripped yourselves of all your power. I am surprised when I look at the heroes of yesteryear in this hall, in this Legislature. Only a little over a year ago on the Republican side I saw one man after the other rise up and denounce the tyranny of this same Governor. I saw one member after the other in this Legislature rise up and denounce the one-man power in Pennsylvania, and yet here today you are asked to stultify yourselves and to swallow everything that you have thrown out in the last ten years on the centralization of power, and to take this entire question and hand it back into the hands of that same invidivual.

He says "I want to abolish the saloons forever." Now, let us see. Under the Pinchot beer bill of last spring, sponsored by him, we got the "tap room." Well now, what is the difference between a tap room and a saloon? So far as I have been able to discover and so far as I have been able to find out the only difference is the little, round stool. Oh, what a virtue rests in that little round stool! The little round stool makes all the difference in the world between a tap room——a Pinchot tap room as I will call it——and a saloon, and you are now told, after he himself brought back the saloon under the disguised name of tap room, you are now told once more for the seventy-seventh time he is going to abolish the saloon in Pennsylvania. Why, the saloon is here, if you wish to call it a saloon.

My people favor the Brooks High License Law. In my county there was no complaint prior to prohibition. Our places were well conducted, we had honorable men on the bench and they saw to it that the law was enforced in my county and they still believe that the best method of handling this question is by men on the bench who know the applicants, and know most of them personally. Here you would create a commission and you would give this commission of three men the power to decide over this whole Commonwealth from the Delaware River to the Ohio state line and from New York to Maryland, the power to select the men who are supposed to be qualified to conduct these hotels and restaurants. Isn't it ridiculous? Look at the long line of communication; look at the powerful machine you are building. I have said a number of times in this body that the members of this Legislature when they passed the centralization code of 1923 stripped themselves of their power, divested themselves of their power and handed it over into the hands of the Governor. You all know how he abused it. In other words, you handed to the Governor a machine gun, you handed him a rifle, and you handed to him a political scalping knife, and then after you had placed all the weapons in his hands, you got up in a futile way on this floor and attempted to fight him with your fists and your bare knuckles.

Ladies and gentlemen, I want to say to you, as members of this House, that I still contend that this Legislature should be the real law-making power in Pennsylvania. Of course, you have handed over your prerogatives, you have stripped yourselves, and you have complained bitterly about it, but now when you are faced again with the same old problem of centralization, when you are faced again by this same Governor who has no political principles, but the principle of political ambition, when you are asked by him to take this law enforcement problem, this liquor control problem, and turn it right over to him, boot, bag and baggage into his hands and into his lap, you sit here ready to vote "aye" on this proposition and give him the power, and then next week or two weeks from now, when other legislation will come up, you will rise in your seats and futily protest against the tyranny and one one-man political power in Pennsylvania, and virtually strip the Legislature of its real function, that of making laws of Pennsylvania.

I want to call your attention further to the fact that you are here not to represent the administration, you are here to represent the constituents back in your district, and I cannot believe that the average working man who is deprived of his liquor, those drinking whiskey back in your districts, your foremen, your mechanic, your working man—I do not believe you are representing him or giving your thought to him when you stand here today and say, "Here, Governor, here I am. I throw it all into your lap. Do with it as you please." Remember your constituents back home who look to you for the Rooseveltian Square Deal, who look to be treated in the same manner as the select clientele, which you have given careful consideration under this bill, who wants to stand as a citizen, the equal of any other citizen, and who does not want to be told that he must slink off with that quart into some back room and drink it, while your more fortunate brother, in the swanky hotel sits at a table with his wife and drinks his liquor at retail—or with some other fellow's wife, if you please. That is the situation. I want you to think well, because I predict that if you pass this bill the people of Pennsylvania will be heard from, and they will not forget you when the next election comes around next May. I thank you.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have always been opposed to State ownership of State Stores. However, yesterday before a Committee of the Whole, there was a large majority of this House, consisting of a large majority of the Democrats of this House, as well as a large majority of the Republicans of this House, who agreed that the Steedle-Sowers amendments doing away with State Stores should not prevail. The vote, I believe, was 147 to 47. It included, I reiterate, a majority of the Democrats and a majority of the Republicans.

I voiced my opposition to State ownership of State Stores before that Committee, and I feel that the question that now exists before this House is: What are we going to do, what law are we going to enact, and are we going to enact into legislation a law that will become effective on the fifth of December of this year. I say this, that however I am opposed to the principles of State Stores, I believe that the principle involved in this bill with respect to practically every other feature, is a liberal one.

I hope I am not breaking the rules when I say that I sponsored and offered an amendment before the Committee in which a thousand square feet was reduced to five hundred in order that the poor man would not have to go into a large, expensive restaurant to take a drink. I do not believe the principle of this bill deprives the working man of an opportunity to get a drink. I believe he can get it, the same as a poor man today can get a glass of beer under our present law. I say to the membership of this House that we ought to have control of liquor by the fifth of December, and I further say to the membership of this House that there is not any legislation before this House that has been agreed upon that can take the place of the present bill before you. There is no agreement either on behalf of the Democrats with Republicans, or the Republicans with the Democrats that will further any other legislation that could or would be placed before this House.

So I am willing to experiment with the State ownership of stores. The experimental period is for a little over a year. If at the end of that time practical experience shall teach us that State ownership of stores is improper, we will have the opportunity of coming back and changing that law. If the experiment within a year shall prove that State ownership is a proper thing, we will then have the privilege of letting it remain upon the statute books, but do not let us find ourselves in the position where the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment will have become a fact and Pennsylvania will be lagging in its legislation.

My colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Duffy, and several other persons from Philadelphia are going to vote "aye" on this bill. I urge upon this House, for those reasons, an affirmative vote.

In conclusion I say to the gentleman from Berks that if he was, and if his party was opposed to State stores, the time for him to have voiced that opposition in the able and capable manner that he can voice that opposition, was yesterday. Yesterday the Democrats by a majority of their number, as well as the Republicans by a majority of their number, stated they didn't want to oppose the State stores, and today they say, just as the gentleman from Berks, has said, that they are against them. It is an inconsistent argument for any party on one day to say one thing and the next day to say another thing. I said no when the opportunity presented itself. I said I wanted no State stores but when 148 members in this House, representing the majority of both parties, say I am wrong, I am willing to experiment for one year or over.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. I rise to challenge the inference that might be left in the statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia that the Democrats say one thing one day and another thing the next day. I also want to challenge the statement of the majority of the men who spoke on this bill with reference to the mandate of the people. What was the mandate of the people of Pennsylvania on November 7th? It was in accordance with the platform of the Democratic Convention, where in on the surface and above board was written in language plainer than I can express that that party was opposed to the return of the old saloon and that is what the State of Pennsylvania voted for on November 7th.

I am amazed to see the time consumed in the matter of the enactment of liquor legislation control by this House. I say to you, that if we would spend as much time in social legislation and in legislation for minimum wages, prohibition of child labor and things that mean something to the people of Pennsylvania would be better off.

I further state to you that I rise and speak as a wet Democrat, if you please, and I shall vote to support this bill, not because it is the best bill that could be made, but because it is the best avaliable bill at this time and because I realize that this General Assembly goes into session every two years, and that if this bill, as has been properly stated by my friend, Mr. Witkin, is not the proper bill, we have then our authority and power and right to make the necessary changes.

I don't believe that there is a man or woman in this House that can draw and formulate into legislation a measure that would satisfy each and every individual. For that reason and with the hope that any improvements that may be necessary may be properly put into the bill at the proper time, I am going to vote "aye" and I know that many of my Democratic colleagues are going to vote in favor of this bill.

Mr. JOHN J. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am speaking as a Democrat not interested in supporting the Governor, but I have confidence enough in the Democratic party to know that the next Governor will be a Democrat.

The reason that I arise in support of this bill is due to the fact that we who are interested in the welfare of the working class of Pennsylvania know how we have been stopped repeatedly in our attempt to have a vote on old age pensions. We also know the economic conditions existing in the State of Pennsylvania and throughout the nation, and that there are many men forced out of employment at the age of forty-five years and then are thrown upon the human scrap pile. In this bill there is a provision made to see to it that these men have unemployment insurance. I believe that the revenue should be secured from other sources in Pennsylvania, but we know from experience in the past that it is impossible to do that. We know that by the adoption of this legislation millions of dollars can come into the State of Pennsylvania that will eliminate for the time being at least the opposition to old age pensions and start the machinery into motion that will bring about unemployment insurance in Pennsylvania. I challenge any member of this House to say that they have a greater concern for the working men in this State than I have. I have heard the statement made here about the working man who wants his whiskey. I said before on the floor of this House, and I say again today, that I am more concerned in the working man having bread than in his having whiskey, and I submit that the Democratic members of this House that are interested in the working man should take the same view of this matter that I do.

Now, whatever the social legislation, and partciularly the old age pension, and regardless of your alibis, a vote against this bill is going to be construed by others who are interested in social legislation as a vote to prohibit an opportunity to secure funds that will bring about the payment of old age pensions and the adoption of unemployment insurance.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am glad to hear my friend the Democrat cry now "Old age pensions." When I was crying for old age pensions several years ago they didn't voice any cries, and I want to know whether they think it was the Democrats that placed that old age pension proposition on the floor of this House and secured its passage at the last session?

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I heard my good friend from Erie, Mr. Fitzgerald, say that the Democratic Party was against the return of the old-time saloon. Let me say that the Republican Party stands on all fours with that. But you are mistaken, we were not asking for the return of the old-time saloon when we offered the amendment to take out the stores and restore the wholesaler or the package store. The Democratic Party must, as a result of your statement, stand for State Stores; it must be a result of your statement stand against the wholesaler, against the man who sold by the bottle and not by the drink over the counter. You must, therefore, stand against those great merchants who existed in our great cities of the Commonwealth that sold by the case and who in most instances owned their place of business, and now you want to substitute State Stores.

Now, gentlemen of this House, I am in doubt as to whether or not this bill is constitutional. I am in doubt as to whether this bill is well drawn. I notice when I read the title—of course, maybe I am wrong, because I have only had this bill a few minutes to read——but I notice in the title itself it says "confers powers and imposes duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board." I notice the strikeout of "Alcohol Permit." I turned to the bill and went over it and I found no provision in this bill creating a board as set forth in that title. I turn to page 6, Article II, and I find, "General Power's and duties of the Pennsylvania Alcohol Permit Board." Is the Alcohol Permit Board in or is the Alcohol Permit Board out. Is there any portion of this bill saying that this bill now creates the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board? Has the sponsor of this bill overlooked inserting the technical language that is needed to create a board to function? Can you in this way pass this bill? Will you accomplish anything with the bill as it is written? I think not.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill bill, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McClure, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, will the sponsor of this bill, point out in the bill wherein it creates a Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I cannot point it out in the bill for the reason that it is not there, as Mr. Sowers well knows, but I can inform the gentleman that other legislation creating such a board will be passed, creating a board if that will answer his question.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that this bill apparently is not a liquor control bill and due to the fact that it is imperfectly drawn, in fact wrongly drawn, I move you sir, that this house do now adjourn, so that we can prepare the proper amendments to make it a legal and effective measure if the House wants to approve it. I move that we now adjourn until this evening at eleven o'clock.

On the question,

Will the house agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading.

Mr. HUTTON. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question

The motion was seconded by Messrs. McElwee, McKay, Griffith, Schrock, Wade, Wall, John J. Perry, Powell, Flinchbaugh, Peelor, Wright, Peters, Baker, Ederer, Hermansen, Royle, Storb, Forrest, Rice, Shreiner, John L. Holmes, Jones, Surface and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the statements that I made before this House just previously have been practically challenged by one of my colleagues. I merely want to make it brief and state that the Democratic party is not particularly for State Stores. I want to say that they are not for the return of the old saloon. I want to challenge the member——

The SPEAKER. The Chair must of necessity rule that the gentleman is out of order under his question of personal privilege.

Mr. FITZGERALD. May I say to the Chair that I am merely correcting a statement that I am accused of having made.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman under his question of personal privilege, if an incorrect statement has been made, may refute any statements made concerning him.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I just merely want to finish by saying that 58 out of 65 Democrats voted to discharge the committee on old age pensions in the last session, and I will leave the answer to the House.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman upon his question of personal privileges will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, today during the discussion of House Bill No. 10, the sponsor of the bill informed us that before we would vote on the bill we would have the announcement of the personnel of the committee to be known as the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board. Those names were announced from the rostrum since that time the gentleman who was the main source of the defeat of the candidacy of Francis Shunk Brown, announced to the Governor of this State that he would not accept the position, and I should like in turn for the Governor to send to the House, the name of the person whom he will appoint in place of Tom Phillips of Butler.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that he was informed only a few moments ago by a representative of the Governor's office that Mr. Phillips had not definitely turned down the appointment.

COMMITTEE APPOINTMENT

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Flynn, to the following committees: Aeronautics, Game, Legislative Apportionment, Printing, Geological Survey.

The Chair in fairness to himself desires to announce to the members that these committee assignments were requested by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Flynn

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, maybe it is.

And now, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, whether he is a member of the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not think that is relevant. I am not a member of the Committee on Judiciary General, but I was invited by the committee to participate in the hearing, and while I was there I learned, as a matter of fact, that there were no amendments prepared for the bill; and they do not accompany the bill.

Help us to remember always that Thou art near us and that in Thy presence we find the secret of real living; that sorrow, disappointment and defeat cannot cast us down utterly while we abide in Thee. May Thy servants share Thy joy—the joy that can see the rainbow thru the rain, and hear the birdsong across the winter's cold and storms, and follow the highest we know, until we know the highest. In Thy name, Dear Lord, and in obedience to our high commission we advance to the tasks now challenging. May good success crown the efforts of these, Thy servants. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS

MEMORALIZING CONGRESS TO EQUALIZE TAXATION BETWEEN RIVER AND RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

Mr. LANE offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, November 27, 1933.

Whereas In many cases boats on rivers are operated in open competition with railroad transportation and

Whereas Boats so operated are not compelled to maintain rights of way in the manner required of railroads and as a consequence can offer lower rates for transportation and

Whereas The belief prevails that river transportation is not subjected to a burden of Federal and State taxation equal to that imposed on railroads and

Whereas Railroad transportation is essential to the development of the commerce and business of the United States and

Whereas River transportation is in most instances a matter of interstate commerce over which the Federal Government has control therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly memoralize Congress of the United States to enact legislation which will equalize the burden of taxation between river and railroad transportation in order to enable railroads to secure a fair share of the business

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Represntatives of the United States.

RESOLUTION No. 2

Mr. CANNON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 2, Printer's No. 14.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, November 20th, 1933.

Whereas The administration of the Honorable Franklin Delano Roosevelt has set forth a program containing the only hope for the improvement of existing conditions and the bringing back of domestic happiness by restoring employment and affording permanent relief to the people and

Whereas The program has already advanced to success by the creation of employment for those desiring and seeking the same and

Whereas The program of the Federal Civil Works Administration promises work for three hundred thousand wage earners within this Commonwealth and

Whereas In order to bring about a complete return to work of the unemployed it is necessary for the Commonwealth and municipal authorities to cooperate with the Federal recovery program and

Whereas Complete recovery within the Commonwealth must necessarily include the opening and full operation of our coal mines iron and steel mills and all other industries which are now idle and

Whereas Philadelphia the workshop of the world is filled with non-operating industires which can be made to function by a full cooperation with those having in charge the program of our President and

Whereas The safety happiness and contentment of our people demand this cooperation in order to continue rapidly on the road to complete recovery therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby calls upon the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other agencies of the National Government having in charge the carrying out of the President's program to give consideration to the rehabilitation of the closed industries of the city of Philadelphia and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at Washington and to the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

RESOLUTION No. 1

Mr. FLANAGAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 1, Printer's No. 9.

The resolution was read by the Cleark as follows:

In the House of Representatives, November 16, 1933.

Whereas The Government of the United States under the leadership of the President has taken many steps and appropriated tremendous amounts of money to bring this country out of the existing economic depression and

Whereas While leadership is an important factor in any public movement and in the application of the laws enacted by representatives of the people its success in the end depends in large measure upon the wholesome cooperation of the people and

Whereas The backbone of the whole recovery program is in the National Recovery Act which seeks to provide a maximum amount of work at reasonable hours and wages therefore be it

Resolved That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in extraordinary session assembled does hereby extend its sincere well wishes to the President of the United States for the success of his recovery program and extends congratulations for his courage in attempting so comprehensive a program and calls upon all loyal and patriotic citizens of the Commonwealth to support the recovery program wholeheartedly in all its details to the end that economic recovery may be hastened

Resolved that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Our Gracious Heavenly Father, we thank Thee again for another beautiful day. Help us during these days and these nights to see the glory of God as revealed in the firmament. We think we know everything, and we know nothing unless we know Thee and know our own souls. Help us when we go away at this Thanksgiving holiday to not only leave the things that have been worrying us but come into contact with the things that are true and eternal in the love and affection in our homes. Bless all of our loved ones and keep them at this time. Bless the Senate today. Help the members in all they do. Guide them with Thy spirit. Bless us all, we beseech Thee. For Christ's sake. Amen.

Mr. BENNETT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 57, entitled:

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Roads and Highways.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read a bill in place at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. THOMPSON read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 58, entitled:

An Act providing for the appointment of district auditors by courts of common pleas to serve at primaries and elections in certain election districts; defining their powers and duties, and the duties of courts of common pleas, county commissioners, and other officers serving as return boards for primaries and elections; and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Elections.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 17, reported from the Committee on Judiciary General, at today's session without amendment, entitled:

An Act to amend section seventeen of the act, approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws, five hundred seven), entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same; providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes," as amended, by excluding interest bearing accounts in any bank or banking institution, savings institution, or trust company from the provisions thereof.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, for the information of the Senate I would like to say that this bill is well known to every member of the Senate when they know what is in it.

At the regular session of 1933 we passed a bill taking off of savings funds the four-mill tax paid by the depositor. Everyone in the Senate voted for that bill, thinking it was a good measure. It was known as the Einstein Bill. After the bill had been passed and signed we woke up to the fact, on the advice of the Attorney General, that while it was true we had taken the four-mill tax off savings funds, to be paid by the depositors, we had automatically, by so doing, reenacted the law and placed the same four-mill tax on the same deposits, the only difference being that the tax should be paid by the banks or savings institutions instead of by the depositors.

This bill now before the Senate for consideration is a repealer of that measure, and it takes the tax off fully and finally from all savings deposits.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to an inquiry. I have before me the calendar of Tuesday, November 28th, and I do not find the bill on the calendar.

The PRESIDENT. The bill was recommitted on November 23rd.

Mr. BUCKMAN. And I understand, Mr. President, it was re-reported from committee without amendments, therefore, notwithstanding the fact that it is not upon the calendar, I think it is entirely proper that the Senate should vote for it. It has been on a former calendar and the Senators, if they care to do so, may refer to that former calendar. The bill has not been changed since it was printed at that time.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, last evening when I came to the Senate Chamber this bill was handed to me by Mr. Cooper with the statement that it had been re-committed to to the Committee on Judiciary General. After inquiry I found out that at the instance of Senator Homsher it was recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General, although it had been previously in the Committee on Finance. Senator Homsher stated he was willing to have the bill reported to the Senate, and therefore it was done without a formal meeting of the committee.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, on the calendar of Thursday, November 23, 1933, this Senate Bill No. 17 appeared. I am perfectly satisfied that it is also in the file of bills and on the calendar, and those who desire information can refer to Thursday's calendar. The confusion arose because of the similarity of numbers. We have a Printer's No. 17 on page 1 of today's calendar, and that just happens to be the same number as the number of the bill on the calendar of Thursday, November 23rd. That caused the confusion in my mind. Personally I think it is perfectly all right to proceed to the passage of this bill.

Mr. EINSTEIN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, with much pleasure.

Mr. EINSTEIN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, if this bill is really an amendment of section 17 of the Act of 1913?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I think that is correct.

Mr. EINSTEIN. Mr. President, I would like also to ask the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, whether the other section of the bill stands—that is, the repeal of the four-mill tax on deposits?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. EINSTEIN. And this clears up, Mr. President, the four-mill tax not only on the depositors but also on the banks. Is that correct?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, that is correct. It is just what the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Einstein, tried to do at the last session. He tried hard enough to take the tax off of savings deposits, and succeeded in taking it off the depositors and putting it on the banks. This takes it off fully and finally.

Mr. EINSTEIN. Mr. President, perhaps you know the opinion of our Court in Allegheny County. That bill was before them and the opinion was unanimous in the Orphans' Court that the State could collect the tax.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I did not know about that, —and we will not care about that if we can pass this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading of Senate Bill No. 17, entitled:

An Act to amend section seventeen of the act approved the seventeenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws five hundred seven) entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes and in cities coextensive with counties or city and county purposes imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property providing for the assessment and collection of the same providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes" as amended by excluding interest bearing accounts in any bank or banking institution savings institution or trust company from the provisions thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—48

Armstrong,	Ealy,	Lanius,	Roberts,
Aron,	Einstein,	Mansfield,	Salus,
Batchelor,	Fay,	Miller,	Scott,
Baumer,	Frazier,	Norton,	Shapiro,
Bell,	Gelder,	Owlett,	Snyder,
Bennett,	Graff,	Parkinson,	Sones,
Boyd,	Harris,	Pethick,	Sordoni,
Brandt,	Harvey,	Pierson,	Staudenmeier,
Buckman,	Homsher,	Prince,	Thompson,
Chapman,	Howell,	Quigley,	Trainer,
Clark,	Hunsicker,	Reed,	Williamson,
Coyne,	Krause,	Rice,	Ziesenheim,

NAYS—0

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to, and the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, this bill being now on third reading and final passage, an amendment may be made to it without delaying the passage of the bill, as the proposed amendment consists in a strike-out. In other words, there will be no change in the bill except certain words and lines which may be stricken out; and I therefore offer the following amendment to the bill:

Mr. PRESIDENT. I ask unanimous consent to amend section 402, page 17, line 20, by striking out at the end of the line after the word "States" the words: [and has been a resident of this State for at least]; also section 402, page 17, by striking out line 21; also section 402, page 17, line 22, by striking out at the beginning of the line before the word "The" the syllable: [tion].

The amendment was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

Mr. TRAINER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend section 302, page 8, item (j) line 27, by striking out the entire line.

The amendment was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PRINCE. Mr. President: I should like to volunteer a word concerning this bill, not so much to urge its passage which I do not think is in doubt, as to offer one or two reasons why we may congratulate ourselves and the State upon a signally constructive piece of legislation.

For the first time in our history an amendement to the Constitution of the United States has been repealed. The Fifteenth Amendment was a dead letter from the start. The Fourteenth Amendment in its original emphasis has been consistently ignored. But the Eighteenth Amendment has been repealed by an overwhelming verdict of the American electorate. This does not mean that the American people intend to drown themselves in a continental ocean of fermented juice or demonstrate their capacity to absorb malt, vinous and spirituous beverages in unlimited quantity. But it does mean that they have decided that national prohibition is not the way to solve the problem of intemperance. Constitutionally and legally we are now free to make a fresh start, with experience to point out the mistakes of the past and common sense to indicate the course of wisdom and of probable success.

Any method which we may adopt to meet the situation created by the return of liquor is bound to produce revenue for the State. But not every method is equally certain to insure control of the traffic. From the standpoint of public welfare, control is the important thing. Private interest, whether represented by hotels, restaurants, drug stores, or proprietorships of any sort, must not be permitted to stand in the way of that.

Neither extreme drys nor extreme wets are going to be satisfied with the present enactment which must in the very nature of the case embody the spirit of compromise, and compromise is never acceptable to extremists.

Only two alternative settlements of this question are possible or even have been contemplated. These are license and State monopoly. There are objections to both systems and defects in both systems. But the objections are not equally valid and the defects are not equally serious.

The essential weakness of the license system is inherent and ineradicable. It consists in the element of private profit. No matter how upright and fair-minded a man may be, no matter in what business he may engage, he is going to make all he can. In order to do this he must stimulate demand for what he has to sell. Mere things, in and of themselves, are neither good nor bad. They become good or bad according to the use made of them. But this particular commodity, hard liquor, because of the tendency to unwise or excessive use becomes a dangerous article of exchange, and for that reason it is incompatible with public welfare to encourage its indiscriminate use.

Not only would the license system lead to reckless consumption of a dangerous commodity, but it would force liquor into politics and would keep it there. The drys would constantly demand more stringent legislation. The wets would just as certainly insist upon more liberal laws. The Legislature would find itself between a perpetual cross-fire of organized and aggressive lobbyists, and the liquor question would again be precipitated into every local, state, and national election.

Starting now, any method of control is bound to be experimental, with the possibility of radical change by future legislation. That being the case, we ought to initiate the experiment with a method which is not only comparatively free from utilitarian objection, but which would not aggravate the difficulties of readjustment in the event of subsequent change by presenting the problem of what to do with capital legitimately invested in distilleries and breweries. If we should start with license and later adopt the State stores system or outright prohibition, we should have to face the expense of condemnation proceedings and consequent damages. But if we start with the State stores plan and later should turn either to prohibition or to license, no such problem could arise because no such investment rights would be involved.

Personally, I do not fancy the idea of government going into business. But the liquor traffic is not analogous to economic enterprise generally. No other business requires police control. And anyhow, government has always been identified with the liquor business, determining the quality of the commodity itself, regulating the conditions of its manufacture and sale, and sharing liberally in the profits through taxation. In assuming full control the government will also assume full responsibility for a business whose unholy alliances it has already dissolved, and it will recover revenues long diverted to free-booters and racketeers.

For fifteen years national prohibition was on trial. Now liquor is on trial, and it cannot forget that prior to the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment it had been outlawed by more than one-third of the very states upon whose voluntary sufferance it must now depend. In this Commonwealth it is about to come back; not as a private money-making enterprise to revive and perpetuate the scandals of the old regime, but as a State monopoly administered by the government, to protect the people from a dangeorus inmate of their own household, long exiled, whom they themselves have invited to return.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, probably I should make an apology for again asking the indulgence of the Chair and the Senate in matters pertaining to the liquor control question. I find no pleasure in differing in my opinion with my distinguished colleague Dr. Prince, but there are many citizens of Pennsylvania,—I venture to say the majority of the people of Pennsylvania; yes, sir, the great majority of the people of Pennsylvania,—who are opposed to this bill. I believe that that same great majority has come to the conclusion that there is more danger of politics being brought into the question by this system than by the old system which we knew as the Brooks High License Law.

Dr. Prince has mentioned the fact that this bill is the result of a compromise, and while I do not want to differ with the directness of his statement, I owe it to those members of the Senate to say that there is nothing like a compromise in this bill. This bill, and this system, were agreed upon, if the press gave out the correct information, before we were called into session. From the very outstart of the deliberations on this question the Governor of the Commonwealth stated openly that he insists on the State stores system. Repeatedly in discussion and, as is known to my colleagues in the Senate, in committee meetings there were attempts to strike out of this plan the State stores and some other objectionable features, and to return, as far as possible, to the old system.

We have, in this bill, given to a new board powers the like of which do not appear upon the statute books of this State. If it is to be the continued policy of this State of Pennsylvania to create boards and commissions and bureaus; if we, as members of the bar, can no longer look to the pamphlet laws for the law, but must look beyond the law to rules and regulations the character and nature of which we leave entirely to the boards themselves,—if that policy is to continue, let me make the humble prediction that at the present rate, looking ahead twenty or twenty-five years, it will be bureaus that will be in control and not the Legislature or even the Governor of the State.

In other words, there are those of us who believe that this board is given entirely too much power,—and when I mention that I do not for a moment question the personnel as far as we know it today. It is not the individuals whom I question; it is the system to which I object. They are given such sweeping powers in this bill, gentlemen; and I now refer to a new amendment, on page 8, which gives them the right, if you and I have lawfully acquired liquor in our homes, to pass rules and regulations whereby that liquor may or must be concealed or revealed.

There is now in existence, Mr. President, a law in this State which provides that every person in the State, every private individual, if you please, is taxable at $2.00 a gallon. That law, we have been told, will never be enforced. In the first place, because the time may be too short to enforce it. And let me make the appeal to you, gentlemen, that if there is anything that is destructive of the respect for law, it is the open admission that there shall be written upon the statute books of our State laws which are not to be enforced.

In this bill you are giving to a commission tremendous power. I do not question the good faith of the Governor of this Commonwealth. I do not have the least suspicion that he, even if he could, would practice politics through this board; and I want to say that the men who have been recommended are not that type of gentlemen; I have the utmost confidence in the men who, I suppose, will compose this board. But we have got to look into the future.

I differ from the statement that this experiment,—and it has been named such by those who would lead us in our deliberations,—is a good one; and I will tell why it is not a good one. It is a poor one, gentlemen, because it is the most expensive type of experiment that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania could possibly have made. If declared constitutional, it will cost thousands of dollars, yes, it may cost millions of dollars, to put this great system of liquor control into operation. And if it is true that it is an experiment, I again, as a matter of pure logic, would suggest that if in these days of emergency experiments must be necessary, we should cling to that type of experiment which will necessarily produce the least burden on the people of Pennsylvania; and I, for one, would have it known,—and I am not ashamed of the position I take,—that the State stores or departments will not be operated at a profit.

My predictions of a week ago, I think, are entirely justified even now in the defence which the liquor industry is making in the State of Pennsylvania. No one has had the time, or, perhaps, the desire, to look into the legal question involved in the litigation that is now pending; but when by one stroke of the pen you strive to destroy an industry that has a perfect right to be here, you can expect that that industry will fight. They have a right to exist in Pennsylvania. And I am predicting that there will be just the very question that was brought to sight last week.

There are some mirth-provoking, if I may use that expression, provisions in this bill. Naturally, I have no right to discuss a bill unless I call attention to some of the provisions in it; and I say some of the provisions of this bill are mirth-provoking if nothing else. I never knew, gentlemen, that I would be called upon to witness the day, as a member of the State Senate, when we would even attempt to create what has been known as, but is not, a Civil Service Department under the Department of Public Instruction, and to pass upon what subject? To pass upon the qualifications of people who cannot possibly do anything else than sell goods over the counter in packages, or, perhaps, keep books. Civil Service, if you please! Is that necessary?

I remember reading, as a boy, with a lot of pleasure, that when Judge Douglass accused Abraham Lincoln of selling liquor over a bar, or counter, Abraham Lincoln, in that splendid wit and humor of his manner, said, "Yes, that is true. I sold liquor over the counter. But Judge Douglass was on the other side of the counter, drinking it."

Is Civil Service necessary? Well, we call it Civil Service, which it is not; but let me call your attention to the fact that the proponents of that proposition did not themselves, trust the matter to rest entirely in the hands of those who would have that Civil Service, if you want to call it that, in charge. I was amused, and, I think, so were you, when this bill gave to this board the power to prescribe the forms to be used but, for some reason, it was decided that these gentlemen should be limited in their inquiries into the qualifications of these applicants; because the bill contains the statement that they shall by no means ask any applicant to attach his photograph to his application. Perhaps I cannot look into the matter far enough to understand that, but, beyond that, I do not know of any other institution, private or public, in the State of Pennsylvania where the integrity of the examiners of applicants is questioned in the bill itself which creates the system.

I am rather chagrined to find that somebody found it necessary to include in that bill the provisions that all those who take the examination must have their papers numbered, so that the identity of the applicant cannot be disclosed to the examiner until the rating has been passed upon the papers. I say, again, that is mirth-provoking to me.

Who is to appoint these examiners? I do not know whether it is possible entirely to divert the revenues that are to come from this great control bill to the public school system. I do not see any particular logic in the reasoning that it would be proper to collect revenues from the people who engage in the liquor business to build up the public schools. I do not understand why the presidents of the colleges and the universities should be called upon to name these examiners. I would like to know just why that is. And even though the hour is late, even though this bill is to be rushed through, I, for one, invite discussion and debate upon this matter, for the reason that, frankly, I cannot understand just why this system should be made complex. The president or the dean, whichever the language may be, of State-aided institutions are to recommend who the examiner or examiners should be, in order to hold examinations upon subjects which will decide the question of qualification of a man or woman who will sell something in packages over the counter! I would not want one cent of the taxpayers' money to be spent in an effort of that kind; and yet I say that I have been told again and again that this bill will pass.

There may have been surrenders, yes; there may have been people who clung to their own convictions for a while and then yielded to the purposes of those who would rush this legislation through; but I, for one, and speaking for the people of Lehigh County, will continue to oppose it, if I am the only man in this body voting against foolish expenditure of the taxpayers' money to create a system of that kind.

Of course, my views upon some of the provisions of this bill may seem radical. The Senate of the State of Pennsylvania, at the last session, was good enough to act favorably upon an amendment which I introduced in the beer bill, keeping at least a counter, used as a bar, in the bill. And I plead with you, sir, and with the members of this Senate, that just as certain as you do not permit the man in overalls to take a drink at the bar he is going to do it somewhere else. Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, is correct when he said it does not make a bit of difference whether you take a drink standing up or sitting down, and that has nothing to do with the sobriety of the people, nor with the good citizenship of the individual.

But you would even go so far, in this bill, as to say that the restaurant shall be substituted for the saloon. That is the hidden purpose. You will go so far as to say that a man's club, —clubs and social organizations,—shall not be permitted to have a bar. What do you hope to gain by that? Private institutions, yes, under the old Brooks High License Law; but not even included in the bill. Are you going to say to a man, "You cannot have a bar at a hotel; you have got to sit down at a table in the restaurant. And you must do the same thing in your club."

And, talking about clubs, did you notice the new amendment in this bill? If a man conducts a hotel or a restaurant and violates the law in any respect, the Court of Quarter Sessions has the right to revoke that license; and also has the right to revoke the license of any club under its jurisdiction. But why is it? I would like to have someone answer me in this regard: That in addition to giving the right to the Court of Quarter Session to revoke the license of a club there is an additional right given to the Board and only in that instance, to revoke the license of the club. Why, if you please, that added provision?

I have spoken very briefly about the contents of the bill itself which might be deserving of consideration, but I still insist on this: That the only important consideration here is the result that will be obtained; and I know I have no right to ask indulgence much longer, but I want upon the record of the Sate Senate at least my own prediction that if this bill is passed you know what is going to happen as far as liquor coming into the State from beyond the borders of the State is concerned. You do know that by action taken last week at least several thousand persons are already on the point of moving their establishments out of the State. You do know that it has been the purpose of the administration to destroy the liquor industry of this State; and, to a certain extent, that purpose has been fulfilled.

Mere mathematics must have some place in our calculations. Would they seem to you, gentlemen, to be a fair basis for the proving of something by politics at least? Take the present rate of taxation. While we know there is within contemplation an increased federal tax,—a tax of $3.00 has been spoken of,— it appears the federal tax on one gallon of liquor is $1.40. There is an estimate made,—and it is largely my own; speaking of one gallon of whiskey,—that as far as bottling and labor incident thereto, and freight and hauling, are concerned we might safely say that there is another item of $1.25 necessary. There is within the contemplation of the administration a permanent tax of $1.00,—a State tax. I presume you would agree that the distiller should have at least $1.50 for his labor, if he makes good whiskey. I suppose you will agree that he should have a profit of $1.00. These figures have been conservative. The total of those calculations is $6.15; and the States stores, in order to make any profit for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, should charge at least $1.00 a gallon profit, should they not? That makes it $7.00, and you cannot escape the course of those mathematics; and yet you know that within recent days, yes, years, people have been buying liquor at $5.00 a gallon, regardless of quality. So that, my prophecy that there would not be any profit made by the State stores may, perhaps, have more force to it after all.

But beyond this bill, and finally, gentlemen, there is the political background of the entire matter to which I object. Pennsylvania has stood alone among the States, it seems to me, in one thing, and that is, that we do not invite,—yes, and up to this moment we have said we do not permit, the interference of government in private business. Why is it that the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, through its Department of Justice, or through any other department, would, in making its estimates on this proposition, have to go to the Dominion of Canada?

I hate to believe that the State of Pennsylvania, through men who are entirely qualified, are not able to cope with the situation without going beyond the boundaries of the United States. State stores, gentlemen, are unAmerican. It is an un-American doctrine. It is something against which, I believe, the people of Pennsylvania will revolt. At least, they will disapprove in a fashion which cannot readily be misunderstood, whether it is tomorrow or next year or whenever it may come; and I am not speaking of that in a partisan sense. I would rather have,—to speak frankly, sir,—the Republican Party perpetuated in the State of Pennsylvania than retreat one inch in this matter and bring into Pennsylvania for the first time the State Government in private business; and I mean that sincerely. As far as I am concerned, gentlemen, in spite of the fact that the odds may be against the opponents of the bill, I plead with you to remember the traditions of Pennsylvania, and not to surrender now.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not expect to affect the attitude of any member of this Senate, or change any votes; but I do not think that I can go back to my constituents and enjoy my living amongst them unless I say a word in their interest, because I come from a place in Philadelphia which had, prior to the prohibition laws, millions of dollars invested in the liquor business.

The Government of the United States, for the purpose of an experiment, took all those millions and made no compensation to any of those people; and today those distilleries cannot begin to operate because, under the bill which is proposed here, there is no guarantee or assurance of any kind that if they manufacture liquor they will have the opportunity to sell it to the State of Pennsylvania, because there is nothing in the act which provides that even a preference shall be given to those who manufacture liquor in the State of Pennsylvania.

I am not convinced that the argument concerning State stores is valid even though two reasons are advanced why State stores should be encouraged or tried, one being that by means of them profit will inure to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the other that control will be given over the indiscriminate use, or abuse, of liquor.

Now, with regard to the control over the use of liquor, since this bill will permit any hot dog stand to sell liquor, and any hotel in any city may sell liquor openly, either in bottles or in glasses, I think there will be plenty of liquor flowing. So there will be no objection as to that, and I do not see how it can be controlled unless it is contended that the sale by bottles, for consumption off the premises, will protect us from the evils of the liquor traffic; because that is the only function of the State stores here.

With regard to profit, I do not think that there is any necessity, in order to make a profit, to have State stores, because I am reliably informed that there was a tax bill introduced in the House of Representatives which provides for a permanent tax on liquor sold after December 5th, and an amendment to the bill provides that liquor for use outside of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall not be taxed. Also, under a provision of this House Bill No. 10, which is now before us, no tax shall be charged on liquor sold to the State of Pennsylvania. So that, while the State may make a dollar profit from the sale of liquor in the operation of State stores, it could make the same dollar from the receipt of the tax of one dollar per gallon under House Bill No. 8.

Therefore, to my mind, the two important reasons advanced for the sale of liquor by State stores fall by their own weight, when analyzed.

With regard to the bill before us, we are told this will not become a political matter,—that the appointments will not be made politically. I thought my friend, Senator Snyder, was going to call attention to the Civil Service provisions in this act. The first provision is that no one shall be employed unless he shall have complied with the Civil Service provisions of the Act.

The amendment is, first, that the appointments shall be made provisionally up to January first of the coming year; and, secondly, that all employees of the present Pennsylvania Permit Board shall be retained. Supplementing the remarks of Senator Snyder, I can see very easily that when the provisional appointments are made, and applications are placed before the Department of Public Instruction by these gentlemen who want to be employed, and that department is given the opportunity, as it is under this act, to decide from those applications, before examination, which of them shall be examined, that is, which of them have the qualifications, since it will take a man only thirty days' time to learn how to hand a package of liquor over the counter, he will probably, in thirty days' time, have qualified better, in the opinion of the Department of Public Instruction, to perform those duties than the one who has not had the thirty days of opportunity. So that, those who will be examined will be those who have worked thirty days provisionally under this act.

Therefore, I have no faith in the Civil Service provisions of the act. I would rather have no such provision at all.

I could attack a number of other provisions of the act, but will not bore you with them; but just to give you an idea of what hurried legislation means I suggest that you refer to the latter pages of the act, where you will find an elaborate system of local option; and then I call your attention to page 6 of the act, where you will find a simple system of local option. That system is, that the Liquor Board shall have the right to determine the municipalities within which Pennsylvania liquor stores shall be established. In other words, if the Liquor Board at any time, now or hereafter, shall determine that the City of Philadelphia shall not have liquor stores, under the provisions of this act, they can do so. Therefore, if they so determine, the sale for consumption off the premises cannot be made in the City of Philadelphia. Such a situation in the City of Philadelphia may seem to you to be an indication of a far-stretched imagination, but I say it is not only possible but probable, under the provisions of this act, that any city can be deprived of the right of a man to go into a store and buy a quart of liquor, simply because the Board may feel that that city should not have liquor stores.

The other two objections I have to this bill are, first, that it is my impression that under the 27th Section of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania it is prohibited from entering into the business of measuring or examining merchandise; and under the provisions of this act one would think the State is given, and should have, the right to examine the merchandise which it buys, in order to find out whether it is that which the State intended to buy. But the Constitution expressly prohibits the State from measuring or inspecting, or going into the business of measuring or inspecting.

Then there is another provision of the Constitution, familiar to everybody, I think, which provides that the State shall not be subject to debts to private individuals or corporations. Yet every time you go to make a lease, under the provisions of this act, you are incurring indebtedness for the State of Pennsylvania; and these leases may be made, although this is only an experiment, for one year or five years. So that, if the experiment should prove a failure, it seems to me the expenses of the State of Pennsylvania would be heavier than they would be if the State did not have the right to sell liquor.

Now, when these men with previous experience are willing and anxious to go into the business, they take the same chances they have taken before; yet the State of Pennsylvania saddles itself,—unwisely, I say, with long term leases.

In my opinion, therefore, the district which I represent is particularly penalized by the provisions of this bill, because they get no assurance that the distillers they have there can begin to operate with the hope of selling. Secondly, this bill, in my opinion, eventually will meet the constitutional objection of which I have spoken; which will prevent the carrying out of its provisions, and will leave us in the same position that we would be in if we did not pass the bill. It is not, in any sense, anything more nor less than the State of Pennsylvania engaging in a business which, in my opinion, it should not, and which in the eyes of the law, it cannot engage in.

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, I hesitate to follow Doctor Prince, Senator Snyder and Senator Shapiro, but I think it would be very unbecoming on my part if in addition to what I do by my vote I did not say a few words on this bill. I think it was most fitting that the distinguished dry Doctor Prince should be the advocate of this dry bill. I come from a district—and I want to speak briefly about the practical side of this situation—I come from a district representing the entire West Philadelphia. On November 7th we had a vote of 87,869 for repeal, 13,046 against repeal, or a majority of 74,823 for repeal out of the million majority given in the State of Pennsylvania. I cannot help but think and feel that tremendous majority given, given throughout the entire State was notice and warning to all of us in the Legislature as to the feeling of our constitutents on this question; and I think, looking at the political side of this question that we have conditions and questions of politics. This bill is such legislation that this tremendous majority in the State of Pennsylvania never felt would be written or enacted. I am very sure that the great majority of my people down in the meadow section of Philadelphia can never afford to take a drink. With all the frills that we have in this legislation, it seems that this is a dry bill, written by a dry Governor, and for some unaccountable reason sent to a committee in this chamber presided over by a dry Senator. We talk about politics coming into this situation if we got away from the State stores and went to the old Brooks High License. I say to you that this bill was born in politics, raised in politics, and will die in politics; and I feel that everybody who touches this bill will be besmirched with it. I recall in 1896 of playing baseball with him whom we called then Bob Gawthrop. I have watched his career from then to now, and I feel as Senator Snyder does about Judge Gawthrop. I do not have the honor of knowing the other appointee who has tentatively accepted the appointment, but I feel both of those men are honorable and distinguished citizens, and I feel certain Bob Gawthrop has been persuaded to accept the appointment on this commission. What does it mean? It means nothing except the power given in this last amendment to take away licenses from clubs, which power they do not have so far as hotels and restaurants are concerned. There is nothing that they can do, as I see it, but to give a license to somebody who asks for it and draft uncertain questions. I have wondered in my mind whether this whole situation was not designed as the starting-point of a new campaign for prohibition by legislation. Was it not the thought, quite probably, of our distinguished Governor, with his well-known and outstanding and outspoken dry proclivities, was it not possibly his intention first, if possible, to drive out of Pennsylvania the distilleries? And secondly, if possible, to so flood the State of Pennsylvania with liquor by putting it in control of hot dog stands as to start a new campaign of legislation instead of education? It seems to me if we look back over history we have before us three famous R's, the three R's which were responsible for the defeat of the representative for our President of the United States back in the last century. Let me give you three new words for those three R's; repeal, which has come, revolt of the people against the State stores, and the retirement to private life of all those who have the temerity to back this bill. Or let me give you three D's, three D's: the dry deal made between dry Republicans, dry Democrats and dry Pinchotcrats; and let me say to you that the three D's are—the dry deal means defeat for all those who are responsible for it. And let me say to you honestly and sincerely, my friends, I want to see you all back. I love you all. I have most kind feelings for you all. And I would like to see you all come back in 1935. But I will make the same prediction as that of our distinguished colleague from Lehigh county. I predict that you men who do not heed and do not keep in step with the times and do not know what the voters of Pennsylvania meant on November 7th will have very great difficulty, at least at home, in persuading your constitutents that you carried out the mandates of your constitutents when you voted for this dry legislation and tried to renew an attempt now to start where they started many years ago by legislation to defeat the wish and desire of the people, which must be accomplished by education.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

The yeas and and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

RESOLUTIONS

COMMITTEE TO STUDY CONTROL OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES

Mr. ANDREWS offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, November 28, 1933.

Whereas, This House by its action has already passed upon the propriety of dispensing vinous and distilled liquor for consumption off the premises by State controlled stores and of the establishment and management of such stores by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board; and

Whereas, The sale of vinous and distilled liquors for consumption on the premises is a question which more intimately concerns the individual and should possibly be placed beyond the regulatory powers of a board not personally cognizant of local conditions and feelings; and

Whereas, There are communities in which a strong sentiment prevails against the prohibition placed by expected legislation upon the right of individuals to partake of liquor at bars; and

Whereas, The control of the sale of vinous and distilled liquors for consumption on the premises is a responsibility that could more intelligently and fairly be handled by local authorities who better know local conditions; therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee of five members of this House to be appointed by the Speaker shall, immediately after the adjournment of this Extraordinary Session, undertake a study of this question and make a report to this House not later than February 1st, 1935, and shall accompany their report by bills which will have the effect, if enacted, of permitting counties to either adopt the system of sales of vinous and distilled liquors as contained in House Bill No. 10, or to provide for the licensing by proper local authorities of persons or places for the sale of such liquors for consumption on the premises in such manner as the committee shall determine; and be it further

Resolved, That the members of such committee shall be reimbursed for amounts actually expended for railroad fare and hotel accommodations, and shall have the power to appoint and fix the compensation of necessary stenographers, payments for which expenses and compensation shall be made out of an item to be inserted in an amendment to the General Appropriation Bill of 1933.

INFORMATION TO BE REQUESTED FROM STATE EMERGENCY RELIEF BOARD

Mr. HABBYSHAW offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, November 28th, 1933.

Whereas, Under the general rules and regulations issued by the Federal Civil Works Administration of Pennsylvania (No. 1, issued November 20, 1933), it is made clear that local and State Governments are expected to cooperate and contribute to the projects to be carried on under the Federal Civil Works Administration, it being specifically stated in such rules and regulations, paragraph 6, as follows:

"The greater the contribution the local government makes in supplying materials and supervision, the more speedily will this program be put in operation, * * *," and

Whereas, Many local governments in communities in which the need is greatest, are not in a position financially to make any contributions to such projects; and

Whereas, It is of paramount importance that projects be instituted in such communities with the greatest possible speed; and

Whereas, The amount of contributions desired by the Federal agency seems to be about ten per centum of the amount to be expended; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urge and suggest to the State Emergency Relief Board that said board:

(a) Ascertain from the proper Federal authorities the amount of money intended to be spent in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania through the Federal Civil Works Administration;

(b) Ascertain from such authorities the corresponding amount which will be expected to be expended by State and local governments;

(c) Set aside from the funds for relief purposes in the possession, or to come into the possession, of the board, sufficient moneys to enable expected contributions to be made for local relief projects by the State Emergency Reief Board in worthy cases;

(d) Immediately establish and put into effect a system whereby political and municipal subdivisions of this Commonwealth may apply to the State Emergency Relief Board or such agencies as may be established or designated by the board for State assistance to such political and municipal subdivisions in order that they may cooperate with the Federal Civil Works Administration in local civil works projects; and be it further.

Resolved, That since the program for Federal Civil Works is intended to expire of February fifteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four, the General Assembly urges upon the Board the necessity for haste; and be it further Resolved, That copies of this resolution shall immediately upon adoption be furnished the members of the State Emergency Relief Board.

URGING ACTION OF LABOR AND SOCIAL LEGISLATION

Mr. HOOPES offered the following resolution which was wice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, November 28th, 1933.

Whereas, The depression has emphasized the necessity for abor and social legislation such as old age pensions, unemployment insurance, prevention of evictions, minimum wages, estriction of hours of labor, abolition of child labor, regulation of wage payments, and railroad safety measures, and

Whereas, Our Joint Committee to investigate wages and abor conditions of children in the Commonwealth has recommended the adoption of many of these measures and

Whereas, The Governor has included all of these subjects n his call for this special session, and will have us on the pot if we fail to act thereon, and

Whereas, Bills along these lines have been introduced and referred to committees of this House,

Whereas, Although this session is now in its third week, and it is a generally expressed hope that we may conclude our labors within the very near future, several of these committees have held no meetings, and the chairmen thereof, despite repeated requests, have failed and refused to call such meetings, and

Whereas, Our calendars have been very light with the result that the members have been compelled to waste a great deal of time that could have been spent profitably in considering legislation beneficial to the workers of this Commonwealth, now therefore

Be It Resolved, That the chairmen of the Committees to which these bills have been referred are hereby directed to immediately call meetings thereof, and to report measures covering the aforesaid subjects to this House not later than Wednesday, December 6, 1933.

STATEMENT BY MR. FITZGERALD

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a statement at this time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Erie will make his statement.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, my attention has been called to a pink circular issued by the National Woman's Party, that urges the defeat of minimum wage legislation.

The circular is grossly misleading. Particularly do I wish to point out this fact: That the circular is out before the bill is even printed. It has in it many misleading facts that do not exist in the bill itself. For instance, it refers to maximum hours. There is no such thing in the bill proposed relative to minimum wages.

That makes me ask who the wage earners are in this so-called Woman's Party. I would like to find out what industries they represent. I would like to know what they know about wages as low as 47 cents a day and $2.50 per week.

I want to say this, that when an impressive delegation of working women from some sweatshop industry come to me and say that they feel that their Constitutional rights and liberties are being taken away by minimum wage legislation, then, and not until then, will I stop my fight for decent wages and a decent standard of living for women in industry.

As a matter of fact, the National Woman's Party does not represent working women. I shall not venture to say what they do represent, but it is not the working classes.

As a member of the Legislature who has always favored the trade unionism, and who has always fought for decent wages and decent working conditions for the laboring classes, I shall take my advice on labor legislation from such organizations as the Women's Trade Union League and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, the Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and Firemen and Enginemen and Telegraphers and the State Federation of Labor, rather than from the enemies of the working classes, in which category I include the National Woman's Party.

I would ask you, members of the House, to closely scan this bill and see whether you can find anything in the bill that refers to night work, or, as they state in the circular, the maximum hours or anything that would take the Constitutional rights away from certain classes. The bill that I have introduced gives the right to the working class to petition for higher wages, and that is the sense of the bill.

I certainly object, members of the House, to a circular that comes out before the bill is even printed, and I want to know where that information comes from.

I thank you members for listening to my statement.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Journal.

An Act to regulate and restrain the sale importation and use of certain alcoholic beverages conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board the Department of Public Instruction other officers of the State government courts and district attorneys authorizing the establishment and operation of State stores for the sale of such beverages not for consumption on the premises and the granting of licenses subject to local option to sell such beverages for consumption on the premises forbidding importation or bringing of such beverages into the State except as herein provided prohibiting certain sales or practices in connections with and transactions in such beverages by licensees and others making disposition of the receipts from State stores and of license fees and imposing penalties.

and present for concurrence further amendments to said bill.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that Rule 21, which requires amended bills to be noted on the calendar, be in this case dispensed with, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the amendments made by the House of Representatives to the foregoing bill.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Said amendments were twice read as follows:

Amend Article 4, Section 401, page 18, line 10, by striking out after the word "shall" the following: "in the case of a hotel or restaurant and in the case of a club may"; also Section 410, page 23, line 16, by striking out after the word "final" the following: "The Board may also after notice and hearing revoke a club license for any reason which would justify revocation of such license by the Court"; also Section 411, page 24, line 8, by striking out the strike-out brackets before and after the word 'or"; also by striking out after the word "restaurant" and before the word 'licensee" the words "or club"; also line 15, by striking out the strike-out brackets before the word "other" and after the word 'clubs".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the same?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, while I voted against this bill on final passage last evening, I intend to vote to concur in the amendments made by the House for this reason: The amendments made by the House consist of strike-outs of certain amendments placed in the bill by the Senate in three particulars; first, by the strike-out made by the House of certain discretionary powers, particularly the control, was taken away from the licensing of clubs; second, bars are now permitted in clubs; third, the hours during which clubs my remain open have been liberalized. In other words, all of the strike-outs or amendments made by the House make this bill as it is now before us more liberal than it was when it passed the Senate last night; and in view of this situation of the bill and for the further reason that it is very highly important that this Commonwealth should have some regulatory law regulating the sale and traffic in liquor by the fifth of December, by reason of all these facts, nothwithstanding the fact that I voted against this bill on final passage, I intend to vote to concur in the House amendments; and I ask the other Senators on this floor to do likewise.

Mr. REED. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I voted against this bill because I do not believe in the bill, and I have not changed my opinion. However, the bill has passed the Senate by a large majority, and the bill as amended has passed the House by a large majority. I feel, therefore, that under the existing situation I will vote to sustain the bill and the amendments.

And the question, recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the same?
